IKE'S TAX PLAN OFFERS NO CUTS

U. N. Delays Armistice Talks, Drafts New Plan

Time Limit For Acceptance May Be Set

TOKYO, Wednesday, May 20 (AP) — The United Nations Command Tuesday delayed until Monday a critical meeting of armistice negotiators, gaining time to revise a truce plan which may contain a time limit for Communist acceptance.

Details of the Allied plan were secret but informed sources indicated it may involve spot release of North Korean prisoners who refuse repatriation to Communist rule if negotiations break down.

(Authoritative sources at U. N. headquarters in New York said the U. S. has decided to modify truce proposals but the precise changes have not been worked out.)

U. N. C. Asks More Time

The truce talks had been scheduled to resume today after a three-day recess for "administrative" reasons but the U. N. Command asked for a six-day extension in a meeting of liaison officers at Panmunjom.

The U. N. Command said it "desired more time to review past efforts to settle the prisoner of war question and to consider completely the present position of both sides with regard to this important issue."

The Communists agreed to the extension but a communique gruffed:

"This side considers that the negotiations should not be dragged out."

A Peiping radio broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the coming Monday meeting was a "simple but crucial test" of American intentions toward reaching an armistice.

Reds Rejected U. N. Plan

The Communists are insisting that the U. N. Command withdraw a May 13 counter-proposal which provided for re-classifying as civilians and the release after an armistice of 34,000 North Korean prisoners refusing to return to Communist rule.

The U. N. plan provided that 14,500 Chinese prisoners who also say they won't go home should be turned over to a neutral commission for 60 days. If they still refuse repatriation, the U. N. Command proposed to release these Chinese without further delay.

The Reds angrily rejected this plan and declared it destroyed the basis for further truce negotiations.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 19 (INS)—The much-postponed ninth atomic explosion of the current series burst over leaden Nevada skies today, clearing the way for the historic initial firing of the atomic cannon next Monday.

Senate Spurns Freeze Power For President

Two-Year Extension Of Modified Controls Law Wins Approval

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Senate voted today to extend the Defense Production Act for two years in modified form, but it refused to give President Eisenhower broad powers to freeze wages, prices and rents in a national emergency.

The bill now goes to the House for action. Senate passage was on a voice vote.

Before approving the new controls bill, the Senate voted 45 to 41 to amend it so that the President's authority to freeze basic elements of the nation's economy for 90 days in the event of an emergency would be limited to an actual declaration of war or after a concurrent resolution by Congress.

The bill extends for two years from June 30 modified government powers to allocate scarce materials, but only when the material is needed for defense purposes and when failure to allocate it would result in hardship for civilian users.

Congress has already extended general rent controls to July 31 and controls of rents in critical housing areas to next April.

The extension bill would continue government guaranteed "V-loans" as a stimulus for defense production. It also would maintain present government control over certain scarce and critical metals, including tungsten, nickel and cobalt.

Since only Congress may declare war, the roll call vote meant that the President could not act without the consent of Congress.

It was a victory for Majority Leader Taft of Ohio, who had thundered earlier that the freeze authority was "absolutely contrary to the whole theory of a free economy."

The issue was full of paradoxes. In the first place, Eisenhower never asked for the freeze authority.

It was written into the controls bill by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, who contended the President should have some standby powers in these critical times.

Two years ago Capehart was being bitterly denounced by former President Truman for putting what Truman called "an economic booby trap" into controls legislation. Truman asked for repeal of the "terrible Capehart amendments which permitted individual sellers to pass on to consumers all cost increases from the start of Korean War to July 26, 1951.

Contempt Action Is Threatened By Red Probers

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP) — Chairman Velde (R-Ill) said today the House Committee on Un-American Activities is considering contempt charges against various witnesses who have refused to testify about alleged Communist connections.

In turn, a well-known Washington lawyer, Charles E. Ford, threatened to lodge a complaint against Velde with the American Bar Association on the ground the lawmaker had assailed him and the whole legal profession.

Teacher Clams Up

These developments came as the committee, looking for evidence of Red subversion in the colleges, questioned a slender, nervous University of Buffalo (N.Y.) teacher who refused to say whether he was part of a Communist cell at Harvard in the late 1930's.

The witness, Dr. William T. Parry, 44, offered in a letter to the committee earlier this month to testify about his own "past associations or activities," but refused to "play the odious role of informer," as he put it, and tell about the activities of others.

Today Parry, a philosophy teacher, was accompanied by Ford, who has represented a number of congressional witnesses claiming the protection of the Fifth Amendment against testimony that might tend to incriminate them.

Linked With Red Apparatus

Parry, on the same ground, refused to confirm or deny testimony previously given that linked him with a Harvard Red apparatus for several years beginning in 1937.

Urging Parry to reconsider, Velde told him the committee is considering "with a view to citing them for contempt" the cases of several witnesses who previously have refused to answer questions in the current investigation.

Velde didn't name the witnesses or say how many there were. Rep. Clardy (R-Mich), another member of the committee, told reporters quite a large number are involved Contempt of Congress charges, if sustained in the courts, can entail punishment up to a year in prison.

Dulles, Arabian Officials Confer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia, May 19 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Dulles arrived late today at this headquarters center of the Arabian-American Oil Company (Aramco) from Riyadh, where he dined with King Ibn Saud and conferred with Saudi Arabian officials.

After dinner tonight as guest of the Emir (ruler) of the province, Dulles and his party, including Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen, were to leave by plane for New Delhi and the American secretary's first meeting with Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

Elaborate security arrangements have been made in New Delhi to prevent any Communist demonstrations during Dulles' two-day visit. He will make a formal call on Nehru tomorrow and on Thursday they will get together for a private conference.

German POW And Divorcee Who Urged Surrender Wed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 19 (INS)—Harry Girth, 27-year-old escaped German war prisoner who lived in America undetected for seven years, was married tonight to the young resort divorcee who stuck by him when his masquerade was revealed 11 days ago.

Municipal Court Judge Raymond F. Stark, of nearby Ventnor, joined the happy couple in matrimony in a brief two-mintue ceremony in Ventnor city hall before some 36 persons, including reporters, still and newsreel photographers and two police officers.

Best man was John Rex, 29, Paulsboro, N. J., an American veteran who was a prisoner of the Germans. He and Girth met in Atlantic City during the six years Girth was living and working here as a painter under the name of Henry Kolmar.

Mrs. Evelyn Godel, 29-year-old former waitress, was given away in the double ring ceremony by her brother, Rudy Florentine.

Girth announced that he and his wife will probably go to Mexico before his 45 days of grace expire. Immigration officials have permitted him to leave the country voluntarily so that he may apply for American citizenship as an immigrant from whatever country he enters.

Girth's bride persuaded him to surrender to New York police after a national publication ran a picture of him with a fugitive prisoner of war caption.

Argentina Lifts Ban On Incoming News To Services

BUENOS AIRES, May 19 (AP)—The Argentine government opened the way tonight for U. S. news agencies to distribute news in this country again, after having banned incoming news through these agencies since May 12.

Permits of the Associated Press and the United Press to operate in Argentina their own communications stations, suspended by the Argentine Posts and Telegraphs Office, were reinstated tonight by Antonio Navatta, director of telecommunications.

Navatta said the order had come from Communications Minister Oscar Nicolini.

A third U. S. news service operating in the country, the International News Service, did not operate its own station.

Iran To Oust AP Correspondent

TEHRAN, Iran, May 19 (AP)—The Iranian government today ordered the expulsion of Marc Purdue, Associated Press correspondent, for sending abroad what it called "false and provocative news against the interests of Iran."

Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi announced at a news conference that Purdue must leave Iran within three days.

Asked what, specifically, Purdue had reported that was "false and provocative," Fatemi said it was general and gave no details.

Four hours later two detectives, who said they had not been told the reason for the expulsion order, called at the AP office and told Purdue to report to police headquarters tomorrow morning. They said he would then be given an explanation and his exit visa.

Purdue, 39, a native of Evansville, Ind., was not at the news conference. He was covering a meeting of the lower house of the Iranian Parliament, where leading opposition deputies launched three broadside attacks on Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Advised of the expulsion order, he immediately notified the U. S. embassy and tried to get particulars.

Purdue, who has been in this country eight months, is the fifth foreign correspondent ordered to leave since Iran nationalized the Iranian holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in 1951 and became embroiled in a violent quarrel with Britain.

Shaken By Heavy Losses, Red Jets Refuse Combat

SEOUL, Wednesday, May 20 (AP)—The Chinese Red Air Force, shaken by heavy losses in six days of blazing air battles, refused combat Tuesday and its MIG jets fled to Manchuria when U. S. Sabres approached.

Allied fighter-bombers methodically bombed Red transport targets while the MIGs remained in Manchuria licking their wounds from those angry six days—36 MIGs shot down, two probably, and 16 damaged.

MIGs Scurry For Safety

The Reds had been hurling hundreds of jets across the border into North Korea, but the few MIGs sighted Tuesday scurried beyond the Yalu when Sabres hove into view, U. S. pilots reported.

ROKs Smash Red Attacks

In the ground war, stubborn South Korean troops smashed two Chinese Red battalion attacks, each numbering about 750 men, on the Central and Eastern Fronts. A total of more than 400 Chinese Reds were reported killed or wounded.

Elsewhere ground action was light.

The Air Force meanwhile cut short the combat career of the world's leading MIG killer, Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif. After destroying 16 MIGs in 106 missions since Jan. 31, McConnell was told he was "more valuable alive than dead." He was grounded, and ordered to pack up for his return home.

Ridgway Says End To Europe Aid Unsighted

Desire To Rearm Cut Down By Reds' Peace Drive, Senators Told

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—American troops and military aid may be needed in Europe for a long time, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he could not now foresee the time when Western Europe could take over its own defense without help and said Russia's peace offensive is cutting down the European desire to rearm.

Ridgway, who is retiring as commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Europe to become Army Chief of Staff, supported the administration's request for a $5,800,000,000 foreign aid program for the year starting July 1.

No U. S. Withdrawal In Sight

"It is going to take a long time," he told the committee, for Europe "to develop self-sufficiency in the military field" so that American troops can come home.

President Eisenhower, when he was NATO commander preceding Ridgway, had expressed hope that withdrawal of U. S. troops could be started some time in 1954.

As to the European Defense Community (EDC) being able to take over Western Europe's defense alone, Ridgway said "I don't see it for the foreseeable future."

The EDC agreement, now in course of ratification, provides for inclusion of armed forces from West Germany as well as other European powers in a unified military force.

Soviet Peace Gestures Hurt

Russia's peace gestures, he said, have had "a recognizable adverse reaction in certain segments of (European) public opinion" against defense preparations.

Describing it as "a perfectly natural reaction," he said some nations have tended "to put off the evil day of decision on assumption of unpleasant burdens."

Ridgway followed his public appearance with an hour and a half of testimony in secret session, and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) said "he certainly was quite convincing to me."

Wiley said further hearings on the foreign aid bill are unlikely, but the committee will wait at least a couple of weeks before starting to write its own version.

Nigeria Rioting Leaves 46 Dead

LAGOS, Nigeria, May 19 (AP)—Troop patrols restored order today in Kano, the biggest city of North Nigeria, after 46 persons were killed and 204 injured in rioting stemming from an independence movement distrusted by the colon's Moslems.

Barbed wire entanglements set off a no-man's land between embattled factions at the city of 107,000 that once was the main seat of the Hausas, a Moslem people of mixed blood who number millions between Lake Chad and the Niger River.

Kano looked like a battlefield as a result of clashes between the Hausas and workmen they call strangers. These are Southern Nigerian Negroes, both Christians and pagans, who are more advanced both technologically and politically. Twenty thousand of the South Nigerians live in a quarter outside Kano's old walls and work on the airport, railroad and other skilled jobs.

Missing Sister Of Kidnaped Boy, "Lady In Red" Sought

NEW YORK, May 19 (INS)—A two-year-old "cowboy" found wandering in New York's Central Park was identified today as one of two children kidnaped in Washington Friday. The FBI immediately began a search for the boy's missing sister and a mysterious "lady in red."

The boy, Clifton Eugene Bradford, was found in the park some 48 hours after he and his 1-year-old sister were taken from their Washington home by a woman invited into the parents' home after a chance meeting in a restaurant.

Bradford, the distracted father, disclosed that the two children had been kidnaped by a "woman in red" from Washington last Friday night.

He said he met this mysterious woman at about 9 p. m. last Friday night while dining with his son in a Chinese restaurant not far from his home in Washington.

Bradford said the "woman in red" struck up an acquaintance, saying she "loved children."

"I told her," said Bradford, "that I had a baby equally pretty and bright and invited her to my home to see her."

Bradford said his wife discovered that they were out of milk, so he and his wife went to a neighbor's to borrow some milk to tide them over until morning.

When they returned the woman was gone — and so were the children.

Key Republicans Support Ike's Tax Recommendations

WASHINGTON, May 19—(INS)—Key Republican congressional leaders threw their support behind President Eisenhower's tax recommendations tonight.

House Speaker Martin (R) Mass., called the chief executive's proposal for a six-months extension of the corporation excess profits levy, "the only possible thing to do."

Sen. Millikin (R) Colo., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which will handle the tax measure, described Mr. Eisenhower's radio address to the American people as "excellent."

Chairman Bridges (R) N. H., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, called the presidential program "the best that can be offered at this time under the circumstances of our public debt and the need for a balanced budget."

Southern Storm Causes 4 Deaths, Severe Flooding

By The Associated Press

A tornado flattened a tenant house and three barns near Griffin, Ga., Tuesday as a squall line swung northeastward from the Gulf into Georgia and South Carolina.

The twister was part of a general storm that has swept eastward along the Gulf states causing four deaths and severe flooding.

Floods drove nearly 2,000 persons from their homes in Louisiana after week-end storms that sent up to 12 inches of rain splashing down on some places.

Orange, Tex., had 7.55 inches of rain in two days and workmen started adding another foot to the levee as the Sabine River threatened to bring record floods in that area. The flood crest was expected in Southeast Texas next Monday.

Showers continued over the lower Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley, New England and the Pacific Northwest.

Generally fair weather prevailed in the Plateau states and the Northern Plains and in parts of the Midwest.

Temperatures were normal or above in all sections except near the Canadian border where some near freezing marks were recorded.

Ohio Statehood Bill Clears House

WASHINGTON, May 19 — (INS)—The State of Ohio came one step closer today to being admitted into the union—150 years late.

The House unanimously passed a bill formally making Ohio one of the 48 states. Now the Senate must approve the measure, President Eisenhower must sign it, and a congressional oversight will be corrected.

The bill is retroactive to March 1, 1803, when Ohio completed the necessary action to join the union. Until now, however, Congress never got around to passing legislation completing the formalities.

British Motorship In Distress Off Korea

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19 (AP)—The Coast Guard received a radio message today saying the 1,880-ton British motorship Lady Wilmar was in distress 45 miles south of Korea's southern tip.

The message came from the Coast Guard cutter Taney, an ocean station vessel about 700 miles from the Lady Wolmar.

The British vessel messaged that it had hit a submerged rock five miles north of Quelpart Island, in the Yellow Sea, that it was taking water in the engine room and that the ship might have to be abandoned.

Soviet Threat Still Remains, Nation Is Told

Would Extend Profit Levy, Permit Income Tax Reduction Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower submitted to the nation tonight a five-point tax program that offered no immediate reductions in what he called this "age of danger."

Speaking by radio on "an issue affecting all our lives," Eisenhower told the people "we must be strong—and we must stay strong" in the face of perils brought on by the cold calculation of Soviet leaders.

His tax plan, supported that idea by calling for continuation of present income and corporation levies at least for the time-being. It did propose that a scheduled boost in social security taxes, which would take effect Jan. 1, be put off.

It was Eisenhower's first formal speech direct to the nation by radio. And he made advance summaries of it for use later by television and newsreels.

What it amounted to was an attempt to spell out for the people in ABC terms why he believes taxes must remain high even though his administration has promised economy.

No Reason To Alter Course

"We all know something," Eisenhower said, "of the long record of deliberately planned Communist aggression. There has been, to this moment, no reason to believe that Soviet policy has changed its frequently announced hope and purpose—the destruction of freedom everywhere.

"There is, therefore, no reason for the free nations to alter their course: To hope and work for the best, to arm and be ready for the worst."

He went on to explain that the Soviet threat is more than a mere military threat—Communist guns . . . have been "aiming at an economic target—no less than a military target."

Defense of the nation, the President said, must be borne for a long, indefinite time. He said it cannot "consist of sudden, blind responses to a series of fire alarm emergencies."

In this "age of peril," he said this is the tax program he is recommending to Congress:

Would Extend Profits Tax

1. The present excess profits tax on corporations, now scheduled to end June 30, should be extended for six months. Eisenhower estimated this will bring in a revenue of 800 million dollars.

2. The 5 per cent reduction—from 52 to 57 per cent—in the regular corporate income tax, now set for next April 1, should be repealed. Keeping the tax, the President estimated, will bring in two billion dollars a year.

3. A cut in excise taxes scheduled for April 1 whould be postponed until after he has made specific recommendations to Congress next January for a sounder excise tax system.

4. A boost in the old age security tax from 1½ to 2 per cent on both employes and employers, scheduled for next Jan. 1, should be postponed. Eisenhower said the old age and survivors trust fund now holds 18 billion dollars and present tax rates are bringing in receipts in excess of expenditures.

5. A 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes, now set for Jan. 1, should go through—but no earlier than that.

Eisenhower said that he believes—and thinks Russia realizes—that the United States could meet and win any military challenge if forced to total mobilization today. But he said, too:

"The truth is that our danger cannot be fixed or confined to one specific instant

"We live in an age of peril.

"We must think and plan and provide so as to live through this age in freedom—in ways that do not undermine our freedom even as we strive to defend it."

Interior Department Will Dismiss 2,098

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Interior Department said today it is giving dismissal notices to 2,098 employees. The department had 56,178 employees on March 31.

However, officials said some of the employes receiving 30-day notices may be retained on the pay roll through shifts into other jobs or if the Senate approves more money for the department in the year starting July 1 than the House voted.

The reclamation bureau is giving notice to 1,182 employees in all grades.

The issue was full of paradoxes. In the first place, Eisenhower never asked for the freeze authority.

It was written into the controls bill by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, who contended the President should have some standby powers in these critical times.

Two years ago Capehart was being bitterly denounced by former President Truman for putting what Truman called "an economic booby trap" into controls legislation. Truman asked for repeal of the "terrible Capehart amendments which permitted individual sellers to pass on to consumers all cost increases from the start of Korean War to July 26, 1951.

Dulles, Arabian Officials Confer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia, May 19 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Dulles arrived late today at this headquarters center of the Arabian-American Oil Company (Aramco) from Riyadh, where he dined with King Ibn Saud and conferred with Saudi Arabian officials.

After dinner tonight as guest of the Emir (ruler) of the province, Dulles and his party, including Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen, were to leave by plane for New Delhi and the American secretary's first meeting with Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

Elaborate security arrangements have been made in New Delhi to prevent any Communist demonstrations during Dulles' two-day visit. He will make a formal call on Nehru tomorrow and on Thursday they will get together for a private conference.

German POW And Divorcee Who Urged Surrender Wed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 19 (INS)—Harry Girth, 27-year-old escaped German war prisoner who lived in America undetected for seven years, was married tonight to the young resort divorcee who stuck by him when his masquerade was revealed 11 days ago.

Municipal Court Judge Raymond F. Stark, of nearby Ventnor, joined the happy couple in matrimony in a brief two-mintue ceremony in Ventnor city hall before some 36 persons, including reporters, still and newsreel photographers and two police officers.

Best man was John Rex, 29, Paulsboro, N. J., an American veteran who was a prisoner of the Germans. He and Girth met in Atlantic City during the six years Girth was living and working here as a painter under the name of Henry Kolmar.

Mrs. Evelyn Godel, 29-year-old former waitress, was given away in the double ring ceremony by her brother, Rudy Florentine.

Girth announced that he and his wife will probably go to Mexico before his 45 days of grace expire. Immigration officials have permitted him to leave the country voluntarily so that he may apply for American citizenship as an immigrant from whatever country he enters.

Girth's bride persuaded him to surrender to New York police after a national publication ran a picture of him with a fugitive prisoner of war caption.

Reunion In New York

Clifton Eugene Bradford, Washington, D. C., kisses his son, Clifton, Jr., two, after he identified the child at Children's Center in New York yesterday. The lad was found wandering near the Central Park zoo Sunday after having been reported missing with his one-year-old sister, Diane, and a blonde last Friday. The blonde is being sought in a 13-state area as the possible kidnaper of the children. (Story at bottom of page)

Argentina Lifts Ban On Incoming News To Services

BUENOS AIRES, May 19 (AP)—The Argentine government opened the way tonight for U. S. news agencies to distribute news in this country again, after having banned incoming news through these agencies since May 12.

Permits of the Associated Press and the United Press to operate in Argentina their own communications stations, suspended by the Argentine Posts and Telegraphs Office, were reinstated tonight by Antonio Navatta, director of telecommunications.

Navatta said the order had come from Communications Minister Oscar Nicolini.

A third U. S. news service operating in the country, the International News Service, did not operate its own station.

Iran To Oust AP Correspondent

TEHRAN, Iran, May 19 (AP)—The Iranian government today ordered the expulsion of Marc Purdue, Associated Press correspondent, for sending abroad what it called "false and provocative news against the interests of Iran."

Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi announced at a news conference that Purdue must leave Iran within three days.

Asked what, specifically, Purdue had reported that was "false and provocative," Fatemi said it was general and gave no details.

Four hours later two detectives, who said they had not been told the reason for the expulsion order, called at the AP office and told Purdue to report to police headquarters tomorrow morning. They said he would then be given an explanation and his exit visa.

Purdue, 39, a native of Evansville, Ind., was not at the news conference. He was covering a meeting of the lower house of the Iranian Parliament, where leading opposition deputies launched three broadside attacks on Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Advised of the expulsion order, he immediately notified the U. S. embassy and tried to get particulars.

Purdue, who has been in this country eight months, is the fifth foreign correspondent ordered to leave since Iran nationalized the Iranian holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in 1951 and became embroiled in a violent quarrel with Britain.

Shaken By Heavy Losses, Red Jets Refuse Combat

SEOUL, Wednesday, May 20 (AP)—The Chinese Red Air Force, shaken by heavy losses in six days of blazing air battles, refused combat Tuesday and its MIG jets fled to Manchuria when U. S. Sabres approached.

Allied fighter-bombers methodically bombed Red transport targets while the MIGs remained in Manchuria licking their wounds from those angry six days—36 MIGs shot down, two probably, and 16 damaged.

MIGs Scurry For Safety

The Reds had been hurling hundreds of jets across the border into North Korea, but the few MIGs sighted Tuesday scurried beyond the Yalu when Sabres hove into view, U. S. pilots reported.

ROKs Smash Red Attacks

In the ground war, stubborn South Korean troops smashed two Chinese Red battalion attacks, each numbering about 750 men, on the Central and Eastern Fronts. A total of more than 400 Chinese Reds were reported killed or wounded.

Elsewhere ground action was light.

The Air Force meanwhile cut short the combat career of the world's leading MIG killer, Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif. After destroying 16 MIGs in 106 missions since Jan. 31, McConnell was told he was "more valuable alive than dead." He was grounded, and ordered to pack up for his return home.

"Gift" For Elizabeth

KATMANDU, Nepal, May 19 (INS)—The British expedition trying to climb 29,002-foot Mt. Everest was said today to be hopeful of conquering the world's highest peak as a coronation "gift" for Queen Elizabeth II.

The expedition yesterday began the final assault.

Ridgway Says End To Europe Aid Unsighted

Desire To Rearm Cut Down By Reds' Peace Drive, Senators Told

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—American troops and military aid may be needed in Europe for a long time, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he could not now foresee the time when Western Europe could take over its own defense without help and said Russia's peace offensive is cutting down the European desire to rearm.

Ridgway, who is retiring as commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Europe to become Army Chief of Staff, supported the administration's request for a $5,800,000,000 foreign aid program for the year starting July 1.

No U. S. Withdrawal In Sight

"It is going to take a long time," he told the committee, for Europe "to develop self-sufficiency in the military field" so that American troops can come home.

President Eisenhower, when he was NATO commander preceding Ridgway, had expressed hope that withdrawal of U. S. troops could be started some time in 1954.

As to the European Defense Community (EDC) being able to take over Western Europe's defense alone, Ridgway said "I don't see it for the foreseeable future."

The EDC agreement, now in course of ratification, provides for inclusion of armed forces from West Germany as well as other European powers in a unified military force.

Soviet Peace Gestures Hurt

Russia's peace gestures, he said, have had "a recognizable adverse reaction in certain segments of (European) public opinion" against defense preparations.

Describing it as "a perfectly natural reaction," he said some nations have tended "to put off the evil day of decision on assumption of unpleasant burdens."

Ridgway followed his public appearance with an hour and a half of testimony in secret session, and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) said "he certainly was quite convincing to me."

Wiley said further hearings on the foreign aid bill are unlikely, but the committee will wait at least a couple of weeks before starting to write its own version.

Nigeria Rioting Leaves 46 Dead

LAGOS, Nigeria, May 19 (AP)—Troop patrols restored order today in Kano, the biggest city of North Nigeria, after 46 persons were killed and 204 injured in rioting stemming from an independence movement distrusted by the colon's Moslems.

Barbed wire entanglements set off a no-man's land between embattled factions at the city of 107,000 that once was the main seat of the Hausas, a Moslem people of mixed blood who number millions between Lake Chad and the Niger River.

Kano looked like a battlefield as a result of clashes between the Hausas and workmen they call strangers. These are Southern Nigerian Negroes, both Christians and pagans, who are more advanced both technologically and politically. Twenty thousand of the South Nigerians live in a quarter outside Kano's old walls and work on the airport, railroad and other skilled jobs.

Missing Sister Of Kidnaped Boy, "Lady In Red" Sought

NEW YORK, May 19 (INS)—A two-year-old "cowboy" found wandering in New York's Central Park was identified today as one of two children kidnaped in Washington Friday. The FBI immediately began a search for the boy's missing sister and a mysterious "lady in red."

The boy, Clifton Eugene Bradford, was found in the park some 48 hours after he and his 1-year-old sister were taken from their Washington home by a woman invited into the parents' home after a chance meeting in a restaurant.

Bradford, the distracted father, disclosed that the two children had been kidnaped by a "woman in red" from Washington last Friday night.

He said he met this mysterious woman at about 9 p. m. last Friday night while dining with his son in a Chinese restaurant not far from his home in Washington.

Bradford said the "woman in red" struck up an acquaintance, saying she "loved children."

"I told her," said Bradford, "that I had a baby equally pretty and bright and invited her to my home to see her."

Bradford said his wife discovered that they were out of milk, so he and his wife went to a neighbor's to borrow some milk to tide them over until morning.

When they returned the woman was gone — and so were the children.

Key Republicans Support Ike's Tax Recommendations

WASHINGTON, May 19—(INS)—Key Republican congressional leaders threw their support behind President Eisenhower's tax recommendations tonight.

House Speaker Martin (R) Mass., called the chief executive's proposal for a six-months extension of the corporation excess profits levy, "the only possible thing to do."

Sen. Millikin (R) Colo., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which will handle the tax measure, described Mr. Eisenhower's radio address to the American people as "excellent."

Chairman Bridges (R) N. H., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, called the presidential program "the best that can be offered at this time under the circumstances of our public debt and the need for a balanced budget."

Southern Storm Causes 4 Deaths, Severe Flooding

By The Associated Press

A tornado flattened a tenant house and three barns near Griffin, Ga., Tuesday as a squall line swung northeastward from the Gulf into Georgia and South Carolina.

The twister was part of a general storm that has swept eastward along the Gulf states causing four deaths and severe flooding.

Floods drove nearly 2,000 persons from their homes in Louisiana after week-end storms that sent up to 12 inches of rain splashing down on some places.

Orange, Tex., had 7.55 inches of rain in two days and workmen started adding another foot to the levee as the Sabine River threatened to bring record floods in that area. The flood crest was expected in Southeast Texas next Monday.

Showers continued over the lower Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley, New England and the Pacific Northwest.

Generally fair weather prevailed in the Plateau states and the Northern Plains and in parts of the Midwest.

Ohio Statehood Bill Clears House

WASHINGTON, May 19 — (INS) —The State of Ohio came one step closer today to being admitted into the union—150 years late.

The House unanimously passed a bill formally making Ohio one of the 48 states. Now the Senate must approve the measure, President Eisenhower must sign it, and a congressional oversight will be corrected.

The bill is retroactive to March 1, 1803, when Ohio completed the necessary action to join the union. Until now, however, Congress never got around to passing legislation completing the formalities.

British Motorship In Distress Off Korea

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19 (AP)—The Coast Guard received a radio message today saying the 1,880-ton British motorship Lady Wilmar was in distress 45 miles south of Korea's southern tip.

The message came from the Coast Guard cutter Taney, an ocean station vessel about 700 miles from the Lady Wolmar.

The British vessel messaged that it had hit a submerged rock five miles north of Quelpart Island, in the Yellow Sea, that it was taking water in the engine room and that the ship might have to be abandoned.

Soviet Threat Still Remains, Nation Is Told

Would Extend Profit Levy, Permit Income Tax Reduction Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower submitted to the nation tonight a five-point tax program that offered no immediate reductions in what he called this "age of danger."

Speaking by radio on "an issue affecting all our lives," Eisenhower told the people "we must be strong—and we must stay strong" in the face of perils brought on by the cold calculation of Soviet leaders.

His tax plan, supported that idea by calling for continuation of present income and corporation levies at least for the time-being. It did propose that a scheduled boost in social security taxes, which would take effect Jan. 1, be put off.

It was Eisenhower's first formal speech direct to the nation by radio. And he made advance summaries of it for use later by television and newsreels.

What it amounted to was an attempt to spell out for the people in ABC terms why he believes taxes must remain high even though his administration has promised economy.

No Reason To Alter Course

"We all know something," Eisenhower said, "of the long record of deliberately planned Communist aggression. There has been, to this moment, no reason to believe that Soviet policy has changed its frequently announced hope and purpose—the destruction of freedom everywhere.

"There is, therefore, no reason for the free nations to alter their course: To hope and work for the best, to arm and be ready for the worst."

He went on to explain that the Soviet threat is more than a mere military threat—Communist guns . . . have been "aiming at an economic target—no less than a military target."

Defense of the nation, the President said, must be borne for a long, indefinite time. He said it cannot "consist of sudden, blind responses to a series of fire alarm emergencies."

In this "age of peril," he said this is the tax program he is recommending to Congress:

Would Extend Profits Tax

1. The present excess profits tax on corporations, now scheduled to end June 30, should be extended for six months. Eisenhower estimated this will bring in a revenue of 800 million dollars.

2. The 5 per cent reduction—from 52 to 57 per cent—in the regular corporate income tax, now set for next April 1, should be repealed. Keeping the tax, the President estimated, will bring in two billion dollars a year.

3. A cut in excise taxes scheduled for April 1 whould be postponed until after he has made specific recommendations to Congress next January for a sounder excise tax system.

4. A boost in the old age security tax from 1½ to 2 per cent on both employes and employers, scheduled for next Jan. 1, should be postponed. Eisenhower said the old age and survivors trust fund now holds 18 billion dollars and present tax rates are bringing in receipts in excess of expenditures.

5. A 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes, now set for Jan. 1, should go through—but no earlier than that.

Eisenhower said that he believes —and thinks Russia realizes— that the United States could meet and win any military challenge if forced to total mobilization today. But he said, too:

"The truth is that our danger cannot be fixed or confined to one specific instant

"We live in an age of peril.

"We must think and plan and provide so as to live through this age in freedom—in ways that do not undermine our freedom even as we strive to defend it."

Interior Department Will Dismiss 2,098

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Interior Department said today it is giving dismissal notices to 2,098 employees. The department had 56,178 employees on March 31.

However, officials said some of the employes receiving 30-day notices may be retained on the pay roll through shifts into other jobs or if the Senate approves more money for the department in the year starting July 1 than the House voted.

The reclamation bureau is giving notice to 1,182 employees in all grades.

Churchill-Russia Contact On Peace Talks Reported

LONDON, May 19 (AP)—Responsible British sources said tonight Prime Minister Churchill has informally taken up with Russia the idea of promoting a Big Three conference to insure world peace and that his move has met with Russian approval.

If there is no sharp change in the international situation, these informants said, the Russians are expected in the next three weeks or so to propose that Premier Georgi N. Malenkov, President Eisenhower and Churchill get together at some point between Moscow and Washington.

Potsdam was the site of the last such Big Three meeting, in 1945.

The new Soviet ambassador to Britain, Jacob A. Malik, may broach the matter formally when he meets Churchill after presenting his credentials May 28 to Queen Elizabeth II.

The informants, who insisted on anonymity, said American leaders are being kept informed about the Anglo-Russian contacts.

(In Washington the State Department press office said it had no knowledge of any informal contact by Churchill with the Soviet government looking toward a Big Three meeting.

(In fact officials said, the United States was not particularly interested in a meeting between only the leaders of Britain, the U. S. and Russia. This implied that France and possibly other friendly nations should have some role or representation in any such talks.)

Eisenhower Planning Liberal Trade Policy

VIENNA, Austria, May 19 (AP)—The United States delegation advised the Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce today that President Eisenhower is "determined to take constructive action" toward inaugurating a liberal trade policy.

Warren Lee Pierson, airline executive and head of the U. S. delegation said he had "never been more optimistic over the prospect that American trade policies will gradually become less restrictive and more liberal."

Pierson outlined the situation in the United States as the Russians expressed a sudden interest in the gathering of business men from 35 nations by sending two economic specialists as observers. The commander of Soviet Forces in Austria, Lt. Gen. V. I. Sviridov, only yesterday pointedly ignored an invitation to attend the opening session.

Engineer Accused Of False Statement

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation office here said Fred Joseph Kitty, 35, employed as an engineer at Elizabeth, N. J., was arrested there today on charges of failing to disclose on a security questionnaire he was at one time a member of the International Workers Organization.

The FBI said Kitty was arrested at the General Instrument Corp. at Elizabeth. They gave his address as 17 Burchfield Ave., Cranford, N. J.

The announcement by S.S.Alden, special agent in charge of the Baltimore office, said a federal bench warrant had been issued by the U. S. District Court based on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury today.

The indictment charged Kitty with making a false statement on a personnel security questionnaire for the U. S. Air Force on May 23, 1950 in connection with his employment at the Bendix Radio Division of the Bendix Aviation Corp. at nearby Towson, Md.

PLANE IS FLOOD VICTIM — This plane from the Alexandria (La.) Air Force Base, being used as a spotter plane for the flood areas, became a victim of the flood when it skidded off the highway into the water while attempting a landing on the road. None of the three occupants were seriously injured.

Ex-Trooper's Charge Denied

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 19 (AP)—A former state trooper told Anne Arundel County Commissioners today that Police Chief M. Daniel Bratton had "certain information" to solve the three-year-old slaying of used car dealer Elmer Bright but refused to use it.

Bratton went before the Commissioners immediately to deny the charges and denounce the ex-trooper, John J. Harbaugh now an operator of a Glen Burnie employment office.

Bratton also denied Harbaugh's charge that he had "forced" a policeman to resign who could have broken the Bright case.

The chief said Bright was slain before he became head of the Anne Arundel County force. "But," he added, "if I possessed information that could break the Bright case, I would most certainly do so."

The exchange came after Harbaugh, a trooper for six years before he retired in 1950, complained to the Commissioners that efficiency and morale on the force "have gone to pot" under Bratton's leadership.

Execution Of Rapist Is Postponed Again At McKeldin Request

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP) — The hanging of a convicted rapist was postponed for the second time today at the request of Gov. McKeldin.

Judge Herman M. Moser set the week of June 1 for the execution of Leroy White, 22-year-old Negro, sentenced last July to hang for an attack on two Negro women.

White lost an appeal and Judge Moser at first set the week of May 4 for his execution. This was postponed until the current week when an attorney for White notified the court he had asked McKeldin to commute the sentence.

Today's further postponement came as the result of a letter to the court from Thomas S. Carr, executive assistant to McKeldin. The letter indicated McKeldin is having an investigation made in connection with the plea for commutation.

Vote For Detrick Residents Sought

ANNAPOLIS, May 19 (AP)—State lawyers today told residents of a federal reservation near Frederick they should appeal to Congress for restoration of their voting rights in Maryland.

The state also told them the matter is a legislative one, rather than judicial. And that it is a question for Congress rather than for the state legislature.

Four plaintiffs representing 300 Camp Detrick families have asked for voting rights under the "taxation without representation" principle.

Lawyers for the voteless Detrick residents argued that Detrick is "outside of Maryland" if they are not eligible for appointments as notaries public.

They said a decision contrary to this thinking would result in many defective acknowledgements, oaths, etc., by some notaries now performing duties at Detrick and other federal reservations in the state.

The case was tried earlier in Frederick County Circuit Court, whose judge advised an appeal to Congress, the same course being recommended by the Court of Appeals.

The state says that civilians living on government reservations can't vote, they protested, yet it expects these same persons to pay state income taxes, sales taxes, automobile titling taxes and other state levies.

Housewife Reports Assault By Negro

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)—A 34-year-old housewife told police today that a knife-wielding man raped her in her home and then fled on a bicycle.

The woman said a Negro man had come to the door and asked her if "Blackie" were there. She said she told him no one lived there by that name and that he then pulled a knife and said he was either going to kill her or attack her.

She said he fled from the house after the assault and rode away on a red bicycle parked nearby. Her screams attracted passers-by who called police.

Annapolis Mayor Wins Reelection

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 19 (AP)—Arthur G. Ellington, was re-elected Mayor of Annapolis in a race among Navy men today.

The 55-year-old retired chief warrant officer won his first full term as head of the state capitol's municipal government by a 492-vote margin over Republican Glen L. Vaughan.

More than half the city's voters turned out on a rainy day to elect five Democrats and three Republicans as alderman to take office with the mayor on July 20.

The city council which now numbers 11 Democrats and five Republicans will be cut in half with the new regime.

Ellington, a native of Thomson, Ga., polled 2,401 votes to 1,909 for Vaughan and 1,298 for E. Kendall Barber, an independent.

Vaughan also is a former warrant officer. Barber is a civilian employe with the Naval Academy's department of ordnance and gunnery.

Publisher's Funeral To Be Held Thursday

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)-Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon in St. David's Protestant Episcopal Church here for William Malone Baskervill, editor and publisher of the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American.

Baskervill died Monday night of a heart ailment, which apparently developed several months ago while he was vacationing in Florida. He was 65.

The funeral services at the church will start at 2 p.m. (EDT). The officiating minister will be the Rev. Dr. George A. Taylor, rector of St. David's.

Burial will follow in Woodlawn cemetery.

U. N. Secretary General 'Cautiously Optimistic'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 19 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the U. N., said here today he was "cautiously optimistic" about the present world situation.

He made the statement at a news conference at the Swedish Foreign Office, but did not elaborate.

He answered most questions from press men with "No comment."

"I'm much like an oyster," he said from behind a huge cloud of smoke from his pipe, "I don't want to make any statement unless I feel that it has a constructive purpose and I hope the press will respect that point of view."

PLANE IS FLOOD VICTIM — This plane from the Alexandria (La.) Air Force Base, being used as a spotter plane for the flood areas, became a victim of the flood when it skidded off the highway into the water while attempting a landing on the road. None of the three occupants were seriously injured.

Ex-Trooper's Charge Denied

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 19 (AP)—A former state trooper told Anne Arundel County Commissioners today that Police Chief M. Daniel Bratton had "certain information" to solve the three-year-old slaying of used car dealer Elmer Bright but refused to use it.

Bratton went before the Commissioners immediately to deny the charges and denounce the ex-trooper, John J. Harbaugh now an operator of a Glen Burnie employment office.

Bratton also denied Harbaugh's charge that he had "forced" a policeman to resign who could have broken the Bright case.

The chief said Bright was slain before he became head of the Anne Arundel County force. "But," he added, "if I possessed information that could break the Bright case, I would most certainly do so."

The exchange came after Harbaugh, a trooper for six years before he retired in 1950, complained to the Commissioners that efficiency and morale on the force "have gone to pot" under Bratton's leadership.

Execution Of Rapist Is Postponed Again At McKeldin Request

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP) — The hanging of a convicted rapist was postponed for the second time today at the request of Gov. McKeldin.

Judge Herman M. Moser set the week of June 1 for the execution of Leroy White, 22-year-old Negro, sentenced last July to hang for an attack on two Negro women.

White lost an appeal and Judge Moser at first set the week of May 4 for his execution. This was postponed until the current week when an attorney for White notified the court he had asked McKeldin to commute the sentence.

Today's further postponement came as the result of a letter to the court from Thomas S. Carr, executive assistant to McKeldin. The letter indicated McKeldin is having an investigation made in connection with the plea for commutation.

Vote For Detrick Residents Sought

ANNAPOLIS, May 19 (AP)—State lawyers today told residents of a federal reservation near Frederick they should appeal to Congress for restoration of their voting rights in Maryland.

The state also told them the matter is a legislative one, rather than judicial. And that it is a question for Congress rather than for the state legislature.

Four plaintiffs representing 300 Camp Detrick families have asked for voting rights under the "taxation without representation" principle.

Lawyers for the voteless Detrick residents argued that Detrick is "outside of Maryland" if they are not eligible for appointments as notaries public.

They said a decision contrary to this thinking would result in many defective acknowledgements, oaths, etc., by some notaries now performing duties at Detrick and other federal reservations in the state.

The case was tried earlier in Frederick County Circuit Court, whose judge advised an appeal to Congress, the same course being recommended by the Court of Appeals.

The state says that civilians living on government reservations can't vote, they protested, yet it expects these same persons to pay state income taxes, sales taxes, automobile titling taxes and other state levies.

Housewife Reports Assault By Negro

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)—A 34-year-old housewife told police today that a knife-wielding man raped her in her home and then fled on a bicycle.

The woman said a Negro man had come to the door and asked her if "Blackie" were there. She said she told him no one lived there by that name and that he then pulled a knife and said he was either going to kill her or attack her.

She said he fled from the house after the assault and rode away on a red bicycle parked nearby. Her screams attracted passers-by who called police.

Annapolis Mayor Wins Reelection

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 19 (AP)—Arthur G. Ellington, was re-elected Mayor of Annapolis in a race among Navy men today.

The 55-year-old retired chief warrant officer won his first full term as head of the state capitol's municipal government by a 492-vote margin over Republican Glen L. Vaughan.

More than half the city's voters turned out on a rainy day to elect five Democrats and three Republicans as alderman to take office with the mayor on July 20.

The city council which now numbers 11 Democrats and five Republicans will be cut in half with the new regime.

Ellington, a native of Thomson, Ga., polled 2,401 votes to 1,909 for Vaughan and 1,298 for E. Kendall Barber, an independent.

Vaughan also is a former warrant officer. Barber is a civilian employe with the Naval Academy's department of ordnance and gunnery.

Publisher's Funeral To Be Held Thursday

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)-Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon in St. David's Protestant Episcopal Church here for William Malone Baskervill, editor and publisher of the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American.

Baskervill died Monday night of a heart ailment, which apparently developed several months ago while he was vacationing in Florida. He was 65.

The funeral services at the church will start at 2 p.m. (EDT). The officiating minister will be the Rev. Dr. George A. Taylor, rector of St. David's.

Burial will follow in Woodlawn cemetery.

U. N. Secretary General 'Cautiously Optimistic'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 19 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the U. N., said here today he was "cautiously optimistic" about the present world situation.

He made the statement at a news conference at the Swedish Foreign Office, but did not elaborate.

He answered most questions from press men with "No comment."

"I'm much like an oyster," he said from behind a huge cloud of smoke from his pipe, "I don't want to make any statement unless I feel that it has a constructive purpose and I hope the press will respect that point of view."

Wonder Drug Woman Had Planned Teaching Career

BY DOUGLAS R. TROTTER
Central Press Correspondent

DETROIT—Mrs. Margaret Frank is a member of the process development "team" that worked out the manufacture of chloromycetin, the first such antibiotic to be produced synthetically. At 27, she is also one of only five women chemical engineers in the Detroit area today.

She and her colleagues—all men—take new drugs or medicinals discovered by a research department and adapt them to economical manufacturing processes.

Mrs. Frank, who is equally at home running a pilot plant distillation or boiling two-minute eggs in her own kitchen, solved one of today's marriage-career conflicts by marrying another chemical engineer.

"We can speak to each other about what went on during the day without going into long explanations of what we're talking about."

Mrs. Frank feels that more women should get interested in chemical engineering because "high school girls will find chemical engineering a fascinating career, and the field certainly isn't crowded."

She was studying mathematics and chemistry when her college adviser suggested she try a few engineering courses to augment her other studies. She explained: "I had planned to be a teacher, but found the engineering subjects so interesting I decided to become a chemical engineer, instead."

Eight million persons who have been treated with chlormycetin can also be thankful for her choice.

New Drug Curbs Rheumatic Fever

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 19 (AP)—A newly developed antibiotic believed to prevent recurrent attacks of rheumatic fever in children could also be used to prevent the disease, a New York physician said here yesterday.

Dr. Gene H. Stollerman of Irvington, N. Y., told the West Virginia Academy of General Practice of results obtained at Irvington House by use of the new penicillin-bicillin.

He told the physicians about half of all children who suffered from rheumatic fever are likely to have recurrent attacks of the disease unless long-term guards are employed.

After bicillin treatment of 127 children on an outpatient basis at Irvington House, not a single recurrence was noted, Dr. Stollerman said.

More than 100 of the patients have been on the monthly treatment schedule since last September, he added.

To be effective, he continued, the treatment should be continued from two to five years.

Minister Accepts Call To Hagerstown

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Dewitt L. Miller, minister of Washington City Church of the Brethern, has resigned to accept a call to the largest church in the denomination—at Hagerstown, Md.

His resignation is effective June 1.

He will succeed the Rev. Dr. Paul M. Robinson, who is leaving Hagerstown to become president of Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miller did his theological studies at Bethany and is a graduate of Bridgewater (Va.) College.

4-H Leaders Will Hear Of Electrical Program

A. V. Krewatch, extension agricultural engineer from College Park, will explain the 4-H electrical program at a meeting of local leaders and federation officers at the Court House here at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, May 27, according to Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Steger reports that Krewatch has arranged an excellent program which should benefit all leaders and officiers.

California is ranked second nationally in both area and population.

Writer Defends Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—Rebecca West, the renowned British writer, said today that attacks on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) have given aid to the Communists.

And she scoffed at the idea that congressional investigations of Communist influences in the federal government amount to "witch hunts."

Miss West said this nation is faced with "a venality . . . created by the Communist party and the civil servants who became Communists."

She added:

"We aid that party and these men if we pretend that the aim of these questions (put to them by congressional committees) is to persecute liberal opinion and not to inquire into jobbery and espionage."

In a copyrighted article in the news magazine, U. S. News & World Report, Miss West sketched the history of congressional hunts for Communists in government and said that these probes were launched not by McCarthy but by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

She said McCarthy's name became linked with this and other committees "when he had never been a member of one" and that this linking "was deliberately contrived . . . by a number of journalists and commentators, most of whom were Democrats and some of whom were Communists."

The red-and-white-striped barber pole owes its origin to the days when barbers also practiced surgery.

Jacqueline Cochran Shatters Two World Speed Records In Sabre Jet

LOS ANGELES, May 19 (AP)—Jacqueline Cochran twice pushed a screaming Sabre jet through the sonic barrier yesterday, shattering two world speed records and becoming the first woman to fly faster than the speed of sound.

The National Aeronautical Association announced she accomplished this in a Canadian-built F86, which she piloted around a 12-pylon course at an average speed of 652.337 miles per hour. The flight took place at Edwards Air Force Base.

She broke the women's jet speed record of 534.375 miles per hour set by Mme. Jacqueline Auriol, daughter-in-law of the President of France, on Dec. 21, 1952, and the all-time jet record for a 100-kilometer course set by Col Fred Ascani, U. S. Air Force, at 635.686 m.p.h. on Aug. 17, 1951.

Miss Cochran told newsmen that although shattering speed records has given her many thrills, "passing the sonic barrier with its shock waves and other strange effects was the most exciting and interesting experience in my 21 years of flying, and for good measure I bettered the speed of sound twice in the same day."

She said she does not expect the record she has set to last long, because faster jet planes and more powerful engines already are showing up on the flight line.

Russians Are Coming

Look for a Russian invasion of New York next month. For the first time since World War II, Moscow has authorized a Russian chess team to come to the United States to compete with America's top players. Ever since 1946, the U. S. Chess Federation has been making unsuccessful attempts to arrange such a contest, but the only thing Russia would consent to was a couple of radio matches—in which the United States, by the way, was soundly beaten.

So the iron curtain does appear to be lifting a little. The Kremlin in its wisdom has decided that a team of 10 chess grandmasters, plus a few alternates, can be exposed to the bourgeois cosmopolitanism and decadence of the United States without seriously endangering the security of the Soviet Union.

The McCarran-Walter Act would normally bar these men, but there is a loophole: They may be admitted temporarily if the proper authorities certify that their entry would be in the national interest.

Would it be? Well, the Kremlin has long been afraid to let its citizens see for themselves what America is like. Every Russian who comes here will go home with a somewhat less distorted picture of this country.

The visitors will probably win. Chess is the national game of Russia, and its top players are helped by the government. In the United States, such outstanding players as Reuben Fine, Arnold Denker, and Arthur Dake have been forced to almost abandon competition and training in order to do justice to a job or a business. So was Champion Samuel Reshevsky, until recently. Others make a precarious income in hectic chess publishing, exhibitions, and other activities, or, in rare cases, find an "angel" to subsidize them.

The U. S. has some of the world's best players, including at least three of potential world championship caliber. But what sort of form will they be in when the Russians invade?

Pulling Out Marines

Command staff of the First Marine Division is engaging in no theatrics when it protests the decision of the Eighth Army command to pull the Leathernecks out of the Korean battle line. There is every reason for giving the Marines a rest. The various units have been in the combat area for 33 months. During that period all but 143 days have been spent in the battle line.

But the way the Marine commanders see it, the division will go to seed and lose its combat edge within a short time if disengaged. Marines seem to be more concerned about "combat edge" than the general run of combat commanders.

Prior to their relief, the system practiced by the First Marines had been to keep one regiment in the battle line, one directly behind, in reserve, and a third in combat training. Regiments were completely interchangeable, and one would relieve another with such smoothness and precision that the enemy never knew which unit he was facing.

There is probably no intention among higher command echelons of pulling the Marines out of the Korean combat area altogether. Reasons for keeping such battlewise outfits handy, just in case, continue great.

It would be interesting to know what percentage of the original brigade which landed in Korea in August 1950 is now with the division. Most of the recalled reservists have long since been returned home. Training divisions at Parris Island, S. C., and Camp Pendleton, Calif., have been furnishing a steady stream of replacements.

The Reds can feel no complacency upon learning that Marines are in a "rest area." The last time the Marines were pulled out of the battle line they showed up a short time later at Inchon, in the amphibious smash that broke the back of the North Korean army.

Recognition Of Divorces

The House Judiciary committee has before it a bill (S 39) passed by the Senate on May 6, whereby each state would be compelled to recognize certain types of divorces granted in other states. The House took no action on an identical bill passed by the Senate last year.

When a divorced person re-marries, he or she may be legally classed as a bigamist in a state where the divorce is not recognized as valid. In one state he or she may not be entitled to alimony, property and support rights enjoyed in another state. And children considered legitimate in one state may be ruled illegitimate in another.

The bill passed by the Senate is based on Article IV, Section 1 of the Constitution. This requires each state to give "full faith and credit" to the "public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state."

The Senate bill applies only to divorces that are (1) final and valid in the issuing state; (2) meet all jurisdictional prerequisites; (3) were issued in the state where the couple had last lived as man and wife, or where the defendant had been personally subject to jurisdiction, or where the defendant had "appeared generally" in the proceedings.

Thus the bill would not apply to "quickie" divorces, in which one spouse moves to a state only to get a divorce there, or to divorces obtained by default or by fraud. Nor would the bill prevent any individual state from making its own laws and regulations on divorces granted in that state. The sponsor of the bill is Senator McCarran (D.) of Nevada.

Straw Hat Day

Man's emancipation from the dictates of fashion is gradual, but nonetheless certain. There was a time when no man would have ventured out of doors on May 15 without a straw hat, low-crowned, wide-brimmed and made to specifications which admitted no adjustment to contours of face or skull.

It was hard on the head and rather hard on the eyes. But it was regulation and had to be tolerated until September 15 when, no matter how hot the weather, it was replaced by an equally inflexible derby.

May 15 is still The Day, but it no longer brings automatic transition from felt to straw. Now the changeover is governed by the thermometer instead of the calendar. Soft straws have largely replaced the shellacked "boater," as soft felts have replaced the derby. Another departure from tradition is to be seen in the number of men who merely switch to a featherweight felt, having discovered it to be more resistant to sudden downpours of summer and less likely to look like something out of a rummage sale by mid-August.

It is not news that manufacturers are offering men greater comfort in summer wear, but it is noteworthy that each summer finds more men accepting these innovations. Summer may soon have no terrors for the most conventional of males.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Bright's Disease In Children

Acute nephritis, (Bright's disease) is not as serious as many of the other childhood maladies. Statistics vary but more than 90 per cent of those who develop the disease recover completely, 1 per cent die, and the remainder go into the chronic stage. The condition is unpredictable in that many who appear to be extremely ill get well soonest. Acute Bright's disease is partial to young children; at least two-thirds of all cases occur between the ages of 3 and 7. Boys are affected twice as often as girls.

Nephritis usually is preceded by a respiratory infection of strep origin. This may take the form of an attack of tonsilitis, sore throat, or scarlet fever but nephritis does not occur in the height of the infection. It develops after a lapse of eight to 20 days during which time something takes place within the body to disturb the kidneys. We know that the streptococcus is the trigger mechanism but it does not invade the involved organs. Apparently the defense mechanism of the body reacts to the original invasion of the microorganism during the respiratory infection by producing millions of protective antibodies. But some children are sensitive to these bodies and when the reaction that follows is confined to the kidneys the outcome is Bright's disease.

After the stage has been set, the disorder makes its debut either with a bang or slowly and insidiously. The mother may notice that the eyelids of the youngster are puffy or that the urine is grossly bloody, smoky, or brownish. Fever appears and during the first five days often remains between 103 and 104 degrees F. The child prefers to stay in bed, an indication that he does not feel well and has lost his pep. Headache, vomiting, and convulsions are part of the picture.

When the physician arrives he is likely to find the blood pressure elevated and the urine filled with albumin, casts, and red blood corpuscles. With treatment, improvement may be expected within one to two weeks after the onset of th ailment. By the end of the second week the temperature begins to subside but urinalyses remain abnormal for some time thereafter. Most physicians consider the urine tests an index for cure; frequently six or more weeks elapse before they return to normal. This is the usual course of the acute stage. Up to this point, those who are destined for chronic nephritis have the same symptoms and findings but the urine fails to show signs of improvement. Many symptoms persist in milder form such as the blood pressure elevation and loss of appetite. In some instances, slight fever persists despite the best medical care.

There is no specific treatment altho the parents should make an attempt to keep the tike in bed until all laboratory tests become normal. I have a few small fry myself and know this is not easy, especially when they start to feel better. Ingenuity is required after this stage is reached but there are 101 ways of keeping children occupied while confined to bed. Meanwhile, they must be guarded against colds, chilling, and overexcitement. Diet is important. Whether proteins, salt, and fluids are to be restricted is an individual problem but the youngster must not have highly seasoned foods containing condiments, mustard, and pepper, which are known kidney irritants. The sulfonamides and penicillin are of little value because the original causative infection has already passed.

LEUCOPLAKIA

L. L. writes: Is a smoker's patch on the inner cheek curable?

REPLY

Yes, the smaller the patch, the easier it is to cure. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leucoplakia.

DEATH CERTIFICATE

Mrs. R. writes: Does a physician ever sign "cancer" to a death certificate?

REPLY

Yes, because the physician is required by law to state the cause of death.

COLD HEAD

M. T. writes: Would you advise a toupee for a baldheaded man who feels cool weather so much he has to wear a cap all the time?

REPLY

Indoors, yes; out of doors a cap is better.

ACROBATIC DANCING

Mrs. L. writes: Is it safe for a six-year-old girl to take lessons in acrobatic dancing? Some one told me my little girl would suffer later in life if I permit her to do such exercises.

REPLY

This old idea should be refuted once and for all. Barring accidents, no harm will come from acrobatic dancing.

CANCER MORTALITY

M. W. writes: Someone told me that the death rate from cancer has dropped but others say it continues to rise. Can you set me straight?

REPLY

There was a slight decrease in 1952: 122.5 per 100,000 as against 123.5 in 1951, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance statistics.

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sitting In Court Is Often The Penalty Of Being A Newspaperman; American Juries Are Fair Institutions; Two Lines Costly

WASHINGTON—For some time I have been sitting in court in a legal action that went against me. In 30 years of newspapering I have battled a few of these suits, and I am not ashamed of them. They are unpleasant, time-consuming, and dollar-consuming, but they are necessary in the newspaper profession—unless you adopt the policy of running away from a fight.

If you try to unearth what's really going on in Washington; if you try to tell what takes place behind the scenes, if you don't rely on the official handout, then you are likely to sit a certain amount of time on the hard benches of the court.

I believe in protecting my newspapers and radio stations, so I have always fought these lawsuits out. That's what courts are for, and as a strong believer in the American jury system, I make no complaints.

As a matter of fact, juries have treated me extraordinarily well during the years, handing down favorable verdicts in such important cases as that of Congressman Martin Sweeney of Ohio, the man in the Red House on R Street, Attorney General Fred Howser of California, Dan Duncan of Buzzard's Roost, and others.

Last week, however, I lost my first case. Paradoxically I lost to a onetime friend, Norman Littell, whom I had defended when he was under fire in the Justice Department and during various other battles in which he got embroiled.

Two Expensive Lines

However, the first time I wrote even two lines about him that weren't dripping with praise he slapped a suit on me. He also got Senator McCarthy's personal attorney to represent him while McCarthy himself even busied himself trying to collect certain evidence against me—evidence that didn't exist.

The two lines, buried near the bottom of a column, stated that the Justice Department was checking on Littell's propaganda activities for the Dutch in connection with the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

This reference was written in 1949 when a lot of people in Washington were lining up for and against the Dutch during the row over Indonesia.

And perhaps the most important aspect of the Littell suit was the ruling of Judge Henry Schweinhaut that these two lines were libelous per se. Merely to report that a man is being investigated, or being checked by the FBI or having his tax records checked by Internal Revenue is now considered, under this ruling in the Littell case, libelous per se in the nation's capital.

This means that the press could not have reported that Ambassador Chip Bohlen was being checked by the FBI during the fight over his confirmation. It means that the press could not have reported that Lamar Caudle was under investigation by a congressional committee unless an official announcement was made by that committee.

It means that the press could not have reported that John Davies of the State Department was being scrutinized by the Loyalty Board, without an official announcement. It means also that the press could not report that Congressman Bramblett of California was being checked by the FBI or questioned by a grand jury without an official announcement.

In these days, when the FBI checks every official taking public office, and when everyone making over $25,000 is automatically investigated by Internal Revenue, this may be something of a setback to the previous rule of fair comment.

Tempestuous Littell

But getting back to Mr. Littell. During his latter days in the Justice Department he developed an impulsive, tempestuous quality that unintentionally affected his country's interests, and led to his being fired by President Roosevelt. The facts are set forth in a letter dated Nov. 7, 1944, from the later undersecretary of War, Robert Patterson, to the attorney general, then Francis Biddle, indicating that Littell was so headstrong and unco-operative that he caused grave concern among our top military authorities regarding the most priceless secret of the war—construction of the atom-bomb plant at Hanford, Wash.

Atom-Bomb Secret

The letter, which I have permission to quote, states in part:

"One of the most important industrial activities conducted by the War Department is the Hanford Engineer Works, located in eastern Washington. The project is of a highly secret nature, undertaken by the War Department at the direction of the President. While the nature of the work cannot be revealed, its importance is indicated by the fact that it has been accorded top priority for labor, materials, and all needed facilities, outranking all other programs.

"One of the many problems presented by this difficult project is the acquisition of the real estate required. The War Department, for reasons connected with military security, has been most anxious that the condemnation proceedings be expedited and the funds distributed to the former owners, and also that there be no unnecessary publicity. The Department of Justice has been advised of this urgent necessity."

Secretary Patterson then went on to explain that the program of land acquisition had been delayed because of differences with Mr. Littell, then assistant attorney general in charge of the Lands Division, who disagreed with War Department land-value appraisals.

"However," continued the undersecretary of War, "to meet the desires of the Department of Justice, the appraisals were revised upward. Thereafter, when the situation nevertheless appeared to have reached an impasse, General Somervell arranged a meeting between Major General L. R. Groves and Colonel John J. O'Brien and Mr. Littell at Yakima last April.

At this meeting the prior appraisals were considered and we agreed to and adopted all of Mr. Littell's recommendations as to revised appraisals and methods of procedure . . . ."

"We hoped that the understanding reached at this meeting would result in accelerated progress in settling the cases and that any additional problems arising would be resolved through joint consultation. Our hope, however, was not realized.

"On October 13, six months after the April meeting, Mr. Littell, without preliminary consultation with us, appeared in the United States District Court at Yakima and submitted a statement in which he reviewed the history of the acquisition, criticized the War Department's handling thereof, and stated that our appraisals were so far below the actual values that he could not continue to try the cases until he had re-examined the appraisals on each of the 721 cases remaining.

"In the statement he also attacked the juries for passion and prejudice and partisan political bias. This action was obviously incompatible with essential military security, the need for which had been carefully explained to him. His statement to the court has resulted in a considerable amount of undesirable publicity concerning a project which the President has personally directed should be blanketed with the utmost secrecy."

Because this emotional, headstrong quality on the part of Norman Littell could affect the welfare of the nation, as evidenced in the Hanford case, I considered it necessary to comment on his activities.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — Well, the way I figured it was like this: If the man was in there to throw the fight he would have done it in a more interesting way. He wouldn't have sat there, like a benumbed Buddha, and been counted out. At least that early in the fight.

If it were a fix, it would have lasted longer. It would have lasted longer because there would be the 3-D films to cash in on — first heavyweight championship ever filmed in the new wonder medium, etc. Now the films are semi-worthless because the fight was no fight at all for most of its meagre two minutes and 25 seconds of life.

If it were a tank job, the old man had been around long enough to know how to give them a show. He could have run, jigged, lunged, tied up the less skillful boxer, and made a spectacle of getting kayoed. Instead he just sat down, under the crushing impact of a short left (the only one he felt, he said later) and his posture became semi-permanent because of a right uppercut that caught him as he was going down.

He got deprived of his senses for ten seconds. That's all. His clumsy efforts to turn it into something else, and those of his camp, have created all the subsequent furore. He said he could have got up at the count of two. Then why didn't he? Well, he was waiting for his manager to give him the sign to get up. Bunk, commented Jim Braddock when I took the matter to him. A guy doesn't fight 25 years, Jim said, and not know that once that bell rings he's on his own.

I asked Jim what he thought lay ahead for Marciano.

"Nobody's close to him now," the old champ said. "He'll chase Ezzard Charles right over the ropes. Roland Lastarza might give him a little fight . . . but that's about all."

Sure glad Bill Oatis was set free, but one is forced to ponder the high cost of ransom, 1953 style.

As if carrying out some bargain secret made some time ago the State Department followed the Oatis announcement by revealing that it was in a mood to consider lifting certain embargoes and sanctions affecting Czechoslovakia. The Communist country was selling us $25,000,000 worth of goods a year before they jailed Oatis on a trumped up charge. And they were getting a lot from us in one way or another.

Now, says the State Department, we're so overjoyed to get Bill Oatis back that we may do something nice for the Red government there—the government that had no right to jail him in the first place. Let's try not to send them anything they can trans-ship to Korea, via Moscow, and throw back at American troops.

Most painful part of Oatis' release was the effort on the part of the Reds to credit it to the touching letter sent to the Czech government by Mrs. Oatis. Reds just aren't geared to have their hearts touched by human approaches. Their efforts to portray themselves as sentimentalists are completely clouded, indeed, drowned out, by the screams from their dungeons, the aching moans from their slave labor camps.

Whoever decided that the proper thing for Peace Missionary John Foster Dulles to present to Egypt's Strongman Naguib was a pistol should be seriously considered as Mr. Knuckle-Brain, 1953.

Last time we did anything like that our Ambassador Patterson gave Tito a tommy gun decorated with sterling silver adornments. Not long after, Tito's airmen shot down two of our unarmed C-47s. What's more, Tito adamantly refused to pay the proper indemnities.

But, of course, we've long since forgiven him. He made a face at the Kremlin, in addition to murdering Mihailovich and his followers, imprisoning priests, ministers, nuns, and filling his jails with those who disagreed with him. But he made a face at the Kremlin, so nothing's too good for him — even though he says he's a purer Communist than the ones in Moscow and, thus, must inherently hate the capitalistic world even more than they.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The CIO Political Action Committee has begun to snipe at President Eisenhower's golfing, cruising and fishing. Their weekly publication has begun a tally on his hours of recreation.

The CIO folks might better have shown some concern over the fact that Mr. Eisenhower, under union concepts and the eight-hour law, would really be entitled to time and a half in pay for all hours above 40 a week that he works. If the CIO Political Action committee is interested in the hours that the President works, as well as those he plays, they would find that he actually works from 55 to 60 hours a week. But the CIO isn't suggesting an increase in pay.

All Presidents have found it necessary to get relief from the White House tension. This correspondent defended President Truman when, on the occasion of his visits to Key West, there were critics who begrudged Mr. Truman rest and relaxation. Back in the days of President Wilson, a Democratic president, political opponents were far more respectful. Mr. Wilson used to go golfing two or three times a week and went for a long auto ride on the days he didn't play golf. But nobody criticized him for this. Manners were better then.

Hitting Below Belt

Attacks on the personal life of a President are hitting below the belt. The job of being President of the United States carries more responsibility and worry than any other office in the world. Lately one distinguished visitor who knew Dwight Eisenhower well in Europe remarked on the latter's appearance as lacking in robustness. The comment was made that Mr. Eisenhower looked thinner and seemed to be missing the outdoor life he formerly led.

Early in the Administration, Mr. Eisenhower resolved to take Wednesday afternoons as well as Saturday afternoons off and to try to get in as much relaxation during weekends as possible. He has not succeeded, however, in carrying out that resolution. For the record shows that, since he was inaugurated, he is at work as early as seven o'clock in the morning and spends at least two to three hours in the evening looking over reports and reading official data submitted to him. Even on his weekend trips to Augusta and on his recent cruise to Annapolis, he carried official papers with him and worked at his job for many hours. On his four days on the yacht "Williamsburg" he worked every night, and Saturday night till one-thirty with members of his staff on his speeches for this week.

It is unusual for any President to be granting engagements for Saturday mornings, but Mr. Eisenhower has spent 13 Saturdays thus far at the White House seeing people. His luncheons and dinners on weekdays have been on public business almost without exception. He is putting in longer days than the public has known about.

Criticism Nothing New

But even if a President decided to keep union hours and work 40 hours a week and play the rest, would the CIO Political Action Committee think this was wrong? Is there no limitation to political attack nowadays? The public policies of a President are perhaps fair game for political opponents, but the personal life of the President ought to be immune. This correspondent a couple years ago—when the corruption issue became a subject of widespread interest—had occasion to write that Mr. Truman's tolerance for incompetents in ofice was a case of bad political judgment but that the President himself was a man of personal and financial integrity. That defense won this writer only the most severe castigation from bitter partisans who tried to besmirch Mr. Truman's record in private business.

The same thing happened during the Roosevelt Administration, when there was an unjustified criticism of a member of the President's family serving in the war zone. The argument was made by this correspondent at the time that a President's personal and home life should not be dragged into politics.

The attack on Mr. Eisenhower because he is trying to get some recreation to help him keep his health is unwarranted and unfair, and if the political oppoents of the President, particularly the CIO Political Action Committee, keep up that sort of sniping, it will boomerang. For the American people want a President to keep in good physical condition—and to take whatever hours of recreation he likes and to cut down on the number of those 60-hour weeks. The President's good health isn't a partisan question.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Interlude With Genius

To move away from a confused world to an hour or two with God's gift of genius may be what the sophisticated call escapism. And perhaps we need to escape from this frightful task of seeking truth and understanding in the complexities of modern life.

So I went to Philappa Schuyler's first formal concert at The Town Hall in New York and it came to me, what has been said so often, that genius knows no race, no color, no ancestry but only the grace of God and fanatical self-application to a high purpose.

Philippa is the daughter of my friend, George Schuyler, who, in my judgment, is the soundest Negro journalist in this country. He is a rare person in that he has never lost sight of himself as an American or the Negroes as Americans. He recognized earlier than anyone else the menace to his race of the Communist infiltration among them and he denounced the Communists when it was unpopular and even dangerous for a Negro to take such a stand.

Philippa, his daughter, has been a prodigy in many ways. She not only plays the piano, but has composed brilliantly and has won prizes for such works which have been performed by leading symphony orchestras.

At her first formal concert, she, at 21, performed with rare maturity and artistry. She undoubtedly will find her place in the musical world and it will be, in time, high on the ladder of accomplishment. The professional critics acknowledged her gifts in their reviews of her concert.

I shall not, nor could I, write a musical article about her concert. Rather I want to relate the thoughts that came to me, during the concert, as I watched this beautiful girl carry on one of the nobler heritages of civilization.

First, it came to me that in this wonderful country there are no real impediments to achievement. All one needs to do is to set a goal and work hard toward it. The obstacles of poverty and prejudice disappear before the courageous and the competent. In the arts and sciences, there are no hurdles that cannot be overcome, if one is willing to win his way. The Negro may say that such a person as George Washington Carver is an exception. That is true in the sense that he would have been an exception among men had he been born lily white.

Secondly, as in any civilization, the maturity of a people expresses itself most positively in the arts. When a nation is young, its men and women devote all their strength to the processes of living often in a tough and resisting environment. But as a nation matures, the opportunities for cultural achievements increase, and the creative minds turn from machinery to art, from material to spiritual living.

In this country, there have been several such periods, in the flowering of the great culture of New England before the Civil War, in the cultural development of the 1890's, in the libertarian movements just before World War I.

Often, during the summer months when I am in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, I like to watch young artists at Tanglewood. They are groping for an American idiom in music, and while mostly they continue only to grope, the very sight of young people reaching toward the stars is stimulating and hopeful. And there are other places like Tanglewood and there are other arts.

Too often, in a country like ours, we think only of the exceptional, the sensational and even of the unfortunate. We give space in our newspapers to a mother of two children caught behind a door in a miserable posture or of young people who smoke marijuana or of an actress who tries to build reputation by becoming exotic in her publicized habits.

But that is not the pulsating life of American youth. A generation is growing up who are creating in the arts and who do aspire to make American life more beautiful. In our excitement over wars and politics and the squirmings of poli-

Russians Are Coming

Look for a Russian invasion of New York next month. For the first time since World War II, Moscow has authorized a Russian chess team to come to the United States to compete with America's top players. Ever since 1946, the U. S. Chess Federation has been making unsuccessful attempts to arrange such a contest, but the only thing Russia would consent to was a couple of radio matches—in which the United States, by the way, was soundly beaten.

So the iron curtain does appear to be lifting a little. The Kremlin in its wisdom has decided that a team of 10 chess grandmasters, plus a few alternates, can be exposed to the bourgeois cosmopolitanism and decadence of the United States without seriously endangering the security of the Soviet Union.

The McCarran-Walter Act would normally bar these men, but there is a loophole: They may be admitted temporarily if the proper authorities certify that their entry would be in the national interest.

Would it be? Well, the Kremlin has long been afraid to let its citizens see for themselves what America is like. Every Russian who comes here will go home with a somewhat less distorted picture of this country.

The visitors will probably win. Chess is the national game of Russia, and its top players are helped by the government. In the United States, such outstanding players as Reuben Fine, Arnold Denker, and Arthur Dake have been forced to almost abandon competition and training in order to do justice to a job or a business. So was Champion Samuel Reshevsky, until recently. Others make a precarious income in hectic chess publishing, exhibitions, and other activities, or, in rare cases, find an "angel" to subsidize them.

The U. S. has some of the world's best players, including at least three of potential world championship caliber. But what sort of form will they be in when the Russians invade?

Pulling Out Marines

Command staff of the First Marine Division is engaging in no theatrics when it protests the decision of the Eighth Army command to pull the Leathernecks out of the Korean battle line. There is every reason for giving the Marines a rest. The various units have been in the combat area for 33 months. During that period all but 143 days have been spent in the battle line.

But the way the Marine commanders see it, the division will go to seed and lose its combat edge within a short time if disengaged. Marines seem to be more concerned about "combat edge" than the general run of combat commanders.

Prior to their relief, the system practiced by the First Marines had been to keep one regiment in the battle line, one directly behind, in reserve, and a third in combat training. Regiments were completely interchangeable, and one would relieve another with such smoothness and precision that the enemy never knew which unit he was facing.

There is probably no intention among higher command echelons of pulling the Marines out of the Korean combat area altogether. Reasons for keeping such battlewise outfits handy, just in case, continue great.

It would be interesting to know what percentage of the original brigade which landed in Korea in August 1950 is now with the division. Most of the recalled reservists have long since been returned home. Training divisions at Parris Island, S. C., and Camp Pendleton, Calif., have been furnishing a steady stream of replacements.

The Reds can feel no complacency upon learning that Marines are in a "rest area." The last time the Marines were pulled out of the battle line they showed up a short time later at Inchon, in the amphibious smash that broke the back of the North Korean army.

Recognition Of Divorces

The House Judiciary committee has before it a bill (S 39) passed by the Senate on May 6, whereby each state would be compelled to recognize certain types of divorces granted in other states. The House took no action on an identical bill passed by the Senate last year.

When a divorced person re-marries, he or she may be legally classed as a bigamist in a state where the divorce is not recognized as valid. In one state he or she may not be entitled to alimony, property and support rights enjoyed in another state. And children considered legitimate in one state may be ruled illegitimate in another.

The bill passed by the Senate is based on Article IV, Section 1 of the Constitution. This requires each state to give "full faith and credit" to the "public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state."

The Senate bill applies only to divorces that are (1) final and valid in the issuing state; (2) meet all jurisdictional prerequisites; (3) were issued in the state where the couple had last lived as man and wife, or where the defendant had been personally subject to jurisdiction, or where the defendant had "appeared generally" in the proceedings.

Thus the bill would not apply to "quickie" divorces, in which one spouse moves to a state only to get a divorce there, or to divorces obtained by default or by fraud. Nor would the bill prevent any individual state from making its own laws and regulations on divorces granted in that state. The sponsor of the bill is Senator McCarran (D.) of Nevada.

Straw Hat Day

Man's emancipation from the dictates of fashion is gradual, but nonetheless certain. There was a time when no man would have ventured out of doors on May 15 without a straw hat, low-crowned, wide-brimmed and made to specifications which admitted no adjustment to contours of face or skull.

It was hard on the head and rather hard on the eyes. But it was regulation and had to be tolerated until September 15 when, no matter how hot the weather, it was replaced by an equally inflexible derby.

May 15 is still The Day, but it no longer brings automatic transition from felt to straw. Now the changeover is governed by the thermometer instead of the calendar. Soft straws have largely replaced the shellacked "boater," as soft felts have replaced the derby. Another departure from tradition is to be seen in the number of men who merely switch to a featherweight felt, having discovered it to be more resistant to sudden downpours of summer and less likely to look like something out of a rummage sale by mid-August.

It is not news that manufacturers are offering men greater comfort in summer wear, but it is noteworthy that each summer finds more men accepting these innovations. Summer may soon have no terrors for the most conventional of males.

Acute nephritis, (Bright's disease) is not as serious as many of the other childhood maladies. Statistics vary but more than 90 per cent of those who develop the disease recover completely, 1 per cent die, and the remainder go into the chronic stage. The condition is unpredictable in that many who appear to be extremely ill get well soonest. Acute Bright's disease is partial to young children; at least two-thirds of all cases occur between the ages of 3 and 7. Boys are affected twice as often as girls.

Nephritis usually is preceded by a respiratory infection of strep origin. This may take the form of an attack of tonsilitis, sore throat, or scarlet fever but nephritis does not occur in the height of the infection. It develops after a lapse of eight to 20 days during which time something takes place within the body to disturb the kidneys. We know that the streptococcus is the trigger mechanism but it does not invade the involved organs. Apparently the defense mechanism of the body reacts to the original invasion of the microorganism during the respiratory infection by producing millions of protective antibodies. But some children are sensitive to these bodies and when the reaction that follows is confined to the kidneys the outcome is Bright's disease.

After the stage has been set, the disorder makes its debut either with a bang or slowly and insidiously. The mother may notice that the eyelids of the youngster are puffy or that the urine is grossly bloody, smoky, or brownish. Fever appears and during the first five days often remains between 103 and 104 degrees F. The child prefers to stay in bed, an indication that he does not feel well and has lost his pep. Headache, vomiting, and convulsions are part of the picture.

When the physician arrives he is likely to find the blood pressure elevated and the urine filled with albumin, casts, and red blood corpuscles. With treatment, improvement may be expected within one to two weeks after the onset of th ailment. By the end of the second week the temperature begins to subside but urinalyses remain abnormal for some time thereafter. Most physicians consider the urine tests an index for cure; frequently six or more weeks elapse before they return to normal. This is the usual course of the acute stage. Up to this point, those who are destined for chronic nephritis have the same symptoms and findings but the urine fails to show signs of improvement. Many symptoms persist in milder form such as the blood pressure elevation and loss of appetite. In some instances, slight fever persists despite the best medical care.

There is no specific treatment altho the parents should make an attempt to keep the tike in bed until all laboratory tests become normal. I have a few small fry myself and know this is not easy, especially when they start to feel better. Ingenuity is required after this stage is reached but there are 101 ways of keeping children occupied while confined to bed. Meanwhile, they must be guarded against colds, chilling, and overexcitement. Diet is important. Whether proteins, salt, and fluids are to be restricted is an individual problem but the youngster must not have highly seasoned foods containing condiments, mustard, and pepper, which are known kidney irritants. The sulfonamides and penicillin are of little value because the original causative infection has already passed.

L. L. writes: Is a smoker's patch on the inner cheek curable?

REPLY

Yes, the smaller the patch, the easier it is to cure. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leucoplakia.

DEATH CERTIFICATE

Mrs. R. writes: Does a physician ever sign "cancer" to a death certificate?

REPLY

Yes, because the physician is required by law to state the cause of death.

COLD HEAD

M. T. writes: Would you advise a toupee for a baldheaded man who feels cool weather so much he has to wear a cap all the time?

REPLY

Indoors, yes; out of doors a cap is better.

ACROBATIC DANCING

Mrs. L. writes: Is it safe for a six-year-old girl to take lessons in acrobatic dancing? Some one told me my little girl would suffer later in life if I permit her to do such exercises.

REPLY

This old idea should be refuted once and for all. Barring accidents, no harm will come from acrobatic dancing.

CANCER MORTALITY

M. W. writes: Someone told me that the death rate from cancer has dropped but others say it continues to rise. Can you set me straight?

REPLY

There was a slight decrease in 1952: 122.5 per 100,000 as against 123.5 in 1951, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance statistics.

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sitting In Court Is Often The Penalty Of Being A Newspaperman; American Juries Are Fair Institutions; Two Lines Costly

WASHINGTON—For some time I have been sitting in court in a legal action that went against me. In 30 years of newspapering I have battled a few of these suits, and I am not ashamed of them. They are unpleasant, time-consuming, and dollar-consuming, but they are necessary in the newspaper profession—unless you adopt the policy of running away from a fight.

If you try to unearth what's really going on in Washington; if you try to tell what takes place behind the scenes, if you don't rely on the official handout, then you are likely to sit a certain amount of time on the hard benches of the court.

I believe in protecting my newspapers and radio stations, so I have always fought these lawsuits out. That's what courts are for, and as a strong believer in the American jury system, I make no complaints.

As a matter of fact, juries have treated me extraordinarily well during the years, handing down favorable verdicts in such important cases as that of Congressman Martin Sweeney of Ohio, the man in the Red House on R Street, Attorney General Fred Howser of California, Dan Duncan of Buzzard's Roost, and others.

Last week, however, I lost my first case. Paradoxically I lost to a onetime friend, Norman Littell, whom I had defended when he was under fire in the Justice Department and during various other battles in which he got embroiled.

Two Expensive Lines

However, the first time I wrote even two lines about him that weren't dripping with praise he slapped a suit on me. He also got Senator McCarthy's personal attorney to represent him while McCarthy himself even busied himself trying to collect certain evidence against me—evidence that didn't exist.

The two lines, buried near the bottom of a column, stated that the Justice Department was checking on Littell's propaganda activities for the Dutch in connection with the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

This reference was written in 1949 when a lot of people in Washington were lining up for and against the Dutch during the row over Indonesia.

And perhaps the most important aspect of the Littell suit was the ruling of Judge Henry Schweinhaut that these two lines were libelous per se. Merely to report that a man is being investigated, or being checked by the FBI or having his tax records checked by Internal Revenue is now considered, under this ruling in the Littell case, libelous per se in the nation's capital.

This means that the press could not have reported that Ambassador Chip Bohlen was being checked by the FBI during the fight over his confirmation. It means that the press could not have reported that Lamar Caudle was under investigation by a congressional committee unless an official announcement was made by that committee.

It means that the press could not have reported that John Davies of the State Department was being scrutinized by the Loyalty Board, without an official announcement. It means also that the press could not report that Congressman Bramblett of California was being checked by the FBI or questioned by a grand jury without an official announcement.

In these days, when the FBI checks every official taking public office, and when everyone making over $25,000 is automatically investigated by Internal Revenue, this may be something of a setback to the previous rule of fair comment.

Tempestuous Littell

But getting back to Mr. Littell. During his latter days in the Justice Department he developed an impulsive, tempestuous quality that unintentionally affected his country's interests, and led to his being fired by President Roosevelt. The facts are set forth in a letter dated Nov. 7, 1944, from the later undersecretary of War, Robert Patterson, to the attorney general, then Francis Biddle, indicating that Littell was so headstrong and uncooperative that he caused grave concern among our top military authorities regarding the most priceless secret of the war—construction of the atom-bomb plant at Hanford, Wash.

Atom-Bomb Secret

The letter, which I have permission to quote, states in part:

"One of the most important industrial activities conducted by the War Department is the Hanford Engineer Works, located in eastern Washington. The project is of a highly secret nature, undertaken by the War Department at the direction of the President. While the nature of the work cannot be revealed, its importance is indicated by the fact that it has been accorded top priority for labor, materials, and all needed facilities, outranking all other programs.

"One of the many problems presented by this difficult project is the acquisition of the real estate required. The War Department, for reasons connected with military security, has been most anxious that the condemnation proceedings be expedited and the funds distributed to the former owners, and also that there be no unnecessary publicity. The Department of Justice has been advised of this urgent necessity."

Secretary Patterson then went on to explain that the program of land acquisition had been delayed because of differences with Mr. Littell, then assistant attorney general in charge of the Lands Division, who disagreed with War Department land-value appraisals.

"However," continued the undersecretary of War, "to meet the desires of the Department of Justice, the appraisals were revised upward. Thereafter, when the situation nevertheless appeared to have reached an impasse, General Somervell arranged a meeting between Major General L. R. Groves and Colonel John J. O'Brien and Mr. Littell at Yakima last April.

At this meeting the prior appraisals were considered and we agreed to and adopted all of Mr. Littell's recommendations as to revised appraisals and methods of procedure . . . ."

"We hoped that the understanding reached at this meeting would result in accelerated progress in settling the cases and that any additional problems arising would be resolved through joint consultation. Our hope, however, was not realized.

"On October 13, six months after the April meeting, Mr. Littell, without preliminary consultation with us, appeared in the United States District Court at Yakima and submitted a statement in which he reviewed the history of the acquisition, criticized the War Department's handling thereof, and stated that our appraisals were so far below the actual values that he could not continue to try the cases until he had re-examined the appraisals on each of the 721 cases remaining.

"In the statement he also attacked the juries for passion and prejudice and partisan political bias. This action was obviously incompatible with essential military security, the need for which had been carefully explained to him. His statement to the court has resulted in a considerable amount of undesirable publicity concerning a project which the President has personally directed should be blanketed with the utmost secrecy."

Because this emotional, headstrong quality on the part of Norman Littell could affect the welfare of the nation, as evidenced in the Hanford case, I considered it necessary to comment on his activities.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — Well, the way I figured it was like this: If the man was in there to throw the fight he would have done it in a more interesting way. He wouldn't have sat there, like a benumbed Buddha, and been counted out. At least that early in the fight.

If it were a fix, it would have lasted longer. It would have lasted longer because there would be the 3-D films to cash in on — first heavyweight championship ever filmed in the new wonder medium, etc. Now the films are semi-worthless because the fight was no fight at all for most of its meagre two minutes and 25 seconds of life.

If it were a tank job, the old man had been around long enough to know how to give them a show. He could have run, jigged, lunged, tied up the less skillful boxer, and made a spectacle of getting kayoed. Instead he just sat down, under the crushing impact of a short left (the only one he felt, he said later) and his posture became semi-permanent because of a right uppercut that caught him as he was going down.

He got deprived of his senses for ten seconds. That's all. His clumsy efforts to turn it into something else, and those of his camp, have created all the subsequent furore. He said he could have got up at the count of two. Then why didn't he? Well, he was waiting for his manager to give him the sign to get up. Bunk, commented Jim Braddock when I took the matter to him. A guy doesn't fight 25 years, Jim said, and not know that once that bell rings he's on his own.

I asked Jim what he thought lay ahead for Marciano.

"Nobody's close to him now," the old champ said. "He'll chase Ezzard Charles right over the ropes. Roland Lastarza might give him a little fight . . . but that's about all."

Sure glad Bill Oatis was set free, but one is forced to ponder the high cost of ransom, 1953 style.

As if carrying out some bargain secret made some time ago the State Department followed the Oatis announcement by revealing that it was in a mood to consider lifting certain embargoes and sanctions affecting Czechoslovakia. The Communist country was selling us $25,000,000 worth of goods a year before they jailed Oatis on a trumped up charge. And they were getting a lot from us in one way or another.

Now, says the State Department, we're so overjoyed to get Bill Oatis back that we may do something nice for the Red government there—the government that had no right to jail him in the first place. Let's try not to send them anything they can trans-ship to Korea, via Moscow, and throw back at American troops.

Most painful part of Oatis' release was the effort on the part of the Reds to credit it to the touching letter sent to the Czech government by Mrs. Oatis. Reds just aren't geared to have their hearts touched by human approaches. Their efforts to portray themselves as sentimentalists are completely clouded, indeed, drowned out, by the screams from their dungeons, the aching moans from their slave labor camps.

Whoever decided that the proper thing for Peace Missionary John Foster Dulles to present to Egypt's Strongman Naguib was a pistol should be seriously considered as Mr. Knuckle-Brain, 1953.

Last time we did anything like that our Ambassador Patterson gave Tito a tommy gun decorated with sterling silver adornments. Not long after, Tito's airmen shot down two of our unarmed C-47s. What's more, Tito adamantly refused to pay the proper indemnities.

But, of course, we've long since forgiven him. He made a face at the Kremlin, in addition to murdering Mihailovich and his followers, imprisoning priests, ministers, nuns, and filling his jails with those who disagreed with him. But he made a face at the Kremlin, so nothing's too good for him — even though he says he's a purer Communist than the ones in Moscow and, thus, must inherently hate the capitalistic world even more than they.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The CIO Political Action Committee has begun to snipe at President Eisenhower's golfing, cruising and fishing. Their weekly publication has begun a tally on his hours of recreation.

The CIO folks might better have shown some concern over the fact that Mr. Eisenhower, under union concepts and the eight-hour law, would really be entitled to time and a half in pay for all hours above 40 a week that he works. If the CIO Political Action committee is interested in the hours that the President works, as well as those he plays, they would find that he actually works from 55 to 60 hours a week. But the CIO isn't suggesting an increase in pay.

All Presidents have found it necessary to get relief from the White House tension. This correspondent defended President Truman when, on the occasion of his visits to Key West, there were critics who begrudged Mr. Truman rest and relaxation. Back in the days of President Wilson, a Democratic president, political opponents were far more respectful. Mr. Wilson used to go golfing two or three times a week and went for a long auto ride on the days he didn't play golf. But nobody criticized him for this. Manners were better then.

Hitting Below Belt

Attacks on the personal life of a President are hitting below the belt. The job of being President of the United States carries more responsibility and worry than any other office in the world. Lately one distinguished visitor who knew Dwight Eisenhower well in Europe remarked on the latter's appearance as lacking in robustness. The comment was made that Mr. Eisenhower looked thinner and seemed to be missing the outdoor life he formerly led.

Early in the Administration, Mr. Eisenhower resolved to take Wednesday afternoons as well as Saturday afternoons off and to try to get in as much relaxation during weekends as possible. He has not succeeded, however, in carrying out that resolution. For the record shows that, since he was inaugurated, he is at work as early as seven o'clock in the morning and spends at least two to three hours in the evening looking over reports and reading official data submitted to him. Even on his weekend trips to Augusta and on his recent cruise to Annapolis, he carried official papers with him and worked at his job for many hours. On his four days on the yacht "Williamsburg" he worked every night, and Saturday night till one-thirty with members of his staff on his speeches for this week.

It is unusual for any President to be granting engagements for Saturday mornings, but Mr. Eisenhower has spent 13 Saturdays thus far at the White House seeing people. His luncheons and dinners on weekdays have been on public business almost without exception. He is putting in longer days than the public has known about.

Criticism Nothing New

But even if a President decided to keep union hours and work 40 hours a week and play the rest, would the CIO Political Action Committee think this was wrong? Is there no limitation to political attack nowadays? The public policies of a President are perhaps fair game for political opponents, but the personal life of the President ought to be immune. This correspondent a couple years ago—when the corruption issue became a subject of widespread interest—had occasion to write that Mr. Truman's tolerance for incompetents in ofice was a case of bad political judgment but that the President himself was a man of personal and financial integrity. That defense won this writer only the most severe castigation from bitter partisans who tried to besmirch Mr. Truman's record in private business.

The same thing happened during the Roosevelt Administration, when there was an unjustified criticism of a member of the President's family serving in the war zone. The argument was made by this correspondent at the time that a President's personal and home life should not be dragged into politics.

The attack on Mr. Eisenhower because he is trying to get some recreation to help him keep his health is unwarranted and unfair, and if the political oppoents of the President, particularly the CIO Political Action Committee, keep up that sort of sniping, it will boomerang. For the American people want a President to keep in good physical condition—and to take whatever hours of recreation he likes and to cut down on the number of those 60-hour weeks. The President's good health isn't a partisan question.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Interlude With Genius

To move away from a confused world to an hour or two with God's gift of genius may be what the sophisticated call escapism. And perhaps we need to escape from this frightful task of seeking truth and understanding in the complexities of modern life.

So I went to Philappa Schuyler's first formal concert at The Town Hall in New York and it came to me, what has been said so often, that genius knows no race, no color, no ancestry but only the grace of God and fanatical self-application to a high purpose.

Philippa is the daughter of my friend, George Schuyler, who, in my judgment, is the soundest Negro journalist in this country. He is a rare person in that he has never lost sight of himself as an American or the Negroes as Americans. He recognized earlier than anyone else the menace to his race of the Communist infiltration among them and he denounced the Communists when it was unpopular and even dangerous for a Negro to take such a stand.

Philippa, his daughter, has been a prodigy in many ways. She not only plays the piano, but has composed brilliantly and has won prizes for such works which have been performed by leading symphony orchestras.

At her first formal concert, she, at 21, performed with rare maturity and artistry. She undoubtedly will find her place in the musical world and it will be, in time, high on the ladder of accomplishment. The professional critics acknowledged her gifts in their reviews of her concert.

I shall not, nor could I, write a musical article about her concert. Rather I want to relate the thoughts that came to me, during the concert, as I watched this beautiful girl carry on one of the nobler heritages of civilization.

First, it came to me that in this wonderful country there are no real impediments to achievement. All one needs to do is to set a goal and work hard toward it. The obstacles of poverty and prejudice disappear before the courageous and the competent. In the arts and sciences, there are no hurdles that cannot be overcome, if one is willing to win his way. The Negro may say that such a person as George Washington Carver is an exception. That is true in the sense that he would have been an exception among men had he been born lily white.

Secondly, as in any civilization, the maturity of a people expresses itself most positively in the arts. When a nation is young, its men and women devote all their strength to the processes of living often in a tough and resisting environment. But as a nation matures, the opportunities for cultural achievements increase, and the creative minds turn from machinery to art, from material to spiritual living.

In this country, there have been several such periods, in the flowering of the great culture of New England before the Civil War, in the cultural development of the 1890's, in the libertarian movements just before World War I.

Often, during the summer months when I am in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, I like to watch young artists at Tanglewood. They are groping for an American idiom in music, and while mostly they continue only to grope, the very sight of young people reaching toward the stars is stimulating and hopeful. And there are other places like Tanglewood and there are other arts.

Too often, in a country like ours, we think only of the exceptional, the sensational and even of the unfortunate. We give space in our newspapers to a mother of two children caught behind a door in a miserable posture or of young people who smoke marijuana or of an actress who tries to build reputation by becoming exotic in her publicized habits.

But that is not the pulsating life of American youth. A generation is growing up who are creating in the arts and who do aspire to make American life more beautiful. In our excitement over wars and politics and the squirmings of poli-

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—I was going to call this piece The Time I Was Leading Man To Nina Foch, but on serious second thought I think I will entitle it I Was A Television Actor And Never Again, Thanks.

Many of you, sitting in your lonely farmhouses in the outlands with the coyotes whimpering in the faraway hills (this boy has a touch, don't you think?) may have seen a recent telecast of the show "Danger" over CBS of a Tuesday night, in which Miss Foch played a gangster's moll (they still call them that?).

I guess you couldn't have helped but be impressed by the man who played the old barber, hot-toweling and massaging a stylish stout gunman during a couple of gripping scenes. It is true that the old barber didn't say a word, but he sure reacted beautifully. I remember an actress friend of mine, Helen Walker, telling me of her early days in movies. "The hero would say something and the script would call for me to react," she said. "I reacted for years."

Well, the reason I was so impressed with the old barber's reacting was that I followed his work very closely and saw him conceive the role virtually from the beginning. As a matter of fact I was the old barber. Let Actors' Equity make what it will of that.

I acted in this particular "Danger" performance to prove something. This is a city full of television actors and actresses and seeing them around town in the better gin mills, practically lighting cigars with dollar bills, I thought: this must be the easiest way in the world to turn a buck, and lots of them. So I thought I would do a little television acting to confirm my suspicions that such work is the softest snap extant.

Hah!

Because my role was comparatively small (not minor, mind you, but merely a sort of small jewell of a part) I was allowed to skip the first two days' rehearsals for the show. There were four, all told, I believe. Could anything be easier? An hour or two of childishly make-believing and then off to the races or the athletic club for a little handball or snooker pool. Boy!

I turned up on the third day early in the afternoon, met young Sidney Lumet (a really talented director, Elia Kazan-type) embraced Nino Foch briefly—as I recall, she turned indignantly to Lumet and said, "Is this what they're handing out as leading men these days?"—and went promptly into the first rehearsal. We swept through the play without a hitch. I reacted like a greased streak. The last scene done, I reached for my topcoat. Like I suspected, it had been a breeze.

"Where are you going?" asked Charlie Russell, the young producer. I stared. "That," he added, "was just one run-through. Others will follow. Sit down. Have a cigaret." He smirked a bit evilly, I thought. "You will be here for awhile."

Awhile? I was there for a never-ending period of time—about as long as the Glacial Age. We must have gone through the play 40 times, that Monday afternoon and early evening. Also, we sat for hours on end, reading old newspapers or looking out the window of the big barn-like studio (it was in the Grand Central Building). Whoever said they also serve who sit and wait, or something like that, must have had TV actors in mind. I looked around. They all looked beaten, conquered, lost.

That was Monday. Tuesday, the day began at around 2 p. m.—and lasted right through to 10:30, when the "Danger" show went off the air. We must have rehearsed 50 times Tuesday. After every run-through of the play, Lumet would came out of the control booth with a yellow pad filled with suggestions and corrections. I don't see sow he possibly could have found so many thi ngs wrong. It looked perfect to me on that first run-through the day before.

Take the old barber, acted so masterfully. After slapping a hot towel on Sammy the gangster's face, I had to take back. You never would believe the number of ways that step back can be taken. I took them all.

Well, the long night finally ended. Make-up man Bill Herman artfully soaked my hair with aluminum powder and sketched lines into my face—that part wasn't too difficult; there were one or two lines there to begin with—and at 10 p. m. the red lights flickered on and we were on the air. I sweated my way through the nerve-wracking role. Don't think that because there were no lines to say that it was easy. That reacting takes a lot out of a man.

It is all over now and, days later, I have just about recovered, and regained the lost weight. I don't know if the ulcer will go away, though, and there are the financial worries. I will never convince the Treasury men that I didn't get paid. They will remember that performance, I know, and come back at me with "Does Jose Ferrer not get paid? Does Marlon Brando not get paid?"

Titanium, fourth most common metal in the earth's crust, defied man's eforts to refine it for more than 150 years. The United States produced only 1400 tons in 1952 but has scheduled 22,000 tons for 1955. It is already beginning to find wide application in aircraft and other industries.

Do you own a dull costume you would like to give a fresh "custom" look? Accessories can do it!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Accessories with imagination can give any nondescript outfit the coveted custom look. You can even turn into beauties those skeletons hiding in your closet.

It is easy to find just the right clever touch among the new season's accessories. They are the most attractive offerings in many a summer. To get down to cases, let's see how a few of the best might be used to help you out of a wardrobe dilemma, old or new.

To spark a dull black dress, try a patent belt, shorties and shell jewelry in white. Let your shoes and bag be black patent. You'll look cool as a penquin and just as appealing!

Pick Up For Pastels

Any wishy-washy pastel, regardless of its hue, will take on new, interesting fashion value with the addition of palm green kid sandals and a paisley satchel in which green predominates. For extra fillip, wear enameled flower earrings that near-match the costume's coloring. Subtle? Fetching, too!

Nectarine, the new dense orange shade, and lemon-peel yellow used singly or together can't be beat for perking up a beige costume. If the dress is tailored, try a yellow patent belt stuck through with an outsized bunch of nectarine flowers. If it's a suit that's bothering you, a yellow and orange duck bucket bag and yellow fabric gloves could prove to be the right gay lift. In either case, keep any other accessories neutral in tone.

Hot Pink on the Beach

To give beachwear dash, there is nothing like hot pink — hotter than ever now in straw bags, thatched hats, terry ponchos, seashell-rimmed sun glasses and canvas espadrilles. Against sand and sea, what an eyeful, those hot pink fixings!

But when the sun goes down, the most charming late-day effects are achieved through deep pastels—a pleated chiffon stole in peacock, mauve strip sandals lined with a flower print, jewel-toned rhinestones or "heavenly" blue roses.

You show your fashion awareness by picking newsy shades, fabrics and shapes to accessorize your dim-hued outfits — but you show your fashion perspicuity and sophistication by never wearing more than three items in the same bright color and never more than two bright colors in the same costume. Furthermore, that's the way to make your accessories touch off your own smartest look!

SAVED FROM THE FLAMES

or

SHE WAS ALWAYS TIED DOWN

a one act drama with a happy ending

"Save me, please save me," cries Mrs. Housewife. "I'm always tied down to my hot, old fashioned kitchen, cooking meals for my hungry family."

To the rescue speeds Reddy Kilowatt, the idol of millions of modern housewives.

First Reddy disposes of that villian, Mr. Flame, so Mrs. Housewife never again has to wash smoke and soot out of her curtains or off her walls.

Next, Reddy installs his speedy, economical electric range. Mrs. Housewife now finds she can put the food in the oven, set the controls and leave the kitchen—which, by the way, is now always fresh and cool because there's no escaping heat from the cooking surfaces.

Long hours of cooking and kitchen cleaning out of the way, Mrs. Housewife now has many more hours for leisure or other household chores.

The curtain falls as Mrs. Housewife's electric range cooks the foods quickly, economically, deliciously.

So I thought I would do a little television acting to confirm my suspicions that such work is the softest snap extant.

Hah!

Because my role was comparatively small (not minor, mind you, but merely a sort of small jewell of a part) I was allowed to skip the first two days' rehearsals for the show. There were four, all told, I believe. Could anything be easier? An hour or two of childishly make-believing and then off to the races or the athletic club for a little handball or snooker pool. Boy!

I turned up on the third day early in the afternoon, met young Sidney Lumet (a really talented director, Elia Kazan-type) embraced Nino Foch briefly—as I recall, she turned indignantly to Lumet and said, "Is this what they're handing out as leading men these days?"—and went promptly into the first rehearsal. We swept through the play without a hitch. I reacted like a greased streak. The last scene done, I reached for my topcoat. Like I suspected, it had been a breeze.

"Where are you going?" asked Charlie Russell, the young producer. I stared. "That," he added, "was just one run-through. Others will follow. Sit down. Have a cigaret." He smirked a bit evilly, I thought. "You will be here for awhile."

Awhile? I was there for a never-ending period of time—about as long as the Glacial Age. We must have gone through the play 40 times, that Monday afternoon and early evening. Also, we sat for hours on end, reading old newspapers or looking out the window of the big barn-like studio (it was in the Grand Central Building). Whoever said they also serve who sit and wait, or something like that, must have had TV actors in mind. I looked around. They all looked beaten, conquered, lost.

That was Monday. Tuesday, the day began at around 2 p. m.—and lasted right through to 10:30, when the "Danger" show went off the air. We must have rehearsed 50 times Tuesday. After every run-through of the play, Lumet would came out of the control booth with a yellow pad filled with suggestions and corrections. I don't see sow he possibly could have found so many thi ngs wrong. It looked perfect to me on that first run-through the day before.

Take the old barber, acted so masterfully. After slapping a hot towel on Sammy the gangster's face, I had to take back. You never would believe the number of ways that step back can be taken. I took them all.

Well, the long night finally ended. Make-up man Bill Herman artfully soaked my hair with aluminum powder and sketched lines into my face—that part wasn't too difficult; there were one or two lines there to begin with—and at 10 p. m. the red lights flickered on and we were on the air. I sweated my way through the nerve-wracking role. Don't think that because there were no lines to say that it was easy. That reacting takes a lot out of a man.

It is all over now and, days later, I have just about recovered, and regained the lost weight. I don't know if the ulcer will go away, though, and there are the financial worries. I will never convince the Treasury men that I didn't get paid. They will remember that performance, I know, and come back at me with "Does Jose Ferrer not get paid? Does Marlon Brando not get paid?"

Titanium, fourth most common metal in the earth's crust, defied man's eforts to refine it for more than 150 years. The United States produced only 1400 tons in 1952 but has scheduled 22,000 tons for 1955. It is already beginning to find wide application in aircraft and other industries.

Do you own a dull costume you would like to give a fresh "custom" look? Accessories can do it!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Accessories with imagination can give any nondescript outfit the coveted custom look. You can even turn into beauties those skeletons hiding in your closet.

It is easy to find just the right clever touch among the new season's accessories. They are the most attractive offerings in many a summer. To get down to cases, let's see how a few of the best might be used to help you out of a wardrobe dilemma, old or new.

To spark a dull black dress, try a patent belt, shorties and shell jewelry in white. Let your shoes and bag be black patent. You'll look cool as a penquin and just as appealing!

Pick Up For Pastels

Any wishy-washy pastel, regardless of its hue, will take on new, interesting fashion value with the addition of palm green kid sandals and a paisley satchel in which green predominates. For extra fillip, wear enameled flower earrings that near-match the costume's coloring. Subtle? Fetching, too!

Nectarine, the new dense orange shade, and lemon-peel yellow used singly or together can't be beat for perking up a beige costume. If the dress is tailored, try a yellow patent belt stuck through with an outsized bunch of nectarine flowers. If it's a suit that's bothering you, a yellow and orange duck bucket bag and yellow fabric gloves could prove to be the right gay lift. In either case, keep any other accessories neutral in tone.

Hot Pink on the Beach

To give beachwear dash, there is nothing like hot pink — hotter than ever now in straw bags, thatched hats, terry ponchos, seashell-rimmed sun glasses and canvas espadrilles. Against sand and sea, what an eyeful, those hot pink fixings!

But when the sun goes down, the most charming late-day effects are achieved through deep pastels—a pleated chiffon stole in peacock, mauve strip sandals lined with a flower print, jewel-toned rhinestones or "heavenly" blue roses.

You show your fashion awareness by picking newsy shades, fabrics and shapes to accessorize your dim-hued outfits — but you show your fashion perspicuity and sophistication by never wearing more than three items in the same bright color and never more than two bright colors in the same costume. Furthermore, that's the way to make your accessories touch off your own smartest look!

or

SHE WAS ALWAYS TIED DOWN

a one act drama with a happy ending

"Save me, please save me," cries Mrs. Housewife. "I'm always tied down to my hot, old fashioned kitchen, cooking meals for my hungry family."

To the rescue speeds Reddy Kilowatt, the idol of millions of modern housewives.

First Reddy disposes of that villian, Mr. Flame, so Mrs. Housewife never again has to wash smoke and soot out of her curtains or off her walls.

Next, Reddy installs his speedy, economical electric range. Mrs. Housewife now finds she can put the food in the oven, set the controls and leave the kitchen—which, by the way, is now always fresh and cool because there's no escaping heat from the cooking surfaces.

Long hours of cooking and kitchen cleaning out of the way, Mrs. Housewife now has many more hours for leisure or other household chores.

The curtain falls as Mrs. Housewife's electric range cooks the foods quickly, economically, deliciously.

If it is written on the cage, "this is a lion", but your eyes see an ass in the cage, do not trust—your eyes. This is an old Russian proverb.

But proverbs are not used in diplomatic relations, regardless of how apt they might be. The wisdom contained in a proverb, however, can be successfully used and our negotiators with the Communists might well keep this one in mind.

All too often the Truman-Acheson administration in their relations with the Communist approached discussions with the knowledge that they were to face what was clearly labelled an aggressor—but their eyes saw instead a "kind-eyed Uncle Joe" or a Picasso peace dove. Russian representatives repeated that they wanted only peace and security for their people, but for our own good we should have believed the sign on the cage, we should have remembered past actions by the Communists. We should not have trusted our eyes.

For a while our government after World War II played a hunch that Stalin wanted peaceful relations with the West and we conducted our foreign affairs on the backs of old envelopes at meetings of the foreign ministers. Results of such meetings were totally unsuccessful from our point of view but Stalin built his empire of satellites.

Now it is suggested that the heads of the world powers meet again. Can such meetings bring about a change in world affairs? Do we have anything to gain by having President Eisenhower and Premier Malenkov sit down across the table?

The President's Stand

The President has correctly, I believe, stated that nothing could be gained by a Big Three Conference without some assurance by Russia that the conference would result in some sort of a settlement of the differences between the East and the West.

President Eisenhower no doubt had in mind that discussions for an Austrian peace treaty have been going on for eight years—with no results, and the ill fated truce talks in Korea where the Communists have shown complete insincerity.

The American people have been paying in blood and money for Communist aggression. Some of our allies who have not carried so severe a burden seem to be over anxious to accept whatever terms the Communist offer, but they should recall the mistakes they made in handling the aggression of Hitler when to their everlasting shame they entered into the Munich agreement.

Adequate Defense

The President has assured the world that this country will maintain defenses adequate to oppose any aggression and that our defense policies will not be geared to an anticipated date of attack.

Further he has reorganized the Defense Department and appointed new Joint Chiefs of Staff. His selection of a Navy man to act as chairman may well prove to be a shrewd piece of strategy. Not only is Admiral Arthur W. Radford well qualified for the post, but his appointment is assurance to the other services that the President, while an army man, will be impartial in his attitude toward the services. Certainly Admiral Radford can do much to bring greater unification of the armed forces.

But above all we can be assured that this Administration recognizes the Soviets representations for what they are and is not fooled by false overtures of peace which are merely a smokescreen for aggression.

Woman Hurt In Auto Crash

Mrs. Anna Ruth Jeffries, wife of Alfred P. Jeffries, 210 Pear Street, is reported in "good" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday morning suffering injuries in an auto accident.

Attaches said she sustained possible chest and hand injuries and bruises about the face and body. The 37-year-old resident was involved in an auto accident on Route 40 about half a mile east of Frostburg.

State Police said the car left the right side of the highway and crashed against a culvert. The machine then careened back to the road, rolled over twice and landed on its wheels.

Trooper L. C. Clark said Mrs. Jeffries was alone and driving a car bearing Florida license plates. She was headed east at the time and the auto was a total loss, police said.

Walter Mackay was elected vice chairman in place of Harry Teter.

Two new board members, recently named by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin to four-year terms, were welcomed to their first meeting. They are Verle Ash of Midland and Forrest Mowbray of Barton. Stewart and Dr. W. O. McLane were appointed to four-year terms by Governor McKeldin two years ago.

These four Governor-appointed board members renamed the three men who have been serving with them on the board. They are Macway, Teter and Michael J. Byrne.

To Meet Friday

The annual spring conference of the Maryland-District of Columbia-Delaware Hospital Association will be held Friday at Wicomico Hotel, Salisbury.

Although Sacred Heart and Memorial Hospital of Cumberland are members of the association the two institutions do not plan to send delegates to the one-day session.

Higgins Hospitalized

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel for Allegany County Schools, is a patient in Memorial Hospital suffering an injury to his right foot. Attaches said he was admitted on Saturday after he had injured his foot while cutting grass with a power mower.

Non-Support Trial Scheduled Today

Three sons of Mrs. Margaret S. Lease, 88, 635 Columbia Avenue, are scheduled for trial in Allegany County Circut Court at 9:15 a. m. today on a charge of failing to support her.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty will handle the prosecution of the case. The three sons are Elmer T. Lease and William B. Lease, both this city, and Thomas W. Lease, Keyser, W. Va. A criminal information was filed against the three men last Friday.

DAV Plans Meeting Tomorrow Evening

Plans for the Memorial Day Parade will be discussed tomorrow at 8 p. m. by members of Fort Washington Chapter No. 2, Disabled American Veterans, at a meeting in the home, 113 South Centre Street.

John E. Hoffman, commander, last night said important business to be discussed will include the filling of several vacancies in the organization. He will give a report on the recent DAV convention held at Annapolis. All members are urged to attend.

Engineers Club Will Meet Tonight

The Engineers Club of Cumberland will meet tonight at 6:30 at Ali Ghan Country Club. Speakers will be Nayar Ul Haq and Arshad Munir, mechanical engineers who studied in India and Pakistan and who have been taking special apprenticeship training on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the past several months.

Service Planned Tomorrow For Mishap Victim

Injuries Fatal To Mrs. Simons

A funeral service for Mrs. Dorothy Emma Simons, 29, of Bedford Road, who died at 5:55 a. m. yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital of injuries suffered in an auto mishap Sunday, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at George Funeral Home.

Rev. Gordon R. Hall, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church will officiate and interment will be in Zion Memorial Cemetery. She was the wife of Freeman L. Simons. The accident occurred early Sunday on Route 220 near Nave's Crossroads.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, attributed death to a crushed chest, hemorrhage of the lung and fractured ribs. An autopsy was performed.

According to State Police, Mrs. Simons was riding alone when she apparently lost control of her northbound car. The vehicle turned over and she was pinned underneath.

Trooper Donald Wade, who investigated, described the weather and road as foggy and slippery, respectively.

Simons said his wife left home Saturday to spend the night with relatives, who were following her in another auto when the crash occurred about 6 a. m.

Born at Bottle Run, Md., Mrs. Simons was a daughter of Ellsworth and Martha (Marks) Casteel, this city. She held membership in the Methodist Church.

Surviving, besides her husband and parents, are a six-year-old daughter, Judith Ann; three brothers, James Casteel, Flintstone; Frank and Raymond Casteel, city, and two sisters, Mrs. Daisy Bennett and Mrs. Jess Hedrick, also of Cumberland.

In 1953 its roadway improvements will be approximately the same, but its expenditures for additional Diesel locomotives and freight cars will be substantially greater in 1952."

"The delivery of this new equipment, which you have seen with our new, dynamic Western Maryland lettering, started at the end of 1952 and will require some 15 months to complete.

"This current program consists of 1,500 new hopper cars, 250 new boxcars, 200 52-foot gondola cars and a fleet of new Diesel engines, of which 26 new units have been delivered so far or are on their way. We take a great deal of pride in the adequacy of our car supply and in the fine physical condition of our equipment. But it is customer satisfaction that counts, and we believe that our customers are also highly pleased with our program."

The railway head added, "Our communications and signal systems also have been greatly improved. We are completing the installations of Centralized Traffic Control over the busiest part of our lines. We appraise with an open mind every possibility in our efforts to give Western Maryland patrons the most efficient service."

Monopoly Bugaboo

Grotz's speech was devoted in large part to the thesis that the bugaboo of monopoly in transportation is a thing of the past and that the railroads are over-regulated.

"I feel it is high time to look at the real costs of transportation, the total costs, including the taxpayers' dollars. The regulatory bodies have obviously felt there is some irreconcilable difference between the owner of the rubber-tired vehicle and the owner of a barge or a railroad car.

"It is time to develop a long range transportation philosophy and program consistent with flexibility of investment and the profit incentive.

"I am convinced that what the traffic managers and the public as a whole desire is competition between people offering transportation service—not necessarily competition between people owning different kinds of vehicles. They want such competition to be vigorous because they realize that this has been the great stimulus to advancement in the art of transportation as in everything that affects our daily lives.

"They want competition in service, just as the housewife wants the competition of several department stores or super markets. The rivalry for the customer's dollar—or for the shipper's dollar— is immensely important in terms of quality, price and service."

In concluding his talk Grotz added, "I have great confidence in the territory we serve and in the people and property of the Western Maryland. At 101 years old we are growing, enthusiastic, confident. We hope to offer ever better, ever fuller service to Cumberland and the rest of our territory. We want the long-range atmosphere which will attract the investment of the millions of dollars needed."

A veteran traveler and lecturer listed Bangkok, New York, Paris, Rio de Janeiro, and Washington as five of the world's most fascinating cities.

Woman Hurt In Auto Crash

Mrs. Anna Ruth Jeffries, wife of Alfred P. Jeffries, 210 Pear Street, is reported in "good" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday morning suffering injuries in an auto accident.

Attaches said she sustained possible chest and hand injuries and bruises about the face and body. The 37-year-old resident was involved in an auto accident on Route 40 about half a mile east of Frostburg.

State Police said the car left the right side of the highway and crashed against a culvert. The machine then careened back to the road, rolled over twice and landed on its wheels.

Trooper L. C. Clark said Mrs. Jeffries was alone and driving a car bearing Florida license plates. She was headed east at the time and the auto was a total loss, police said.

A. Charles Stewart was reappointed chairman of the Miners Hospital Board of Directors at an organizational meeting in Frostburg Monday night.

Walter Mackay was elected vice chairman in place of Harry Teter.

Two new board members, recently named by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin to four-year terms, were welcomed to their first meeting. They are Verle Ash of Midland and Forrest Mowbray of Barton. Stewart and Dr. W. O. McLane were appointed to four-year terms by Governor McKeldin two years ago.

These four Governor-appointed board members renamed the three men who have been serving with them on the board. They are Macway, Teter and Michael J. Byrne.

To Meet Friday

The annual spring conference of the Maryland-District of Columbia-Delaware Hospital Association will be held Friday at Wicomico Hotel, Salisbury.

Although Sacred Heart and Memorial Hospital of Cumberland are members of the association the two institutions do not plan to send delegates to the one-day session.

Higgins Hospitalized

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel for Allegany County Schools, is a patient in Memorial Hospital suffering an injury to his right foot. Attaches said he was admitted on Saturday after he had injured his foot while cutting grass with a power mower.

Non-Support Trial Scheduled Today

Three sons of Mrs. Margaret S. Lease, 88, 635 Columbia Avenue, are scheduled for trial in Allegany County Circut Court at 9:15 a. m. today on a charge of failing to support her.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty will handle the prosecution of the case. The three sons are Elmer T. Lease and William B. Lease, both this city, and Thomas W. Lease, Keyser, W. Va. A criminal information was filed against the three men last Friday.

DAV Plans Meeting Tomorrow Evening

Plans for the Memorial Day Parade will be discussed tomorrow at 8 p. m. by members of Fort Washington Chapter No. 2, Disabled American Veterans, at a meeting in the home, 113 South Centre Street.

John E. Hoffman, commander, last night said important business to be discussed will include the filling of several vacancies in the organization. He will give a report on the recent DAV convention held at Annapolis. All members are urged to attend.

Engineers Club Will Meet Tonight

The Engineers Club of Cumberland will meet tonight at 6:30 at Ali Ghan Country Club. Speakers will be Nayar Ul Haq and Arshad Munir, mechanical engineers who studied in India and Pakistan and who have been taking special apprenticeship training on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the past several months.

Service Planned Tomorrow For Mishap Victim

Injuries Fatal To Mrs. Simons

A funeral service for Mrs. Dorothy Emma Simons, 29, of Bedford Road, who died at 5:55 a. m. yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital of injuries suffered in an auto mishap Sunday, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at George Funeral Home.

Rev. Gordon R. Hall, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church will officiate and interment will be in Zion Memorial Cemetery. She was the wife of Freeman L. Simons. The accident occurred early Sunday on Route 220 near Nave's Crossroads.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, attributed death to a crushed chest, hemorrhage of the lung and fractured ribs. An autopsy was performed.

According to State Police, Mrs. Simons was riding alone when she apparently lost control of her northbound car. The vehicle turned over and she was pinned underneath.

Trooper Donald Wade, who investigated, described the weather and road as foggy and slippery, respectively.

Simons said his wife left home Saturday to spend the night with relatives, who were following her in another auto when the crash occurred about 6 a. m.

Born at Bottle Run, Md., Mrs. Simons was a daughter of Ellsworth and Martha (Marks) Casteel, this city. She held membership in the Methodist Church.

Surviving, besides her husband and parents, are a six-year-old daughter, Judith Ann; three brothers, James Casteel, Flintstone; Frank and Raymond Casteel, city, and two sisters, Mrs. Daisy Bennett and Mrs. Jess Hedrick, also of Cumberland.

1952 Meet Was Thriller

Allegany won the first of the junior high meets in 1946 but Fort Hill has resigned supreme for the past six years. Last year's meet was the most thrilling of all, Fort Hill nosing out Cresaptown by a half point, 53 5/6 to 53 2/6.

Junior unlimited class contests are 100 yards dash, 440 yards relay, 880 yards relay, broad jump, high jump and eight pound shot.

Officials For Meet

Foy Adams Curry will be the official starter for today's track events. Other officials will be Rev. John Bayley Jones, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, Douglas R. Bowie, William H. "Uncle Bill" Lewis, J. Stanley Hunter, Augie Eichhorn, George Klinkhammer, Larry Patterson, Oberlin Chaney, John Armstrong, Augie Diaz, Joe Byrnes, Jack A. Petry, Vincent A. Halbert, Raymond O. McCullough, James Hosack, Robert L. Bigler, Ralph P. Wimer, John R. McVicker, John E. Grindle, William E. Saylor and Robert W. Jones.

Roberts Posts 6th Victory For Phils

CINCINNATI, May 19 (AP)—Right-hander Robin Roberts chalked up his sixth victory for the Philadelphia Phillies tonight as he stopped the last-place Cincinnati Redlegs cold on five hits for a 6-3 triumph. Homers were hit by Ted Kluszewski and Willard Marshall of Cincinnati and by Richie Ashburn and Willie Jones of the Phils.

The Phillies thus moved into first place temporarily in the National League, pending outcome of tonight's Milwaukee-Brooklyn contest. The Phils and Braves were tied for first with 16-8 records up to tonight.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia exchanged three-run splurges in the fourth inning, with Kluszewski's eighth homer tying the score. Two singles and Earl Torgeson's double gave the Phillies two more runs and the permanent lead in the fifth inning.

CHICAGO, May 19 (INS)—The New York Giants rallied for three runs in the tenth inning today, routed pitcher Warren Hacker and whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 4, before 8,135 fans at Wrigley Field.

Don Mueller of the Giants launched the overtime inning with a pinch-hit double on Hacker's first pitch. This was followed by a single by Davey Williams and another safety by Monte Irvin.

Williams and Irvin, who belted his seventh home run of the season in the second inning, batted in three runs apiece.

Hacker, who was relieved by Bob Schultz, lost his sixth game of the campaign. The victory was the third for the Giants' Al Corwin. Box:

Sam's Hand X-rayed

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, May 19 (AP)—Sam Snead had his ailing left hand X-rayed today, but the Slammer said it would be sometime tomorrow before he finds out just what is wrong with it.

Snead has been complaining recently of the hand hurting and said it has thrown his golf game off. A bone was broken in the hand two years ago and was recently rehurt in a tournament.

After having the hand X-rayed at the Greenbrier Clinic late today, Snead remarked: "I sure am anxious to find out what the trouble is. I've been missing too many shots."

LaSalle Stops Beall, 9-6; Fort Hill Beats AHS, 2-0

Denny Shuck Clouts Ball; Sentinels Win On Shafer's Homer

LaSalle High School snapped Beall High School's six-game winning streak at Stitcher Field, 9-6, and Fort Hill's Sentinels took a 2-0 lead in the city championship race by defeating Allegany High at Campobello, 2-0, in Bi-State Conference baseball games played yesterday.

The Explorers' victory over Beall enabled idle Hyndman to regain a full game lead in the conference pennant race.

Shuck Pounds Ball

Denny Shuck, the game's batting star, belted a homer to left-center to give LaSalle a 2-0 lead in the third frame and came through with a two-run triple during a four-run outburst in the fourth stanza. LaSalle added three more tallies in the fifth.

Beall scored its first run on a timely single by LaPorta in the fourth and rallied for five tallies in the final inning. Williams' single sent over two runs, Murray and Richards drove in one each and the fifth marker was the result of an error.

Hugh Nolan, who pitched 6⅓ innings received credit for the win. Alan LaPorta, the first of two Beall moundsmen, was the loser.

Shafer's Homer Decides

"Sonny" Shafer's circuit blast with Captain Paul Stickley on base in the fourth inning was the payoff blow that gave Ed Dickel a 2-0 decision over Dawson at Campobello as Fort Hill moved into the .500 class in the conference with a 5-5 record. Before Shafer teed off, Stickley had singled and moved to second on Dorcil Kline's sacrifice.

Shafer had a perfect day at bat for the Sentinels with a homer and two singles in three trips. Stickley and Lynn of Fort Hill and Kirtley of Allegany garnered two hits each.

In today's only Bi-State Conference contest, LaSalle plays Central High's Tigers of Lonaconing at the Barton Ball Park. Boxes:

As You Were

(This is the 148th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

This well known golfer and bowler of bygone days came to Cumberland on a special mission for the U. S. Revenue Service in connection with the coal industry about 1918 and liked the community so much he opened an accounting office on Liberty Street near the Fort Cumberland Hotel after the First World War.

A native of Washington, D. C., he learned to play golf at the Cumberland Country Club in the days the fairways often were referred to as the "cabbage patch." He developed into one of the club's topnotch golfers and during the years he participated in the tournaments he was always a championship flight player. In 1927 he won the fall tournament and in 1928 and 1929 he captured the spring tournaments. Treasurer of the club for many years he played a prominent part in the development of the 18-hole course.

The man pictured here was a member of Derby Stakem's bowling team in the old City League and the duckpin fans in South End called him "Hoot" after a cowboy in motion pictures by that name.

When the Cumberland Amusement Company operated the Strand Theater he served as treasurer and later became manager of the local movie house when Manager Bob Slote joined Paramount at Rochester, N. Y., in 1929.

Regarded as one of Cumberland's topflight public speakers, he is capable of filling many roles—toastmaster, master of ceremonies, interlocutor and delivering memorial addresses.

A past exalted ruler of the Cumberland B.P.O. Elks (1935-1936) and prominent in the Masonic Order, he now occupies an important position in the city government.

What's his name?

He is Arthur B. Gibson, auditor for the City of Cumberland since 1938. He has served in this position under five mayors, namely, Thomas W. Koon, Harry Irvine, Thomas F. Conlon, Thomas S. Post and Roy W. Eves. The photo of "Gibby" dates back to 1929 when he was one of Cumberland's leading golfers.

Duke Visits Yankees

NEW YORK, May 19—(INS)—The Duke of Windsor renewed his asquaintance with American baseball tonight after a 30-year hiatus, and at the same time managed to give Mickey Mantle a cricket lesson.

During a pre-game visit to the Yankee clubhouse, the subject of cricket came up briefly when Mantle showed the Duke a cricket bat he received recently from England's number one played, Don Bradman.

Mayor Predicts Big League Ball For Baltimore

D'Alesandro Sees City In Majors By 1954

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)—Thomas D'Alesandro, who begins his seventh year as Mayor tomorrow, said tonight it's still his goal to bring Baltimore "big league baseball in a big league stadium."

D'Alesandro pledged there would be "no relaxation of effort" until that goal is reached.

Referring to his near-miss in bringing the St. Louis Browns here this season, the Mayor said: "We did our best, and we believe that we are going to have big league baseball in Baltimore for 1954."

The move of the Browns had seemed a "sure thing" here, but American League owners voted it down at a meeting in Florida last March.

There have been continuing reports that the move would be effected next year, among them a story that President Bill Veeck of the Browns has received a $400,000 loan from a Baltimore brewery.

Improvements being made to Municipal Stadium here will boost its seating capacity to 62,500.

D'Alesandro's baseball remarks came toward the end of a summary of his first six years in office.

The Mayor said he had been told that city improvements during his administration looked more like "a quarter century of progress." He recited gains in health, housing, schools, recreation, policing, fire protection and civil defense, street lighting, paving and construction, traffic control and other matters.

He said there had been a "staggering total" of more than 800 miles of street paving and resurfacing since he took office.

LaSalle Stops Beall, 9-6; Fort Hill Beats AHS, 2-0

Denny Shuck Clouts Ball; Sentinels Win On Shafer's Homer

LaSalle High School snapped Beall High School's six-game winning streak at Stitcher Field, 9-6, and Fort Hill's Sentinels took a 2-0 lead in the city championship race by defeating Allegany High at Campobello, 2-0, in Bi-State Conference baseball games played yesterday.

The Explorers' victory over Beall enabled idle Hyndman to regain a full game lead in the conference pennant race.

Shuck Pounds Ball

Denny Shuck, the game's batting star, belted a homer to left-center to give LaSalle a 2-0 lead in the third frame and came through with a two-run triple during a four-run outburst in the fourth stanza. LaSalle added three more tallies in the fifth.

Beall scored its first run on a timely single by LaPorta in the fourth and rallied for five tallies in the final inning. Williams' single sent over two runs, Murray and Richards drove in one each and the fifth marker was the result of an error.

Hugh Nolan, who pitched 6⅓ innings received credit for the win. Alan LaPorta, the first of two Beall moundsmen, was the loser.

Shafer's Homer Decides

"Sonny" Shafer's circuit blast with Captain Paul Stickley on base in the fourth inning was the payoff blow that gave Ed Dickel a 2-0 decision over Dawson at Campobello as Fort Hill moved into the .500 class in the conference with a 5-5 record. Before Shafer teed off, Stickley had singled and moved to second on Dorcil Kline's sacrifice.

Shafer had a perfect day at bat for the Sentinels with a homer and two singles in three trips. Stickley and Lynn of Fort Hill and Kirtley of Allegany garnered two hits each.

In today's only Bi-State Conference contest, LaSalle plays Central High's Tigers of Lonaconing at the Barton Ball Park. Boxes:

As You Were

(This is the 143th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

This well known golfer and bowler of bygone days came to Cumberland on a special mission for the U. S. Revenue Service in connection with the coal industry about 1918 and liked the community so much he opened an accounting office on Liberty Street near the Fort Cumberland Hotel after the First World War.

A native of Washington, D. C., he learned to play golf at the Cumberland Country Club in the days the fairways often were referred to as the "cabbage patch." He developed into one of the club's topnotch golfers and during the years he participated in the tournaments he was always a championship flight player. In 1927 he won the fall tournament and in 1928 and 1929 he captured the spring tournaments. Treasurer of the club for many years he played a prominent part in the development of the 18-hole course.

The man pictured here was a member of Derby Stakem's bowling team in the old City League and the duckpin fans in South End called him "Hoot" after a cowboy in motion pictures by that name.

When the Cumberland Amusement Company operated the Strand Theater he served as treasurer and later became manager of the local movie house when Manager Bob Slote joined Paramount at Rochester, N. Y., in 1929.

Regarded as one of Cumberland's topflight public speakers, he is capable of filling many roles—toastmaster, master of ceremonies, interlocutor and delivering memorial addresses.

A past exalted ruler of the Cumberland B.P.O. Elks (1935-1936) and prominent in the Masonic Order, he now occupies an important position in the city government.

What's his name?

Duke Visits Yankees

NEW YORK, May 19—(INS)—The Duke of Windsor renewed his asquaintance with American baseball tonight after a 30-year hiatus, and at the same time managed to give Mickey Mantle a cricket lesson.

During a pre-game visit to the Yankee clubhouse, the subject of cricket came up briefly when Mantle showed the Duke a cricket bat he received recently from England's number one played, Don Bradman.

Mayor Predicts Big League Ball For Baltimore

D'Alesandro Sees City In Majors By 1954

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)—Thomas D'Alesandro, who begins his seventh year as Mayor tomorrow, said tonight it's still his goal to bring Baltimore "big league baseball in a big league stadium."

D'Alesandro pledged there would be "no relaxation of effort" until that goal is reached.

Referring to his near-miss in bringing the St. Louis Browns here this season, the Mayor said: "We did our best, and we believe that we are going to have big league baseball in Baltimore for 1954."

The move of the Browns had seemed a "sure thing" here, but American League owners voted it down at a meeting in Florida last March.

There have been continuing reports that the move would be effected next year, among them a story that President Bill Veeck of the Browns has received a $400,000 loan from a Baltimore brewery.

Improvements being made to Municipal Stadium here will boost its seating capacity to 62,500.

D'Alesandro's baseball remarks came toward the end of a summary of his first six years in office.

The Mayor said he had been told that city improvements during his administration looked more like "a quarter century of progress." He recited gains in health, housing, schools, recreation, policing, fire protection and civil defense, street lighting, paving and construction, traffic control and other matters.

He said there had been a "staggering total" of more than 800 miles of street paving and resurfacing since he took office.

Probe Is Sought For Ring Fiasco

Illinois Legislators Ask For Investigation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 19 (AP)—Two members of the Illinois House of Representatives today proposed a legislative investigation of the heavyweight championship fight between Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Marciano in Chicago last Friday.

Marciano defended his world's heavyweight championship by knocking out Walcott in the first round.

"Sports loving Americans were shocked and dismayed by the fiasco," said the resolution by Reps. John B. Monroe of Macomb and Paul A. Zeigler of Carmi, both Democrats.

It said the contest was "foisted on an unsuspecting public" and "cast a dark shadow on the reputation of the fistic sport."

The legislators called for creation of a commission to interview the fight principals and officials, and to report by June 20 on recommendations for remedial legislation "to insure that such an occurrence is never repeated in Illinois."

The resolution was referred to the executive committee for a hearing.

Byrd Beats Chisox

PHILADELPHIA, May 19 (AP)—Harry Byrd, the Philadelphia Athletics' rookie of 1952, gave up only two singles tonight as he whipped the red-hot Chicago White Sox 2-1. Another Philadelphia youngster, Joe De Maestri, hit a homer as the A's leadoff batter in the first inning.

The only two safeties hit off Byrd were singles by Jim Rivera in the third and Rocco Krsnich in the fourth. Rivera's base blow knocked in the Sox' lone tally.

The win ended a four-game Philadelphia losing streak and took away from the second place Sox a chance to pick up ground on the league leading New York Yankees.

St. Louis Drops 10th Game By Single Run

BOSTON, May 19 — (INS) — A double by Tom Umphlett and a single by Milt Bolling broke a tie in the eighth inning today as the Boston Red Sox handed the St. Louis Browns their tenth one-run loss of the season, 4 to 3.

Skinny Brown and Ellis Kinder curbed the Browns with six hits, one of them a tremendous homer by Don Lenhardt who cleared a 40-foot wall 379 feet from home plate.

Johnny Groth also homered for the losers, while Dick Gernert hit his seventh circuit shot of the year for Boston. Brown, who doubled across the third Red Sox run in the sixth inning, was the winning pitcher, while Satchel Paige took the loss in relief. Box:

Probe Is Sought For Ring Fiasco

Illinois Legislators Ask For Investigation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 19 (AP)—Two members of the Illinois House of Representatives today proposed a legislative investigation of the heavyweight championship fight between Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Marciano in Chicago last Friday.

Marciano defended his world's heavyweight championship by knocking out Walcott in the first round.

"Sports loving Americans were shocked and dismayed by the fiasco," said the resolution by Reps. John B. Monroe of Macomb and Paul A. Zeigler of Carmi, both Democrats.

It said the contest was "foisted on an unsuspecting public" and "cast a dark shadow on the reputation of the fistic sport."

The legislators called for creation of a commission to interview the fight principals and officials, and to report by June 20 on recommendations for remedial legislation "to insure that such an occurrence is never repeated in Illinois."

The resolution was referred to the executive committee for a hearing.

Shaffer Is Winner Of KC Table Tennis

After dropping the first two out of five games, Ray Shaffer came back to take top honors Monday night in the finals of the table tennis singles tournament at the home of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

Runner-up was Gene Zembower. In the semi-finals on May 13, Shaffer won out over Jack Stotler while Zembower edged Charles Steiner. Twenty-four persons participated in the tournament which opened May 4. The doubles tournament will get underway tonight, and will continue for three nights.

Byrd Beats Chisox

PHILADELPHIA, May 19 (AP)—Harry Byrd, the Philadelphia Athletics' rookie of 1952, gave up only two singles tonight as he whipped the red-hot Chicago White Sox 2-1. Another Philadelphia youngster, Joe De Maestri, hit a homer as the A's leadoff batter in the first inning.

The only two safeties hit off Byrd were singles by Jim Rivera in the third and Rocco Krsnich in the fourth. Rivera's base blow knocked in the Sox' lone tally.

The win ended a four-game Philadelphia losing streak and took away from the second place Sox a chance to pick up ground on the league leading New York Yankees.

Dancer Arrives At Pimlico For "Revenge Race"

Preakness May Draw Eight On Saturday

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)—Native Dancer arrived at Pimlico today for his "revenge" race to find one of his favorite pacesetters ready to spur him on in Saturday's Preakness.

Tahitian King's stable hands figure their colt will be a big help in keeping Native Dancer nearer the front of the early parade.

"Jockey Eric Guerin never let this horse get more than a couple of lengths ahead of him," said Slim Wisan, the stable foreman.

He intimated that Tahitian King's presence in the $100,000 Preakness will tend to force Guerin to stay up closer to the early pace than he did in the Kentucky Derby. At Louisville, Guerin and Native Dancer were eighth after half a mile and were unable to catch Dark Star in the stretch run.

Tahitian King was absent from the Derby.

Tahitian King as done all right for himself without Native Dancer to contend with. He won two stakes last year and the Swift a week ago yesterday at Belmont. Only twice has he been out of the money in 13 races.

Polynesian Was Sire

His father also was Polynesian, the sire of Native Dancer. But Tahitian King is a bay and Native Dancer a steely blue gray.

Their hues came from their mothers. Tahitian King was foaled by Carolyn A.

Native Dancer's dam was Geisha. The gray is a big horse while Tahitian King is a small, compact thoroughbred. Despite his short legs, the King has plenty of speed. In the Belmont Futurity last September he forced Native Dancer to run 6½ furlongs in 1:14 2-5, equalling the world record on a straightaway course.

Native Dancer's main Preakness target will be Harry Guggenheim's Dark Star who has dealt him his only defeat in 13 races.

Native Dancer and Dark Star both have raced once since their Derby duel. The Dancer ran away from Real Brother and Invigorator last Saturday in the Withers mile. Dark Star suffered a three-quarter length defeat Monday by Royal Bay Gem in the Preakness Prep.

Eugene Constantin Jr. is ready to send Royal Bay Gem back in the Preakness while Saxon Stable also is weighing Invigorator as a starter.

Eight May Start

Mrs. Gordon Guibberson's Correspondent and Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War also figure as starters, making a probable field of eight for the mile and three sixteenths race.

Sam Leever, Former Pirate Hurler, Dies

BATAVIA, O., May 19 (AP)—Sam Leever, 81, who pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League from 1898 through 1910, died today at his home in nearby Goshen.

Leever, a native of Goshen and a former school teacher, was a 20-game winner in the National League four times. He won 20 while losing 23 in 1899. His record was 25-7 in 1903, 20-5 in 1905 and 22-7 in 1906.

His lifetime pitching record was 194 won and 100 lost.

After leaving the Pirates, Leever closed out his baseball career with Minneapolis of the American Association.

MISFITS EXPENSIVE

THERE is no excuse for an experienced player to bid boldly, after he has learned there is an extreme misfit of suits between his own hand and his partner's, unless he has some very unusual holding. This is most emphatically so when one of the opponents has shown length in certain suits, making it certain his partner has a sizeable string in the other suit or suits. That combination of facts makes it sure that anybody's trump suit will be molested by a bunching of the hostile trumps.

East would have come pretty close to making the 2-Spades, which South had doubled, and even may have done it. So North could not be blamed too much for his takeout into 3-Clubs, with his extreme distribution and puny defensive strength. There is no excuse, however, for South failing to heed the many warning signs. A more thoughtful bidder there would have called only 3-Hearts instead of reaching out for a game in the suit.

East's bid of spades and his double of clubs, when North was in position for a takeout into diamonds, showed him well fixed in three suits and therefore so short in hearts that West must have them congregated against South. It may be that West would not even have doubled 3-Hearts, in which event the saving gained by such a call, as against 4-Hearts, would have been considerable.

The unhappy declarer should not have been the least surprised over what happened to him. He managed to lose two tricks in hearts, four in spades and one in diamonds, a total of seven, so was down four for a total cost of 700 points.

What would you have done, on your several turns, if you had sat in the North or South position on this deal? Your study of it may save you a lot of points some day.

Dancer Arrives At Pimlico For "Revenge Race"

Preakness May Draw Eight On Saturday

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP)—Native Dancer arrived at Pimlico today for his "revenge" race to find one of his favorite pacesetters ready to spur him on in Saturday's Preakness.

Tahitian King's stable hands figure their colt will be a big help in keeping Native Dancer nearer the front of the early parade.

"Jockey Eric Guerin never let this horse get more than a couple of lengths ahead of him," said Slim Wisan, the stable foreman.

He intimated that Tahitian King's presence in the $100,000 Preakness will tend to force Guerin to stay up closer to the early pace than he did in the Kentucky Derby. At Louisville, Guerin and Native Dancer were eighth after half a mile and were unable to catch Dark Star in the stretch run.

Tahitian King was absent from the Derby.

Tahitian King as done all right for himself without Native Dancer to contend with. He won two stakes last year and the Swift a week ago yesterday at Belmont. Only twice has he been out of the money in 13 races.

Polynesian Was Sire

His father also was Polynesian, the sire of Native Dancer. But Tahitian King is a bay and Native Dancer a steely blue gray.

Their hues came from their mothers. Tahitian King was foaled by Carolyn A.

Native Dancer's dam was Geisha. The gray is a big horse while Tahitian King is a small, compact thoroughbred. Despite his short legs, the King has plenty of speed. In the Belmont Futurity last September he forced Native Dancer to run 6½ furlongs in 1:14 2-5, equalling the world record on a straightaway course.

Native Dancer's main Preakness target will be Harry Guggenheim's Dark Star who has dealt him his only defeat in 13 races.

Native Dancer and Dark Star both have raced once since their Derby duel. The Dancer ran away from Real Brother and Invigorator last Saturday in the Withers mile. Dark Star suffered a three-quarter length defeat Monday by Royal Bay Gem in the Preakness Prep.

Eugene Constantin Jr. is ready to send Royal Bay Gem back in the Preakness while Saxon Stable also is weighing Invigorator as a starter.

Eight May Start

Mrs. Gordon Guibberson's Correspondent and Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War also figure as starters, making a probable field of eight for the mile and three sixteenths race.

Sam Leever, Former Pirate Hurler, Dies

BATAVIA, O., May 19 (AP)—Sam Leever, 81, who pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League from 1898 through 1910, died today at his home in nearby Goshen.

Leever, a native of Goshen and a former school teacher, was a 20-game winner in the National League four times. He won 20 while losing 23 in 1899. His record was 25-7 in 1903, 20-5 in 1905 and 22-7 in 1906.

His lifetime pitching record was 194 won and 100 lost.

After leaving the Pirates, Leever closed out his baseball career with Minneapolis of the American Association.

MISFITS EXPENSIVE

THERE is no excuse for an experienced player to bid boldly, after he has learned there is an extreme misfit of suits between his own hand and his partner's, unless he has some very unusual holding. This is most emphatically so when one of the opponents has shown length in certain suits, making it certain his partner has a sizeable string in the other suit or suits. That combination of facts makes it sure that anybody's trump suit will be molested by a bunching of the hostile trumps.

East would have come pretty close to making the 2-Spades, which South had doubled, and even may have done it. So North could not be blamed too much for his takeout into 3-Clubs, with his extreme distribution and puny defensive strength. There is no excuse, however, for South failing to heed the many warning signs. A more thoughtful bidder there would have called only 3-Hearts instead of reaching out for a game in the suit.

East's bid of spades and his double of clubs, when North was in position for a takeout into diamonds, showed him well fixed in three suits and therefore so short in hearts that West must have them congregated against South. It may be that West would not even have doubled 3-Hearts, in which event the saving gained by such a call, as against 4-Hearts, would have been considerable.

The unhappy declarer should not have been the least surprised over what happened to him. He managed to lose two tricks in hearts, four in spades and one in diamonds, a total of seven, so was down four for a total cost of 700 points.

What would you have done, on your several turns, if you had sat in the North or South position on this deal? Your study of it may save you a lot of points some day.

Elvin Promoted At Amcelle, Leaves For Tour In Europe

William J. Elvin, plant engineer at Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation since 1948 until his promotion Monday to the firm's Charlotte, N. C., headquarters, and his wife have left for an eight-week tour of France, England and their native Scotland.

The visit to Scotland by the Frostburg couple will be the first that they have enjoyed together since coming to this country in 1924. Elvin visited his home nation in 1931 by himself while his wife and two daughters made a trip there in 1928.

Thursday the Elvins leave New York by Pan-American plane for Paris. There in the capital of France, Elvin will be representative of the Frostburg Rotary Club at the International Rotary Convention next Sunday through Thursday, May 28.

This will be the third time he has been a delegate to an international Rotary convention, — in 1936 at Atlantic City and in 1939 in Cleveland.

Elvin said he plans to stay at the Hotel Bergere and will visit Versailles and other points of international political significance.

On May 29 the Elvins will travel by train and ship to London where they will be guests of a cousin and witness the coronation on June 2. Elvin will also visit the offices of British Celanese Corporation in London.

After the ceremony, the Frostburg couple will go to Dumfries, where Elvin was born. Between then and July 3 they will visit their brothers and sisters. Mrs. Elvin's home town is Peterhead, Scotland, in the north, while Elvin's native city is in the southern part of the country.

They will also go through the Robert Burns country and the Shakespeare section of England.

They will return to the United States on July 11 on the Cunard liner, the Brittanic. They will spend two weeks here and in Frostburg before moving to Charlotte on the first of August.

Elvin came to Cumberland on May 1, 1924, when the first textile and spinning buildings were being constructed at Amcelle. He served as assistant to Fred T. Small, plant engineer during the infancy of the cellulose acetate industry here.

Between June 1, 1926, and Labor Day 1930, Elvin was in Drummondville, Quebec, Canada, where he supervised the construction of the British Celanese plant there.

In 1930 when he returned to Amcelle Plant, Elvin was assigned to the research department and in 1946 was made assistant plant engineer. In 1948 he was promoted to plant engineer, a post he held until yesterday when he received his promotion. His successor is William D. Claus, of LaVale.

Elvin has been active in the Frostburg Rotary Club and the Frostburg Recreation Association. He is an elder in First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg.

The Elvins have a son, William J. Elvin Jr., a reporter on the Washington Star who lives at Arlington, Va.; and two daughters, Mrs. Kay Dwyer, Ithaca, N. Y., and Mrs. Mary Simons, Baltimore.

Youth Council Termed Success

The first experiment in the Youth Mayor and Council program was termed a successful one here yesterday by observers and city officials.

The council of high school students including Mayor David Walton, Allegany; Chester Price, Allegany; Charles Kienhofer, LaSalle, Edward Athey, Fort Hill; and Barbara Campbell, Fort Hill, showed poise in handling the "affairs" of the city for the one day and a surprising general knowledge of municipal operations, they said.

Most expressed the hope that the program would be continued next year by the sponsors, the Junior Association of Commerce.

Next to the willingness of the young "officials" to learn, a major part of the success also was credited to the cooperation of adult city leaders and office workers who helped to "break in" the visitors.

All of the commissioners and Mayor Roy W. Eves had assisted students in setting up council machinery either Monday morning during preliminaries or in individual sessions last week.

Wife Beater Gets One-Year Sentence

Foster Paul Warnick, about 28, was sentenced this week to one year in the Maryland House of Correction by Westernport Trial Magistrate Carl W. Shaffer on a charge of brutally assaulting his wife.

Magistrate Shaffer said that Mrs. Warnick was bruised, scratched and kicked by her husband, Sunday in Westernport.

The magistrate explained that Warnick had been working on a farm near Cumberland and had been coming to Westernport on weekends to see his wife, who had been staying with her sister. Warnick arrived Saturday night. Shaffer said the man had been drinking.

The convicted man was on parole from a conviction in Frederick and had been tried previously by him on other charges, Magistrate Shaffer stated.

City Officials Accept 3 Bids

Three bids were awarded by the Mayor and Council this week. Action on two other bids was deferred.

The city accepted the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company's bid of $33.28 a ton for 30 tons of calcium chloride for stabilizing streets.

The contract for supplying road oil for the Street Department's summer program was awarded to the Chaney Transportation Company. The firm bid $0.1080 a gallon in quantity lots.

William H. Buchholtz was awarded the contract for operating the casino at Constitution Park Pool for a consideration of $550.

Three bids for an automobile to be used by the Health Department were referred to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer. The bids:

Eiler Chevrolet Company, Chevrolet, $1,399; Gurley's Inc., 1953 Plymouth, $1413.25, and St. George Motor Company, Ford, $1,438. The bids included a trade-in allowance for a 1942 Pontiac.

The city accepted, but referred to the City Attorney, the $50 bid of Charles F. Painter, 819 Patterson Avenue, for Lot 60 on Sperry Terrace.

School Board Buys LaVale Property

A deed by which the Allegany County Board of Education acquired two lots on the southwest side of Parkside Boulevard in LaVale was filed for record on Monday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

David S. Green and Hazel L. Green sold the property to the school board. The deed was filed by William J. Gunter, attorney for the Board of Education.

Beall High Students Attend Court Hearing

A civil suit in Circuit Court on Monday was attended by 92 Beall High School students from Frostburg who were there as spectators.

The suit concerned damages asked by Clyde E. Bowman, and his wife, Evelyn M. Bowman, against Emma E. Bender and Joel A. Beachey, trading as the Meyers Coal Company.

William L. Wilson Jr., was counsel for the plaintiffs while E. Ray Jones, of Oakland, was defense counsel. Associate Judge George Henderson presided.

During the progress of the case the attorneys and judge took occasion to explain various legal phrases to the students.

Elvin Promoted At Amcelle, Leaves For Tour In Europe

William J. Elvin, plant engineer at Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation since 1948 until his promotion Monday to the firm's Charlotte, N. C., headquarters, and his wife have left for an eight-week tour of France, England and their native Scotland.

The visit to Scotland by the Frostburg couple will be the first that they have enjoyed together since coming to this country in 1924. Elvin visited his home nation in 1931 by himself while his wife and two daughters made a trip there in 1928.

Thursday the Elvins leave New York by Pan-American plane for Paris. There in the capital of France, Elvin will be representative of the Frostburg Rotary Club at the International Rotary Convention next Sunday through Thursday, May 28.

This will be the third time he has been a delegate to an international Rotary convention, — in 1936 at Atlantic City and in 1939 in Cleveland.

Elvin said he plans to stay at the Hotel Bergere and will visit Versailles and other points of international political significance.

On May 29 the Elvins will travel by train and ship to London where they will be guests of a cousin and witness the coronation on June 2. Elvin will also visit the offices of British Celanese Corporation in London.

After the ceremony, the Frostburg couple will go to Dumfries, where Elvin was born. Between then and July 3 they will visit their brothers and sisters. Mrs. Elvin's home town is Peterhead, Scotland, in the north, while Elvin's native city is in the southern part of the country.

They will also go through the Robert Burns country and the Shakespeare section of England.

They will return to the United States on July 11 on the Cunard liner, the Brittanic. They will spend two weeks here and in Frostburg before moving to Charlotte on the first of August.

Elvin came to Cumberland on May 1, 1924, when the first textile and spinning buildings were being constructed at Amcelle. He served as assistant to Fred T. Small, plant engineer during the infancy of the cellulose acetate industry here.

Between June 1, 1926, and Labor Day 1930, Elvin was in Drummondville, Quebec, Canada, where he supervised the construction of the British Celanese plant there.

In 1930 when he returned to Amcelle Plant, Elvin was assigned to the research department and in 1946 was made assistant plant engineer. In 1948 he was promoted to plant engineer, a post he held until yesterday when he received his promotion. His successor is William D. Claus, of LaVale.

Elvin has been active in the Frostburg Rotary Club and the Frostburg Recreation Association. He is an elder in First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg.

The Elvins have a son, William J. Elvin Jr., a reporter on the Washington Star who lives at Arlington, Va.; and two daughters, Mrs. Kay Dwyer, Ithaca, N. Y., and Mrs. Mary Simons, Baltimore.

Youth Council Termed Success

The first experiment in the Youth Mayor and Council program was termed a successful one here yesterday by observers and city officials.

The council of high school students including Mayor David Walton, Allegany; Chester Price, Allegany; Charles Kienhofer, LaSalle, Edward Athey, Fort Hill; and Barbara Campbell, Fort Hill, showed poise in handling the "affairs" of the city for the one day and a surprising general knowledge of municipal operations, they said.

Most expressed the hope that the program would be continued next year by the sponsors, the Junior Association of Commerce.

Next to the willingness of the young "officials" to learn, a major part of the success also was credited to the cooperation of adult city leaders and office workers who helped to "break in" the visitors.

All of the commissioners and Mayor Roy W. Eves had assisted students in setting up council machinery either Monday morning during preliminaries or in individual sessions last week.

Wife Beater Gets One-Year Sentence

Foster Paul Warnick, about 28, was sentenced this week to one year in the Maryland House of Correction by Westernport Trial Magistrate Carl W. Shaffer on a charge of brutally assaulting his wife.

Magistrate Shaffer said that Mrs. Warnick was bruised, scratched and kicked by her husband, Sunday in Westernport.

The magistrate explained that Warnick had been working on a farm near Cumberland and had been coming to Westernport on weekends to see his wife, who had been staying with her sister. Warnick arrived Saturday night. Shaffer said the man had been drinking.

The convicted man was on parole from a conviction in Frederick and had been tried previously by him on other charges, Magistrate Shaffer stated.

City Officials Accept 3 Bids

Three bids were awarded by the Mayor and Council this week. Action on two other bids was deferred.

The city accepted the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company's bid of $33.28 a ton for 30 tons of calcium chloride for stabilizing streets.

The contract for supplying road oil for the Street Department's summer program was awarded to the Chaney Transportation Company. The firm bid $0.1080 a gallon in quantity lots.

William H. Buchholtz was awarded the contract for operating the casino at Constitution Park Pool for a consideration of $550.

Three bids for an automobile to be used by the Health Department were referred to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer. The bids:

Eiler Chevrolet Company, Chevrolet, $1,399; Gurley's Inc., 1953 Plymouth, $1413.25, and St. George Motor Company, Ford, $1,438. The bids included a trade-in allowance for a 1942 Pontiac.

The city accepted, but referred to the City Attorney, the $50 bid of Charles F. Painter, 819 Patterson Avenue, for Lot 60 on Sperry Terrace.

School Board Buys LaVale Property

A deed by which the Allegany County Board of Education acquired two lots on the southwest side of Parkside Boulevard in LaVale was filed for record on Monday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

David S. Green and Hazel L. Green sold the property to the Emma E. Bender and Joel A. Beachey, trading as the Meyers Coal Company.

William L. Wilson Jr., was counsel for the plaintiffs while E. Ray Jones, of Oakland, was defense counsel. Associate Judge George Henderson presided.

During the progress of the case the attorneys and judge took occasion to explain various legal phrases to the students.

Beall High Students Attend Court Hearing

A civil suit in Circuit Court on Monday was attended by 92 Beall High School students from Frostburg who were there as spectators.

The suit concerned damages asked by Clyde E. Bowman, and his wife, Evelyn M. Bowman, against school board. The deed was filed by William J. Gunter, attorney for the Board of Education.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 19 (INS) — The enthusiasm of MacDonald Carey over "Day of Grace," a play he has just acquired, is contagious. I felt I must read it after he told me about it and that Lawrence Langner, of the Theatre Guild, is arranging to produce it on the stage.

" 'Day of Grace' is by Alexander Federoff, a new playwright who will take his place among the great dramatists," said MacDonald. "The play concerns a Jesuit priest who is training a group of young novitiates for the priesthood. One of the novices is a young man who is running away from himself, and he does great harm until an older priest takes him in hand. The play really is a story of what goes into the training of a Jesuit."

If you've wondered what ever happened to Pedro Armendariz, the popular Mexican star, I can tell you for the last year and a half he has been making movies in Europe — "Lucrecia Borgia" in Italy and "Loves of Toledo" in Spain.

Now Pedro, who hasn't made a picture in Hollywood for three years, comes back to co-star with Joel McCrea in "Border River" at Universal International.

Pedro had no more unpacked his bags in Mexico City than he was paged by William Goetz.

A perfect example of the way studios are utilizing the time of expensive actors to cut down on production costs is the case of Charlton Heston.

Charlton has two pictures coming up for Paramount: "The Naked Jungle" with Eleanor Parker, and "The Legend of the Incas" with Viveca Lindfors.

On Friday Charlton flies to Lima, Peru, to join Producer Mel Epstein and shoot location scenes for "Legend of the Incas." Then, while other members of the cast finish, he returns to Hollywood to start the "Jungle" movie with Eleanor.

When I saw Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh in "Houdini" I knew what it was I've been missing in love scenes for lo, these many months. The radiant warmth that these two young people feel for one another was caught by the camera and it turns the film into an enchanting young love story.

I knew the real Harry Houdini very well, often interviewing him in the days when he was "Mr. Mystery." Tony isn't physically like Harry at all — but this proves the boy is an actor. As for Janet, she is utterly delightful throughout and nothing will surprise me less than if this production turns out to be more than a bit of a magician at the boxoffice.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Neil Vanderbilt is sitting it out alone in Reno awaiting his divorce. Don't forget I told you when he is free he'll marry Joan Castle.

My, oh, my, can't live with or without each other it seems. Ginny Simms and Bob Calhoun were holding hands at the Bantam Cock last night just two days after Ginny filed suit for divorce from Bob.

Thank you, T.W.A. for sending me the Rome American News, which was flown to me with an advertisement of my column on the front page.

The last night the Kean sisters were at Ciro's, Herman Hover got up and did a dance with them. Well, he used to be a chorus boy way back when on Broadway. I know, I've seen pictures of him.

If Rita Hayworth is able, and it's not sure yet, she will fly out tonight for Honolulu. That would get her there just about the time the boat arrives with the rest of the troupe.

Irving Hoffman reaches here May 27 to spend a few days before he takes off for the Orient with his father.

Tab Hunter is certainly a handsome lad. I never realized just how handsome until I saw him on Peter Potter's show. The next night he was with Dawn Addams at Jack's at the Beach.

The Ritz Brothers are being billed at the Copacabana in New York as three dimension. Well, that describes them as well as anything.

Ingrid Bergman sent a telegram to the Feldman office saying she cannot go to Mexico for the John Wayne picture. No surprise to anyone.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Want To Buy An Island? Government Has Some For Sale

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Wanna buy an island, mister?

The government has some for sale, but the supply is dwindling fast. The best ones are gone, but there might still be one you would like.

Recently a postal clerk purchased an island in Boston harbor for only $5,500. Some envious ones, who found out about it too late, said Gallups island was worth $145,000.

However, the government was glad to get rid of the 17-acre island, a former quarantine station purchased from the city of Boston 40 years ago.

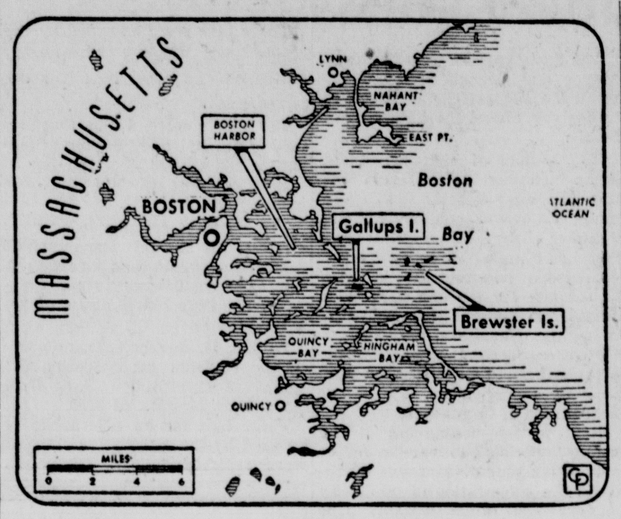
The purchaser inherited with his island a cemetery, plus a story that Captain Kidd's gold is buried there. He may have need for the hidden treasure. Now that the island is no longer government property, it is liable for city and state taxes.

There are several more islands in Boston harbor, also up for sale, as well as a few in New York harbor.

There are some islands for sale in the Gulf of Mexico and one in San Francisco harbor was recently disposed of.

The best buy probably hasn't been discovered yet. It awaits the energetic initiative of some Twentieth Century Columbus.

This is because the government does not know exactly where all its islands are located. A search of old maps and records might well turn up a choice piece of land which could probably be purchased for a song.



Recently the Coast Guard advised the General Services Administration, which is charged with disposing of surplus property, that it had an island off Charleston, S. C., that it no longer needed.

At first the island could not be found. Then the GSA discovered on an old 1850 map that the island was originally part of the mainland, used by the Coast Guard for a lighthouse.

In the intervening years, the coast line receded and when the GSA went to inspect its find, it discovered the island was under water.

However, GSA attorneys say there are probably some surplus islands which have been lost track of which would provide choicer buys than this one.

Among the known islands up for sale are Outer Brewster and Great Brewster, both in Boston harbor. The first island consists of 17 acres, the second of 21. Both were used at one time to guard the harbor entrance.

Hoffman island and Swinburne island are up for sale in New York harbor. Hoffman island, consisting of 11 acres, has 40 buildings, as well as several fine wharves.

The government spent almost a million and a half dollars for the two islands in 1929 when they were turned over to the Navy as training stations. Swinburne island has 2½ acres.

Angel island, a 40-acre spot of land in San Francisco harbor, was snatched up by the Department of the Interior in 1947 as a recreational area. It had previously been used as a quarantine station and as an Army installation.

Off the extreme west coast of Louisiana is a surplus island known as Sabine Pass, but the state of Louisiana is negotiating for the 45-acre island and probably will get it. This island will also probably be used for recreational purposes.

Pelican Spit is another Gulf island up for sale, but the city of Galveston has put in its bid and probably will turn the former quarantine station into a park.

Two years ago the University of Corpus Christi latched onto 232 choice acres of land known as Ward island, also in the Gulf of Mexico off the Texas coast.

Not too many years ago the government had many surplus islands, mostly lighthouse installations which had outlived their usefulness. They were snapped up by sportsmen.

From time to time the Coast Guard, which is in charge of the lighthouses, finds it has no use for one of its installations.

The alert citizen, who keeps his eyes and ears peeled and hears about this, can then buy himself a nice little island on which to retire from the vicissitudes of modern life.

One old gentleman had just this in mind not so long ago. He wrote the government, said he'd heard it had some islands it didn't need and would they please let him have one, as he was preparing to retire.

Gas Companies To Seek Merger

A hearing has been set Thursday, May 28, at 10:30 a. m. before the Maryland Public Service Commission in Baltimore on the transfer of the C&A Gas Company to the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh.

In an application filed with the PSC the two firms want the consent to transfer all of the C&A's franchises, works and system in Maryland to the Manufacturers Heat and Light.

The C&A and Manufacturers Light and Heat firms are both members of the Columbia Gas System and the C&A is a subsidiary of the firm that has Pittsburgh as its home office.

A similar petition has been filed with the West Virginia Public Service Commission.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

You've Got To Be Lucky

Wilson Mizner, who spent a lot of time around gambling joints in Alaska so he knew all the angles, once, when I met him at Bradley's in Palm Beach, said to me,

"I'd pay the colonel $5,000 a day for the privilege of running this place and take the zero and double zero off the roulette table besides."

"How do you figure that?" I asked him. "This would give the player an even chance percentage-wise." He nodded.

"The psychology of the sucker who always stands to lose more than he stands to win," he explained.

This writer has been in gambling houses all over the world, from the ornate and ostentatious ones in Monte Carlo, Palm Beach and Deauville to the shabby shacks on the fringe along the Mexican border. If the wheel is on the square and there are no gadgets, the percentage against you figures out something like three. Yet the customers keep coming back, especially the women.

It was in Deauville in 1927, Bugs Baer and I were visiting Montague Glass, the fine humorous writer. We went around to the casino, which is a high-class name for a stylish flea bag, one evening. Some rich friends of mine entered about the same time, including Tom Chadbourne, the New York lawyer.

"Won't you come and play at our table?" he asked me.

I looked and saw this was where the game for high stakes was going on, so I shook my head. The racket was Chemin de Fer, which is about as fair a shake as you can get, since the house running it takes only a cut out of each play.

I sat down next to a good-looking French girl, except she had a slight mustache which I believe is considered a mark of beauty in that country. The cards have no numbers on the corners, so I had difficulty when I got about four or five unless I counted the spots. She helped me and I bought a bottle of champagne. What the hell, I was out for the evening. Mr. Glass tapped me on the shoulder.

"I want to speak to you," he said.

I left enough chips to hold my place and backed away, while he whispered,

"That girl sitting next to you is true to Billy Arnold's band, and the first thing you know she will be playing with your money." This was the orchestra of about 60 pieces, furnishing the music in the casino.

"Don't worry," I reassured him. "She will wind up with a sore wrist if she reaches for any of my chips."

I was doing pretty well and along late in the evening, I got the bank and opened for a modest sum like 500 francs. She matched the whole amount and I won. I let it ride and again she took it and lost. Once more I shot the works to give her a chance, and my luck held. I then passed the bank, and she was slow about reaching for her pocketbook. The croupier became impatient, so she put the cash on the line and scowled at me.

"She expected to pay you off in telephone numbers," remarked Bugs Baer who was standing behind me.

That night I stayed awake at least five minutes picking at the counterpane and thinking I had perhaps been impolite to a daughter of uor gallant ally, France. Then I turned over and went to sleep.

A friend of mine, Albert Lasker, a big advertising tycoon, now dead, had a client who loved to play roulette. He was visiting Mr. Lasker in Florida one winter, and after dinner suggested they do some gambling. He agreed reluctantly only because his guest was a customer. They were to go 50-50 and the automobile man was to handle the operations. After about an hour, they were $25,000 ahead.

"Let's cash in and go home," suggested Mr. Lasker. "It's getting late, and I'm tired—winners' fatigue I guess."

The other shook his head.

"No," he answered. "We've just got them on the run. It's our lucky night."

Along about four in the morning, they quit losing $175,000. See what Mizner meant by the psychology of the sucker.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 19 (INS) — The enthusiasm of MacDonald Carey over "Day of Grace," a play he has just acquired, is contagious. I felt I must read it after he told me about it and that Lawrence Langner, of the Theatre Guild, is arranging to produce it on the stage.

" 'Day of Grace' is by Alexander Federoff, a new playwright who will take his place among the great dramatists," said MacDonald. "The play concerns a Jesuit priest who is training a group of young novitiates for the priesthood. One of the novices is a young man who is running away from himself, and he does great harm until an older priest takes him in hand. The play really is a story of what goes into the training of a Jesuit."

If you've wondered what ever happened to Pedro Armendariz, the popular Mexican star, I can tell you for the last year and a half he has been making movies in Europe — "Lucrecia Borgia" in Italy and "Loves of Toledo" in Spain.

Now Pedro, who hasn't made a picture in Hollywood for three years, comes back to co-star with Joel McCrea in "Border River" at Universal International.

Pedro had no more unpacked his bags in Mexico City than he was paged by William Goetz.

A perfect example of the way studios are utilizing the time of expensive actors to cut down on production costs is the case of Charlton Heston.

Charlton has two pictures coming up for Paramount: "The Naked Jungle" with Eleanor Parker, and "The Legend of the Incas" with Viveca Lindfors.

On Friday Charlton flies to Lima, Peru, to join Producer Mel Epstein and shoot location scenes for "Legend of the Incas." Then, while other members of the cast finish, he returns to Hollywood to start the "Jungle" movie with Eleanor.

When I saw Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh in "Houdini" I knew what it was I've been missing in love scenes for lo, these many months. The radiant warmth that these two young people feel for one another was caught by the camera and it turns the film into an enchanting young love story.

I knew the real Harry Houdini very well, often interviewing him in the days when he was "Mr. Mystery." Tony isn't physically like Harry at all — but this proves the boy is an actor. As for Janet, she is utterly delightful throughout and nothing will surprise me less than if this production turns out to be more than a bit of a magician at the boxoffice.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Neil Vanderbilt is sitting it out alone in Reno awaiting his divorce. Don't forget I told you when he is free he'll marry Joan Castle.

My, oh, my, can't live with or without each other it seems. Ginny Simms and Bob Calhoun were holding hands at the Bantam Cock last night just two days after Ginny filed suit for divorce from Bob.

Thank you, T.W.A. for sending me the Rome American News, which was flown to me with an advertisement of my column on the front page.

The last night the Kean sisters were at Ciro's, Herman Hover got up and did a dance with them. Well, he used to be a chorus boy way back when on Broadway. I know, I've seen pictures of him.

If Rita Hayworth is able, and it's not sure yet, she will fly out tonight for Honolulu. That would get her there just about the time the boat arrives with the rest of the troupe.

Irving Hoffman reaches here May 27 to spend a few days before he takes off for the Orient with his father.

Tab Hunter is certainly a handsome lad. I never realized just how handsome until I saw him on Peter Potter's show. The next night he was with Dawn Addams at Jack's at the Beach.

The Ritz Brothers are being billed at the Copacabana in New York as three dimension. Well, that describes them as well as anything.

Ingrid Bergman sent a telegram to the Feldman office saying she cannot go to Mexico for the John Wayne picture. No surprise to anyone.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Want To Buy An Island? Government Has Some For Sale

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Wanna buy an island, mister?

The government has some for sale, but the supply is dwindling fast. The best ones are gone, but there might still be one you would like.

Recently a postal clerk purchased an island in Boston harbor for only $5,500. Some envious ones, who found out about it too late, said Gallups island was worth $145,000.

However, the government was glad to get rid of the 17-acre island, a former quarantine station purchased from the city of Boston 40 years ago.

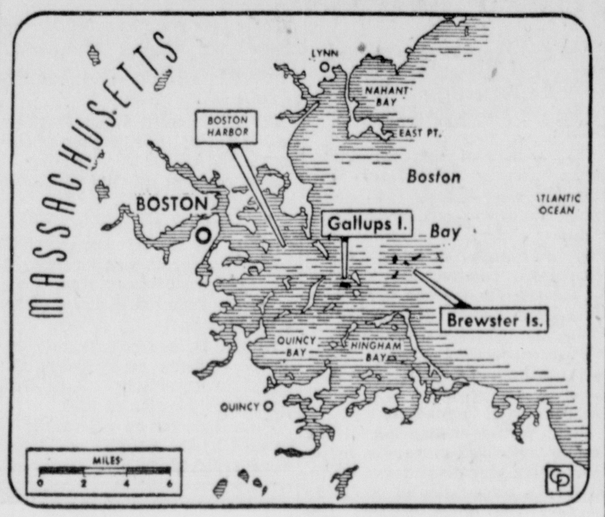
The purchaser inherited with his island a cemetery, plus a story that Captain Kidd's gold is buried there. He may have need for the hidden treasure. Now that the island is no longer government property, it is liable for city and state taxes.

There are several more islands in Boston harbor, also up for sale, as well as a few in New York harbor.

There are some islands for sale in the Gulf of Mexico and one in San Francisco harbor was recently disposed of.

The best buy probably hasn't been discovered yet. It awaits the energetic initiative of some Twentieth Century Columbus.

This is because the government does not know exactly where all its islands are located. A search of old maps and records might well turn up a choice piece of land which could probably be purchased for a song.



Recently the Coast Guard advised the General Services Administration, which is charged with disposing of surplus property, that it had an island off Charleston, S. C., that it no longer needed.

At first the island could not be found. Then the GSA discovered on an old 1850 map that the island was originally part of the mainland, used by the Coast Guard for a lighthouse.

In the intervening years, the coast line receded and when the GSA went to inspect its find, it discovered the island was under water.

However, GSA attorneys say there are probably some surplus islands which have been lost track of which would provide choicer buys than this one.

Among the known islands up for sale are Outer Brewster and Great Brewster, both in Boston harbor. The first island consists of 17 acres, the second of 21. Both were used at one time to guard the harbor entrance.

Hoffman island and Swinburne island are up for sale in New York harbor. Hoffman island, consisting of 11 acres, has 40 buildings, as well as several fine wharves.

The government spent almost a million and a half dollars for the two islands in 1929 when they were turned over to the Navy as training stations. Swinburne island has 2½ acres.

Angel island, a 40-acre spot of land in San Francisco harbor, was snatched up by the Department of the Interior in 1947 as a recreational area. It had previously been used as a quarantine station and as an Army installation.

Off the extreme west coast of Louisiana is a surplus island known as Sabine Pass, but the state of Louisiana is negotiating for the 45-acre island and probably will get it. This island will also probably be used for recreational purposes.

Pelican Spit is another Gulf island up for sale, but the city of Galveston has put in its bid and probably will turn the former quarantine station into a park.

Two years ago the University of Corpus Christi latched onto 232 choice acres of land known as Ward island, also in the Gulf of Mexico off the Texas coast.

Not too many years ago the government had many surplus islands, mostly lighthouse installations which had outlived their usefulness. They were snapped up by sportsmen.

From time to time the Coast Guard, which is in charge of the lighthouses, finds it has no use for one of its installations.

The alert citizen, who keeps his eyes and ears peeled and hears about this, can then buy himself a nice little island on which to retire from the vicissitudes of modern life.

One old gentleman had just this in mind not so long ago. He wrote the government, said he'd heard it had some islands it didn't need and would they please let him have one, as he was preparing to retire.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

You've Got To Be Lucky

Wilson Mizner, who spent a lot of time around gambling joints in Alaska so he knew all the angles, once, when I met him at Bradley's in Palm Beach, said to me,

"I'd pay the colonel $5,000 a day for the privilege of running this place and take the zero and double zero off the roulette table besides."

"How do you figure that?" I asked him. "This would give the player an even chance percentage-wise." He nodded.

"The psychology of the sucker who always stands to lose more than he stands to win," he explained.

This writer has been in gambling houses all over the world, from the ornate and ostentatious ones in Monte Carlo, Palm Beach and Deauville to the shabby shacks on the fringe along the Mexican border. If the wheel is on the square and there are no gadgets, the percentage against you figures out something like three. Yet the customers keep coming back, especially the women.

It was in Deauville in 1927, Bugs Baer and I were visiting Montague Glass, the fine humorous writer. We went around to the casino, which is a high-class name for a stylish flea bag, one evening. Some rich friends of mine entered about the same time, including Tom Chadbourne, the New York lawyer.

"Won't you come and play at our table?" he asked me.

I looked and saw this was where the game for high stakes was going on, so I shook my head. The racket was Chemin de Fer, which is about as fair a shake as you can get, since the house running it takes only a cut out of each play.

I sat down next to a good-looking French girl, except she had a slight mustache which I believe is considered a mark of beauty in that country. The cards have no numbers on the corners, so I had difficulty when I got about four or five unless I counted the spots. She helped me and I bought a bottle of champagne. What the hell, I was out for the evening. Mr. Glass tapped me on the shoulder.

"I want to speak to you," he said.

I left enough chips to hold my place and backed away, while he whispered,

"That girl sitting next to you is true to Billy Arnold's band, and the first thing you know she will be playing with your money." This was the orchestra of about 60 pieces, furnishing the music in the casino.

"Don't worry," I reassured him. "She will wind up with a sore wrist if she reaches for any of my chips."

I was doing pretty well and along late in the evening, I got the bank and opened for a modest sum like 500 francs. She matched the whole amount and I won. I let it ride and again she took it and lost. Once more I shot the works to give her a chance, and my luck held. I then passed the bank, and she was slow about reaching for her pocketbook. The croupier became impatient, so she put the cash on the line and scowled at me.

"She expected to pay you off in telephone numbers," remarked Bugs Baer who was standing behind me.

That night I stayed awake at least five minutes picking at the counterpane and thinking I had perhaps been impolite to a daughter of uor gallant ally, France. Then I turned over and went to sleep.

A friend of mine, Albert Lasker, a big advertising tycoon, now dead, had a client who loved to play roulette. He was visiting Mr. Lasker in Florida one winter, and after dinner suggested they do some gambling. He agreed reluctantly only because his guest was a customer. They were to go 50-50 and the automobile man was to handle the operations. After about an hour, they were $25,000 ahead.

"Let's cash in and go home," suggested Mr. Lasker. "It's getting late, and I'm tired—winners' fatigue I guess."

The other shook his head.

"No," he answered. "We've just got them on the run. It's our lucky night."

Along about four in the morning, they quit losing $175,000. See what Mizner meant by the psychology of the sucker.

Gas Companies To Seek Merger

A hearing has been set Thursday, May 28, at 10:30 a. m. before the Maryland Public Service Commission in Baltimore on the transfer of the C&A Gas Company to the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh.

In an application filed with the PSC the two firms want the consent to transfer all of the C&A's franchises, works and system in Maryland to the Manufacturers Heat and Light.

The C&A and Manufacturers Light and Heat firms are both members of the Columbia Gas System and the C&A is a subsidiary of the firm that has Pittsburgh as its home office.

A similar petition has been filed with the West Virginia Public Service Commission.

Firemen Receive Warm Welcome

WEST CHICAGO, Ill., May 19 (AP)—Three hundred visiting firemen from 25 Dupage and Kane County communities received a warm welcome in West Chicago Sunday.

They were scheduled to put out a fire in this Chicago suburb which was to have been set in an abandoned two-story frame factory building as part of a practice demonstration.

But when the firemen and their equipment rolled into town they were shunted by police to the Chicago and North Western Railway building in the center of West Chicago.

The huge circular structure was blazing brightly.

The visiting firemen swarmed over the building, carrying hoses and directing streams of water. They cut holes in the two-inch plank roof.

"This is a dandy," a fireman from Batavia told Fire Chief Arnold Berndt. "How did you happen to think of this."

Bernt said he hadn't.

Defendants Win In Coal Dispute

A dispute over coal mined from 2.3 acres of Garrett County land was settled this week by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court when he returned a verdict for the defendants.

Clyde E. Bowman and Evelyn M. Bowman, his wife, of Grantsville brought suit in Garrett County Circuit Court for $300 against Emma E. Bender and Joel A. Beachy, trading as Meyers Coal Company, Grantsville.

The plaintiffs, through Attorney William L. Wilson, Jr., declared that under terms of two deeds they were entitled to $100 per acre for removal of coal from the land. They argued that the defendants had taken coal from 2.3 acres of the land and had refused to pay the plaintiffs, who sued for $300. The case subsequently was removed here.

Judge Henderson ruled for the defendants when he heard testimony that the coal was mined in 1941 and the plaintiffs did not acquire the property until 1944. Attorney E. Ray Jones of Oakland represented the defendants.

Soap Box Derby Entrants To Be Fully Insured

Every boy who drives his homemade coaster racer in Cumberland's sixth annual Soap Box Derby on Saturday, July 11, will be covered by insurance.

This was announced yesterday by Derby officials who emphasized that all precautionary measures will be taken to safeguard the youthful drivers in the summer racing classic.

Cumberland has been a part of the All-American Derby for the past five years and under this international program no Soap Box race shall operate without proper insurance coverage. This insurance protects against claims of spectators, participants, officials and owners of property adjacent to the course.

Twenty boys in the tri-state area between the ages of 11 and 15 have already entered the local race with more than twice that many expected to roll down the starting ramp on Derby Day. Latest to affix his signature on a Derby application is 14-year-old Larry Norris of Baltimore Pike, a student at Fort Hill High School.

Boys in the Lonaconing area planning to enter the Derby may do so at the C. C. Miller and Son garage on Main Street, while those from the Tri-Towns can enroll at the Riverside Lunch Room, Westernport.

Cars of boys in these areas will be transported to Cumberland by the Times-News several days before the Derby. The local event is co-sponsored by The Times-News and Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., in conunction with the Junior Association of Commerce and the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association.

For the third straight year, Cumberland's Derby will be held on Pennsylvania Avenue. A large, attractive prize list is offered by Eiler Chevrolet, with The Times-News sending the winner on a four-day trip to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the All-American Derby in early August. The winner at Akron gets a five-year scholarship to any college of his choice. Altogether, $15,000 in scholarships will go to All-American participants.

Vets On Furlough

Five Cumberland veterans from the Far East Command started 30-day rotation leaves at home Monday. They are:

Sgt. First Class James A. Collins, 413 Beall Street; Cpl. John S. Poole of Roberts Street Extended; Pfc. Thomas J. Minke, 847 Gephart Drive; Pfc. William L. Swandol, 209 West Oldtown Road, and Pvt. Phillip F. Hoenicka, 119 Polk Street.

Mt. Savage School Roadway Survey Data Is Completed

The State Roads Commission Monday afternoon completed final field inspections of the grade, drainage and other engineering data of the proposed roadway into the new Mt. Savage School.

G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, said bids will probably be asked within five weeks on the project. The road will be about 5,000 feet in length and 18 feet in width.

It is estimated the roadway will cost about $142,000 with the Allegany County Board of Commissions paying part and the federal government supplying matching funds.

Cost of the project is relatively high due to the grade and difficult terrain, Chaires said.

G. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, submitted his report for the County Roads Department for April.

Total expenditures for the month were $17,779.80 with labor costs $12,634.65, materials, $1,675.92 and equipment, $3,469.23.

Australian Singer To Appear Here

Alfredo Luizzi, baritone, a native of Australia, but now of New York, will be the assisting artist with the Cumberland Choral Society at its Patrons Concert next Friday 8:15 p. m. at Allegany High School auditorium, according to Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, president of the chorus.

Under the direction of Gordon Williams, conductor, Luizzi will sing one number with the full chorus, and a group of solos. He has sung with the NBC Symphony Orchestra under Toscanini and has appeared as soloist at Radio City, New York.

Luizzi came to the United States at the urging of Lawrence Tibbett when that Metropolitan Opera star heard him during a tour of Australia. Before coming to the U. S. he won the Governor General's medal for the vocal championship of Australia and New Zealand. He served with the Australian forces during World War II.

PTA To Install

Officers will be installed by the Johnson Heights School Parent-Teacher Association Thursday at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, state and county PTA chairman for adult education, will install the following: Nathan Hauger, president; Harry Bowman, vice president; Rudolph Kompanek, secretary; and Harry Griggs, treasurer.

Dextran Won't Reduce Blood Donation Need

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—Red Cross and Defense Department officials said today the need for public blood donations will be "just as great as ever" despite use by the armed forces of dextran, a sugar substance, instead of blood plasma, in treating sick and wounded who do not require other transfusion support.

Dextran, derivable from cane sugar, molasses or beet juice, will be used for cases that do not require long-continued "nutritional" support. For these latter cases, another plasma substitute—a blood derivative called "serum albumin"—will be used. Also, extremely serious cases in which there has been great loss of blood will continue to be treated with "whole blood" for which officials say "there is no substitute."

B'Nai B'Rith Officers Will Be Installed

An installation of new officers of Western Maryland Lodge, B'Nai B'Rith, will be held on June 7 at a dinner meeting in Bedford Springs Hotel.

A prominent speaker from Washington will give the principal address and the installation ceremonies will be under direction of the President of the Maryland and District of Columbia Association of B'Nai B'Rith Lodges. The installation committee is composed of Harry Stein, chairman, George Ossip, Melvin Sachs, Leonard Schwab, Robert Gerson, Frank Kaplon, Paul Steinberger and Adolph Hirsch. An estimated hundred members and friends of the lodge are expected to attend.

Firemen Receive Warm Welcome

WEST CHICAGO, Ill., May 19 (AP)—Three hundred visiting firemen from 25 Dupage and Kane County communities received a warm welcome in West Chicago Sunday.

They were scheduled to put out a fire in this Chicago suburb which was to have been set in an abandoned two-story frame factory building as part of a practice demonstration.

But when the firemen and their equipment rolled into town they were shunted by police to the Chicago and North Western Railway building in the center of West Chicago.

The huge circular structure was blazing brightly.

The visiting firemen swarmed over the building, carrying hoses and directing streams of water. They cut holes in the two-inch plank roof.

"This is a dandy," a fireman from Batavia told Fire Chief Arnold Berndt. "How did you happen to think of this."

Bernt said he hadn't.

Defendants Win In Coal Dispute

A dispute over coal mined from 2.3 acres of Garrett County land was settled this week by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court when he returned a verdict for the defendants.

Clyde E. Bowman and Evelyn M. Bowman, his wife, of Grantsville brought suit in Garrett County Circuit Court for $300 against Emma E. Bender and Joel A. Beachy, trading as Meyers Coal Company, Grantsville.

The plaintiffs, through Attorney William L. Wilson, Jr., declared that under terms of two deeds they were entitled to $100 per acre for removal of coal from the land. They argued that the defendants had taken coal from 2.3 acres of the land and had refused to pay the plaintiffs, who sued for $300. The case subsequently was removed here.

Judge Henderson ruled for the defendants when he heard testimony that the coal was mined in 1941 and the plaintiffs did not acquire the property until 1944. Attorney E. Ray Jones of Oakland represented the defendants.

Soap Box Derby Entrants To Be Fully Insured

Every boy who drives his homemade coaster racer in Cumberland's sixth annual Soap Box Derby on Saturday, July 11, will be covered by insurance.

This was announced yesterday by Derby officials who emphasized that all precautionary measures will be taken to safeguard the youthful drivers in the summer racing classic.

Cumberland has been a part of the All-American Derby for the past five years and under this international program no Soap Box race shall operate without proper insurance coverage. This insurance protects against claims of spectators, participants, officials and owners of property adjacent to the course.

Twenty boys in the tri-state area between the ages of 11 and 15 have already entered the local race with more than twice that many expected to roll down the starting ramp on Derby Day. Latest to affix his signature on a Derby application is 14-year-old Larry Norris of Baltimore Pike, a student at Fort Hill High School.

Boys in the Lonaconing area planning to enter the Derby may do so at the C. C. Miller and Son garage on Main Street, while those from the Tri-Towns can enroll at the Riverside Lunch Room, Westernport.

Cars of boys in these areas will be transported to Cumberland by the Times-News several days before the Derby. The local event is co-sponsored by The Times-News and Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., in conunction with the Junior Association of Commerce and the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association.

For the third straight year, Cumberland's Derby will be held on Pennsylvania Avenue. A large, attractive prize list is offered by Eiler Chevrolet, with The Times-News sending the winner on a four-day trip to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the All-American Derby in early August. The winner at Akron gets a five-year scholarship to any college of his choice. Altogether, $15,000 in scholarships will go to All-American participants.

Mt. Savage School Roadway Survey Data Is Completed

The State Roads Commission Monday afternoon completed final field inspections of the grade, drainage and other engineering data of the proposed roadway into the new Mt. Savage School.

G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, said bids will probably be asked within five weeks on the project. The road will be about 5,000 feet in length and 18 feet in width.

It is estimated the roadway will cost about $142,000 with the Allegany County Board of Commissions paying part and the federal government supplying matching funds.

Cost of the project is relatively high due to the grade and difficult terrain, Chaires said.

G. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, submitted his report for the County Roads Department for April.

Total expenditures for the month were $17,779.80 with labor costs $12,634.65, materials, $1,675.92 and equipment, $3,469.23.

Repairs work in the various districts cost as follows:

Australian Singer To Appear Here

Alfredo Luizzi, baritone, a native of Australia, but now of New York, will be the assisting artist with the Cumberland Choral Society at its Patrons Concert next Friday 8:15 p. m. at Allegany High School auditorium, according to Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, president of the chorus.

Under the direction of Gordon Williams, conductor, Luizzi will sing one number with the full chorus, and a group of solos. He has sung with the NBC Symphony Orchestra under Toscanini and has appeared as soloist at Radio City, New York.

Luizzi came to the United States at the urging of Lawrence Tibbett when that Metropolitan Opera star heard him during a tour of Australia. Before coming to the U. S. he won the Governor General's medal for the vocal championship of Australia and New Zealand. He served with the Australian forces during World War II.

Dextran Won't Reduce Blood Donation Need

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—Red Cross and Defense Department officials said today the need for public blood donations will be "just as great as ever" despite use by the armed forces of dextran, a sugar substance, instead of blood plasma, in treating sick and wounded who do not require other transfusion support.

Dextran, derivable from cane sugar, molasses or beet juice, will be used for cases that do not require long-continued "nutritional" support. For these latter cases, another plasma substitute—a blood derivative called "serum albumin"—will be used. Also, extremely serious cases in which there has been great loss of blood will continue to be treated with "whole blood" for which officials say "there is no substitute."

B'Nai B'Rith Officers Will Be Installed

An installation of new officers of Western Maryland Lodge, B'Nai B'Rith, will be held on June 7 at a dinner meeting in Bedford Springs Hotel.

A prominent speaker from Washington will give the principal address and the installation ceremonies will be under direction of the President of the Maryland and District of Columbia Association of B'Nai B'Rith Lodges. The installation committee is composed of Harry Stein, chairman, George Ossip, Melvin Sachs, Leonard Schwab, Robert Gerson, Frank Kaplon, Paul Steinberger and Adolph Hirsch. An estimated hundred members and friends of the lodge are expected to attend.

Miss Davis Is Editor-In-Chief Of Pasquino

R. J. Billeter Talks At Annual Banquet

KEYSER—One of the highlights of last night's annual Pasquino Staff Press Banquet at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Cumberland, was announcement of the top staff members of the Potomac State College newspaper for next year.

Miss Alice Jean Davis, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Koontz, Kansas City, and E. M. Davis, Cincinnati, will be editor-in-chief, succeeding Richard Pendergast. Miss Doris Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Martin, Keyser, will serve as news editor.

Appointments were made by Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, head of the journalism department and faculty adviser of the Pasquino.

Miss Davis, a journalism major, attended Washington-Irving High School, Clarksburg, and is a graduate of Bridgeport High School. She has been chosen president of Sigma Iota Chi Sorority for next year and will continue her membership in Players Club, the Christian Youth Fellowship and the Woman's Athletic Association.

Miss Martin, also a journalism major, is a graduate of Keyser High School. Next year she will serve as Sentinel for Eta Upsilon Gamma Sorority and treasurer of Christian Youth Fellowship. She is also a member of Players Club.

Other staff positions will be named in the fall, Dr. Atwater said.

The speaker at the banquet was Robert J. Billeter, editor of the weekly Pendleton Times, Franklin, who recently was given an award of $500 for notable work in the field of journalism for being instrumental in saving the lives of two young men from Washington, lost in the underground maze of Trout Creek, a cave near Franklin. The story of his part in the rescue of the two men, was dramatized recently on the radio show, "The Big Story."

Billeter told how and why he became interested in journalism. He said he was an English teacher at Fort Ashby High School and watched the school's paper being printed. He resigned from the school to take a position on The Times at Franklin and last New Year's Day became its managing editor.

Pendergast, current editor of Pasquino, gave the invocation. P. T. Dayton, of the sports staff, presented the toastmaster, William Kaylor, business manager of the paper, after which Pendergast introduced the guests, who included, in addition to members of the staff, Mrs. Billeter, President and Mrs. E. E. Church and Dean and Mrs. K. S. McKee.

Miss Davis Is Editor-In-Chief Of Pasquino

R. J. Billeter Talks At Annual Banquet

KEYSER—One of the highlights of last night's annual Pasquino Staff Press Banquet at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Cumberland, was announcement of the top staff members of the Potomac State College newspaper for next year.

Miss Alice Jean Davis, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Koontz, Kansas City, and E. M. Davis, Cincinnati, will be editor-in-chief, succeeding Richard Pendergast. Miss Doris Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Martin, Keyser, will serve as news editor.

Appointments were made by Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, head of the journalism department and faculty adviser of the Pasquino.

Miss Davis, a journalism major, attended Washington-Irving High School, Clarksburg, and is a graduate of Bridgeport High School. She has been chosen president of Sigma Iota Chi Sorority for next year and will continue her membership in Players Club, the Christian Youth Fellowship and the Woman's Athletic Association.

Miss Martin, also a journalism major, is a graduate of Keyser High School. Next year she will serve as Sentinel for Eta Upsilon Gamma Sorority and treasurer of Christian Youth Fellowship. She is also a member of Players Club.

Other staff positions will be named in the fall, Dr. Atwater said.

The speaker at the banquet was Robert J. Billeter, editor of the weekly Pendleton Times, Franklin, who recently was given an award of $500 for notable work in the field of journalism for being instrumental in saving the lives of two young men from Washington, lost in the underground maze of Trout Creek, a cave near Franklin. The story of his part in the rescue of the two men, was dramatized recently on the radio show, "The Big Story."

Billeter told how and why he became interested in journalism. He said he was an English teacher at Fort Ashby High School and watched the school's paper being printed. He resigned from the school to take a position on The Times at Franklin and last New Year's Day became its managing editor.

Pendergast, current editor of Pasquino, gave the invocation. P. T. Dayton, of the sports staff, presented the toastmaster, William Kaylor, business manager of the paper, after which Pendergast introduced the guests, who included, in addition to members of the staff, Mrs. Billeter, President and Mrs. E. E. Church and Dean and Mrs. K. S. McKee.

Both Dr. Church and Dean McKee praised the contribution the staff workers on the college paper make to the college.

OLD BUILDING JUST MOVES AWAY—One of Oakland's older buildings is shown going down Liberty Street early Saturday heading for its new site on Byrne Nally's lot two blocks away. Built by the late Dr. J. Lee McComas prior to 1875 and originally situated on Second Street, it was making its second but probably not its last move. Dr. McComas used it as his office and on one of the rear windows he etched Garrett County weather conditions with his ring. These notations included October 11, 1875, first snow; October 31, 1875, heavy snow and wind; January 20 1880, grass green and everyone sick more or less. The building has been used as a jewelry shop, shoe repair shop, and oil office. Nally isn't too sure what use he will make of it.

Its operations will be conducted on the first floor of the Keyser Moose home and approximately ten men will be employed when operations start, Minnich stated. Radio And Television

by John Crosby

The Bishop Will Be Back

Bishop Sheen signed off for the summer last week with the announcement—neither more nor less prideful than any other television performer—that he had been renewed for the following year by the same sponsor and would be back in the fall — with Admiral which manufactures television sets, air-conditioning units and a lot of other things.

John Crosby

So ends the first year of an experiment that has been conspicuously successful both for the Bishop and for Admiral. As an inspirational spellbinder there hasn't been anything around like the Bishop, certainly in my lifetime. There were, it's true, a few murmurs of complaint midway during the season that Bishop Sheen was hamming up his act with jokes. However, the doctrine that piety and humor won't mix will hardly bear close examintion. Some of the greatest of our clerics have been wits; all of them have had fairly sharp tongues. The Bishop is just following an old tradition, not breaking new ground.

For his final broadcast, after warming up what sounded like an enormous audience with a few mild gags, the Bishop fell into a vein of deep earnestness and made a lot of sense. "The whole organism is sick," he declared. "We cannot point a finger at one country and say that it is wrong. Our problem is Communism. Communism will never be defeated. Communism will be converted—to God."

He hammered away at the theme that the west had not nearly so much to fear from without as from within, quoting Toynbee and Lincoln in the process. His theme, if I understood it correctly, was that America's role in world affairs, far from being a burden, was actually a glorious destiny that its people should welcome. Here he is treading very close to Toynbee who in a recent interview on Ed Murrow's "See It Now," declared that America's very troubles would rescue it from internal decay which, he seems to have felt, would inevitably have overtaken it if we hadn't encountered problems of such vast magnitude after World War II.

The whole talk was a very enlightened assessment of our spiritual deficiencies and especially spiritual confusion. If there is a single common denominator in all the Bishop's talks, it is that simply being against something, even Communism, is a spiritual vacuum, soul-destroying rather than uplifting. That's hardly a new message but, in the present state of poisonous self-doubts which afflict so many Americans, it can stand endless restating.

I was as usual amazed at the rapidity with which the Bishop's half hour fled past. "If during the past twenty-six weeks, we have brought a single soul nearer to God, we feel that the time has been well spent." A mighty modest wish. The Admiral people, I imagine, are counting on a rather larger number than that or they would hardly have renewed him .

In his closing words, the Bishop changed abruptly from the cleric to the showman. "You've been a good audience. 'Bye now—and God love you." 'Bye, Bishop. See you in the fall.

After bidding temporary farewell to Bishop Sheen, I switched over to the remainder of the Milton Berle fiesta, largely to see Margaret Truman. I haven't seen this trouper since her father retired to Independence and I was anxious to see if this fact had made any major changes in her style either as a comedian or a singer.

Maybe I was just in a state of Sheen-induced benevolence, but I thought that the girl had improved greatly in both departments. Margaret now handles a comedy line with professional dexterity, though hardly genius, and she remains poised even with Uncle Miltie who has shattered the composure of much more experienced artists. As a singer she is not now nor never will be a Rosemary Clooney but she managed to race through a few bars of "I'm Just Wild About Harry" without flatting once. It isn't much but it's an improvement.

The Bishop Will Be Back

Bishop Sheen signed off for the summer last week with the announcement—neither more nor less prideful than any other television performer—that he had been renewed for the following year by the same sponsor and would be back in the fall — with Admiral which manufactures television sets, air-conditioning units and a lot of other things.

John Crosby

So ends the first year of an experiment that has been conspicuously successful both for the Bishop and for Admiral. As an inspirational spellbinder there hasn't been anything around like the Bishop, certainly in my lifetime. There were, it's true, a few murmurs of complaint midway during the season that Bishop Sheen was hamming up his act with jokes. However, the doctrine that piety and humor won't mix will hardly bear close examintion. Some of the greatest of our clerics have been wits; all of them have had fairly sharp tongues. The Bishop is just following an old tradition, not breaking new ground.

For his final broadcast, after warming up what sounded like an enormous audience with a few mild gags, the Bishop fell into a vein of deep earnestness and made a lot of sense. "The whole organism is sick," he declared. "We cannot point a finger at one country and say that it is wrong. Our problem is Communism. Communism will never be defeated, Communism will be converted—to God."

He hammered away at the theme that the west had not nearly so much to fear from without as from within, quoting Toynbee and Lincoln in the process. His theme, if I understood it correctly, was that America's role in world affairs, far from being a burden, was actually a glorious destiny that its people should welcome. Here he is treading very close to Toynbee who in a recent interview on Ed Murrow's "See It Now," declared that America's very troubles would rescue it from internal decay which, he seems to have felt, would inevitably have overtaken it if we hadn't encountered problems of such vast magnitude after World War II.

The whole talk was a very enlightened assessment of our spiritual deficiencies and especially spiritual confusion. If there is a single common denominator in all the Bishop's talks, it is that simply being against something, even Communism, is a spiritual vacuum, soul-destroying rather than uplifting. That's hardly a new message but, in the present state of poisonous self-doubts which afflict so many Americans, it can stand endless restating.

I was as usual amazed at the rapidity with which the Bishop's half hour fled past. "If during the past twenty-six weeks, we have brought a single soul nearer to God, we feel that the time has been well spent." A mighty modest wish. The Admiral people, I imagine, are counting on a rather larger number than that or they would hardly have renewed him.

In his closing words, the Bishop changed abruptly from the cleric to the showman. "You've been a good audience. 'Bye now—and God love you." 'Bye, Bishop. See you in the fall.

After bidding temporary farewell to Bishop Sheen, I switched over to the remainder of the Milton Berle fiesta, largely to see Margaret Truman. I haven't seen this trouper since her father retired to Independence and I was anxious to see if this fact had made any major changes in her style either as a comedian or a singer.

Maybe I was just in a state of Sheen-induced benevolence, but I thought that the girl had improved greatly in both departments. Margaret now handles a comedy line with professional dexterity, though hardly genius, and she remains poised even with Uncle Miltie who has shattered the composure of much more experienced artists. As a singer she is not now nor never will be a Rosemary Clooney but she managed to race through a few bars of "I'm Just Wild About Harry" without flatting once. It isn't much but it's an improvement.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives for the kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our dear wife and mother, Minnie Crosser. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars, the pallbearers and Rev. David Roy, who officiated.

THE CROSSER FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of my beloved wife, Mrs. W. M. Shumaker, who died May 15, 1952
"Gone but not forgotten"
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love has given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.
Mr. W. M. Shumaker

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives for the kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our dear wife and mother, Minnie Crosser. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars, the pallbearers and Rev. David Roy, who officiated.

THE CROSSER FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of my beloved wife, Mrs. W. M. Shumaker, who died May 15, 1952

"Gone but not forgotten"
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love has given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

Mr. W. M. Shumaker

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Lesta E. Hardegan, vs Everett Hardegan.

No. 23195 Equity In the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

The object and purpose of this suit is to secure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Plaintiff, Lesta E. Hardegan, from the Defendant, Everett Hardegan, and to obtain the custody of two infant children of said marriage, namely; Helen Virginia Hardegan and Martha Ann Hardegan.

The Bill states that the parties were married November 29, 1933, at Lonaconing and the two aforesaid children were born of said marriage. That the Plaintiff was a kind, affectionate and faithful wife, but, nevertheless, the Defendant, by his conduct, made it impossible for them to reside together, and in consequence thereof, the parties were separated upon September 29, 1949, whereby the Defendant abandoned and deserted her and declared his intentions to live with her no longer, and that the separation of the parties has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years and is deliberate and final, and there is no reasonable hope of a reconciliation. The Bill then states that the Plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County working in the District of Columbia, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing in the State of Ohio, and that the Defendant is not in any way engaged in or serving in the Armed Forces of the United States. The Bill then prays for a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII and custody of the two children and for further relief.

It is thereupon this 5 day of May, 1953, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County sitting in Equity that the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint be published in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks on or before the 6 day of June, 1953, and warning the Defendant, Everett Hardegan, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and whose Post Office Address is care of the YWCA in the City of Dayton, in the State of Ohio, to appear in this Court on or before the 23 day of June, 1953, next, either in person or by solicitor and answer the premises and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Dance To Be Held Friday

The eighth annual dance for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, sponsored by the Mothers Club, will be held Friday evening. It will be at the Clary Club with music by Art Shaffer's Orchestra from 10 until 2 o'clock.

The first dance for the league, given in 1946, netted $50. Since then the amount turned over to the Crippled Children's League has grown steadily. Last spring it amounted to $437.50. This year the club has set $450 as the goal and tickets are almost sold out.

Two members of the club will be at the door to greet guests, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Dr. George Bennett, Dr. George Eaton, Baltimore; Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, president of the league, and Mrs. Vivian Annan, secretary of the league, are to be honor guests.

The next meeting will be June 11 at the community center.

Market Slips As Traders Await Eisenhower Speech

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—Scattered strong spots appeared in the Stock Market today, but the list as a whole declined.

Rails and oils provided the areas of buoyancy without creating enough buying incentive to raise the rest of the market.

For the most part, traders and others were not too pleased with Washington forecasts of what President Eisenhower intends to say in his broadcast tonight, and most appeared willing to await the words of the President himself.

The market was a bit lower in the beginning and slipped still more as the day wore on. Congressional leaders after a White House conference said the administration wants corporate taxes extended beyond their scheduled expiration date. Particularly, Wall Street was concerned with statements that the administrations wants to add six months to the life of the excess profits tax due to expire June 30.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 30 cents and closed at $110.00 with the industrial component off 50 cents, the railroads up 20 cents, and the utilities off 30 cents.

The list was composed of 1,085 individual issues of which 307 advanced and 456 declined with 12 new highs and 58 new lows for the year shown.

Southern Railway was up 2⅜ at 94½ on the report that net income for the first four months this year amounted to $7.57 a share as compared with $3.71 a share a year ago.

Shell Oil gained 1⅝ at 68¾ after news of its Williston Basin oil well discovery was released. Two large holders nearby are Northern Pacific up 1½ at 71¼ and Montana-Dakota utilities up ¼ at 24⅜.

Decca records was under pressure with a loss of 1 at 11⅛ on news that the company proposes offering stockholders rights to subscribe to an additional 318,625 shares of common stock.

Governor Names Pair To Boards

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 17 (AP)—An Eastern Shore industrialist and a former Washington newspaper woman were named to state jobs yesterday by Gov. McKeldin.

He appointed R. Justice Funkhouser, 39, of Centreville to be the Eastern Shore's representative on the State Planning Commission, a position which has been open since Davis G. Burrough of Easton resigned nearly a year ago.

Mrs. Ruth McCormick Tankersley, former editor and vice-president of the Washington Times-Herald, was named to the State Board of Education filling a vacancy created by the death of Nicholas Orem of Hyattsville.

Funkhouser is general manager of O'Sullivan Farms at Centreville and Charles Town, W. Va. He is vice chairman and a trustee of R. J. Funkhouser Foundation and executive president of Funkhouser Industries, an investment and development concern at Centreville.

The term on the planning commission, which goes over plans for state buildings and development, runs until 1955.

Siamese Twin Boys Born To Housewife

INVERNESS, N. S., May 19 (AP)—A 19-year-old housewife today gave birth to Siamese twin boys joined by a bone from close to the neck to the navel.

Dr. Frank MacLeod, chief surgeon of the Inverness County Memorial Hospital, said the twins, weighing about 13 pounds, are "perfectly developed." He said the mother, Mrs. Max Wyrwas, was in satisfactory condition. The 26-year-old father is a garage mechanic.

48 New War Casualties

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 48 Korean War casualties in a new list (No. 815) that reported 10 killed, 32 wounded, four captured and two injured.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Lesta E. Hardegan, vs Everett Hardegan,

No. 23195 Equity In the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

The object and purpose of this suit is to secure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Plaintiff, Lesta E. Hardegan, from the Defendant, Everett Hardegan, and to obtain the custody of two infant children of said marriage, namely: Helen Virginia Hardegan and Martha Ann Hardegan.

The Bill states that the parties were married November 29, 1933, at Lonaconing and the two aforesaid children were born of said marriage. That the Plaintiff was a kind, affectionate and faithful wife, but, nevertheless, the Defendant, by his conduct, made it impossible for them to reside together, and in consequence thereof, the parties were separated upon September 29, 1949, whereby the Defendant abandoned and deserted her and declared his intentions to live with her no longer, and that the separation of the parties has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years and is deliberate and final, and there is no reasonable hope of a reconciliation. The Bill then states that the Plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County working in the District of Columbia, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing in the State of Ohio, and that the Defendant is not in any way engaged in or serving in the Armed Forces of the United States. The Bill then prays for a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII and custody of the two children and for further relief.

It is thereupon this 5 day of May, 1953, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County sitting in Equity that the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint be published in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks on or before the 6 day of June, 1953, and warning the Defendant, Everett Hardegan, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and whose Post Office Address is care of the YWCA in the City of Dayton, in the State of Ohio, to appear in this Court on or before the 23 day of June, 1953, next, either in person or by solicitor and answer the premises and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Market Slips As Traders Await Eisenhower Speech

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—Scattered strong spots appeared in the Stock Market today, but the list as a whole declined.

Rails and oils provided the areas of buoyancy without creating enough buying incentive to raise the rest of the market.

For the most part, traders and others were not too pleased with Washington forecasts of what President Eisenhower intends to say in his broadcast tonight, and most appeared willing to await the words of the President himself.

The market was a bit lower in the beginning and slipped still more as the day wore on. Congressional leaders after a White House conference said the administration wants corporate taxes extended beyond their scheduled expiration date. Particularly, Wall Street was concerned with statements that the administrations wants to add six months to the life of the excess profits tax due to expire June 30.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 30 cents and closed at $110.00 with the industrial component off 50 cents, the railroads up 20 cents, and the utilities off 30 cents.

The list was composed of 1,085 individual issues of which 307 advanced and 456 declined with 12 new highs and 58 new lows for the year shown.

Southern Railway was up 2⅜ at 94½ on the report that net income for the first four months this year amounted to $7.57 a share as compared with $3.71 a share a year ago.

Shell Oil gained 1⅝ at 68¾ after news of its Williston Basin oil well discovery was released. Two large holders nearby are Northern Pacific up 1½ at 71¼ and Montana-Dakota utilities up ¼ at 24⅜.

Decca records was under pressure with a loss of 1 at 11⅛ on news that the company proposes offering stockholders rights to subscribe to an additional 318,625 shares of common stock.

Sunshine Mining was down ¼ at 8⅝ as directors declined a dividend of 15 cents as compared with 20 cents previously paid quarterly.

Decca Records topped the most active list with a volume of 28,000 shares. It was followed by Willys-Overland up at 15⅞, Montana-Dakota Utilities, New York Central off at 23⅜, and Northern Pacific.

Roll call was answered with household hints. Games were played and refreshments served. Fifteen members attended.

Governor Names Pair To Boards

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 17 (AP)—An Eastern Shore industrialist and a former Washington newspaper woman were named to state jobs yesterday by Gov. McKeldin.

He appointed R. Justice Funkhouser, 39, of Centreville to be the Eastern Shore's representative on the State Planning Commission, a position which has been open since Davis G. Burrough of Easton resigned nearly a year ago.

Mrs. Ruth McCormick Tankersley, former editor and vice-president of the Washington Times-Herald, was named to the State Board of Education filling a vacancy created by the death of Nicholas Orem of Hyattsville.

Funkhouser is general manager of O'Sullivan Farms at Centreville and Charles Town, W. Va. He is vice chairman and a trustee of R. J. Funkhouser Foundation and executive president of Funkhouser Industries, an investment and development concern at Centreville.

The term on the planning commission, which goes over plans for state buildings and development, runs until 1955.

Siamese Twin Boys Born To Housewife

INVERNESS, N. S., May 19 (AP)—A 19-year-old housewife today gave birth to Siamese twin boys joined by a bone from close to the neck to the navel.

Dr. Frank MacLeod, chief surgeon of the Inverness County Memorial Hospital, said the twins, weighing about 13 pounds, are "perfectly developed." He said the mother, Mrs. Max Wyrwas, was in satisfactory condition. The 26-year-old father is a garage mechanic.

48 New War Casualties

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 48 Korean War casualties in a new list (No. 815) that reported 10 killed, 32 wounded, four captured and two injured.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, May 19 (AP)—Selling caused partly by disappointment over lack of export trade sent wheat futures prices down more than a cent a bushel at times today. Corn also was weak, and oats eased a bit in sympathy. Soybeans generally were firm.

Freeland Leads Keyser Mayoral Primary Ticket

Murray And Kessel Council Candidates

Former Mayor John C. Freeland lead the ticket in Keyser's city primary election last night, leading incumbent Chester J. Compton, 823 to 587, as final returns from the city's three election precincts were counted.

Voters also named Raymond L. Murray, present water commissioner, and Evers T. Kessel for city councilmen to run for the lone office vacant in the council in the city's general election June 2. Murray had 809 votes, Kessel 482.

Thomas P. Fischel, third candidate for office in the council race, was a badly beaten third with 57 votes and was eliminated.

Final unofficial results were:

FOR MAYOR

John C. Freeland	823
Chester J. Compton	587

FOR COUNCIL

Raymond L. Murray	809
Evers T. Kessel	482
Thomas P. Fischel	57

The city voters also overwhelmingly favored the $45,000 bond issue for the City Recreation Board to build a swimming pool in the Board of Education grounds on New Creek Drive. The vote was 1,028 to 428 in favor of the measure.

In lieu of the decision to build the pool the voters okayed a levy of $45,000 to raise the money to erect the pool. The vote was 1,005 for and 347 against.

This automatically puts the two referendums on the books.

Approximately 49 per cent of the total 3,100 registered voters in Keyser cast ballots in the three city precincts, with nearly 1,500 ballots cast.

Freeland lead in all three precincts, winning 279 to 248 at Precinct No. 1, the council chamber; 334 to 233 at Precinct No. 2, West End; and 210 to 106, Precinct No. 3, South End.

At Precinct No. 1, 400 persons voted for the $45,000 bond issue for the top vote of the day.

Compton, seeking re-election to his second term, and Freeland, who has served seven two-year terms as Keyser's mayor both will be on the ticket in the general election the first Tuesday in June.

Murray and Kessel will oppose each other on the council ticket while the bond and levy referendums will not be on the general ballot.

Balloting took place from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Penn Avenue Field Readied For Ball Games

Penn Avenue Field has been placed in top condition for the opening of the ball season, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Pence said work on the field has been speeded up so the ball center will be in top shape for the opening of the Hot Stove League season June 1 and for Little League games which will get under way on June 15.

The work includes the installation of a screen between the first and third base foul lines so spectators may watch games in safety.

Clamp Down Bleachers

The backstop has been painted and repaired and similar maintenance has been done on a small fence at the infield. A new door has been built off right field for vehicles.

Recreation Department workers have also repaired and clamped down — for greater safety — the 1,300 bleachers at Penn Avenue Field.

Taylor Field, Pence said, is in the best shape in years. Topsoil has been hauled to the field and the addition of a backstop will place the center in Class A shape.

Topsoil has been placed on the infield of Rolling Mill Field and the outfield is being graded and rolled. Other ball fields in the city are in good shape, Pence said.

Fountains Installed

Meanwhile, the department has been installing drinking fountains at playgrounds in preparation for the opening of the playgrounds next month.

The fountains have already been placed at Stitcher, Centre Street, Columbia Street, West Side, Mt. Royal, East Side, Pine Avenue, Maplesides, Post, Johnson Heights, Virginia Avenue, Penn Avenue Field and Gephart playgrounds.

A fountain is now being built for installation at Gephart Playground and plans call for placing fountains at Lamont and Ridgedale play lots this summer.

Judge Issues Warning On Delinquency

Boys Are Sentenced In Theft, Vandalism

A stern warning to parents who allow their children to become delinquent was isued yesterday morning by Judge Alban C. Thompson during a hearing in Juvenile Court.

The warning stemmed from a case of two South End boys, brought before him for theft and vandalism. One 13-year-old youth was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys and the other boy was paroled for two years and told he must be of good behavior, attend church services and school regularly and be home by 9:30 p. m. each day.

After handing down the sentences, Judge Thompson turned to the parents of one of the boys and said they must do something to keep their son out of trouble or take the "medicine" themselves.

The two boys admitted to Lt. James E. Van and Leo E. P. Law of the City Police Detective Bureau that they had taken from 200 to 300 beer bottles from D. J. Healey's store room at 412 York Place and later sold them for a penny apiece at a South End Store.

They had been questioned Saturday night after K. O. Christner, proprietor of Christner's Bowling Alleys on Virginia Avenue complained someone had torn a piece of drain pipe from his roof.

Police said the boys admitted damaging the roof of the establishment. After further questioning they also admitted breaking windows in several cars at the Miller Junk Yard, River Avenue, on the same day.

Local Delegates To Attend State JC Convention

Baltimore Event Set May 22 To 24

Approximately 12 members of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will attend the annual state Jaycee convention this weekend at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore.

Miles G. Thompson Jr., state vice president, said activities will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, beginning with a "get together" Friday night for Jaycees and their wives.

Saturday between 10 a. m. and noon a board of directors meeting will be held, and in the afternoon the general membership will meet.

Most of the convention activities will take place on Saturday and include election of officers, presentation of awards, discussion of government and public affairs, leadership training, Jaycee publications, national convention details, safety program, youth welfare and junior golf programs.

Thompson said the Cumberland chapter is the second largest in the state and will have the second largest number of votes during the election. The local chapter is backing a Western Maryland candidate for president of the Maryland Jaycees. He is Roland G. Hebb, with Fairchild Aircraft at Hagerstown.

Also Saturday there will be a discussion of reports by state vice presidents of the various chapters on the accomplishments of committees assigned. Each vice president will report on the chapters for which he is responsible. Thompson is in charge of the local and Frostburg chapters.

Urge State Youth Program

Included in the reports will be the recent Voice of Democracy Contest of which Walter N. Hedrick, of the local Jaycees, was state director.

Thompson said the local delegation also will suggest that the Youth Mayor project that was so successful here be adopted by the state and national Jaycees.

At the convention banquet Saturday night, awards will be presented to various chapters. Main speaker for the event will be U. S. Senator John Marshall Butler. A dance will follow the dinner.

Keyser Youngster Seriously Bitten By Penned Dogs

Elizabeth Schoonover, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schoonover, who live in the Potomac Heights section of Keyser, was seriously injured last night when she fell from a tree into a pen where a neighbor had confined some dogs.

The child was rushed to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser for treatment of dog bites about her face and body. The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m., according to Keyser police.

Thomas Fischel, an unsuccessful candidate for nomination for City Council in yesterday's Keyser primary election, owns the dogs which are kept enclosed behind a high fence.

Police said the Schoonover child, who lives next door to Fischel, apparently climbed up in a tree while no one was looking and crawled out over the pen. She apparently lost her grip on the tree then and fell into the pen. She was badly bitten before she could be rescued from the animals.

National Society Honors W. Md. Railway For Aiding Study Of Ancient Bone Cave

Grotz Addresses 5 Service Clubs

The Western Maryland Railway yesterday was presented a citation and an award of merit by the National Speleological Society for the railroad's assistance in the excavation and study of the Cumberland Bone Cave.

The presentations were made to W. Arthur Grotz, president of the Railway, by Burton Faust, administrative vice president of the society, at a joint meeting of Cumberland's service clubs at Central YMCA.

In explaining the field of speleology, Faust said, "caves throughout centuries have been repositories for many things — burial places for deceased relatives, friends and even enemies, storage places for food, tools and other implements; hiding places for treasures, written historical and social information; confining places for prisoners; the last resting places for animals, and a source of salt-petre for gunpowders."

Explains Speleology

He explained that the National Speleological Society with its more than 1,200 members has the objectives of locating, exploring, mapping, photographing and studying all phases and aspects of caves and "caving" in the science of speleology.

In presenting the two merit awards to the Western Maryland Railway, Faust continued, "I am pleased to say that the officials of the Western Maryland Railway comprise another group of men who have caught this vision.

"This has been demonstrated in a very real manner by the generous assistance given Brother Nicholas, a member of the LaSalle High School faculty and a director of the Society, in his excavation and study of the Cumberland Bone Cave.

"Results to date have warranted this assistance and we feel that when the study can be completed our accumulation of knowledge of prehistoric animals will have been increased still further."

Railway Future Bright

Railway President Grotz, who was the main speaker at the joint meeting of the Cumberland Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Exchange and Optimists clubs, said he sees a good future for the Western Maryland Railway and added it expects to set new records for revenues and profits in 1953.

Grotz announced that the railroad will use twice as much Diesel power in 1953 as it did in 1952 in performing its special task of moving freight speedily across Maryland between Baltimore and points in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The railway president also announced "an important advance in the area of human relations among our personnel will occur on June 1 when we employ the full time services of a highly competent director of personnel, Yerby Holman, now a partner of the management consultant firm of George H. Elliott and Company of New York."

It is an entirely new job on the Western Maryland.

Grotz went on, "to serve its freight customers better, Western

More than 20 acts with the circus are done by performers from 18 countries and include such performances as clowns, high aerial work without benefit of nets, equestrian and dog acts, wire walking, elephant acts and many others for a show lasting more than two hours.

A top act is Capt. Hugo Smitt's seven elephants, billed as weighing more than 40 tons. A climax to the performance of the pachyderms is a teeterboard feat in which one of the elephants drops his foot on a board and sends a youngster somersaulting through the air to land on the elephant's head.

Also in the show are the Juggling Bakers from England, the Droguett Trio of jugglers from Chile, high diving dog and monkey, teeterboard and trampoline work of the Antonett family of Germany, a high revolving ladder act, gaily performed gymnastic feats, and of course the clowns.

Students of SS. Peter and Paul, St. Patrick's and St. Mary's parochial schools will be given time off to attend the show at 2 p. m.

Fans who buy advance tickets will save 10 per cent on the cost of the ducats and the Dapper Dans will receive 50 per cent of all advance sales. Ten per cent goes to the sponsoring organization on sales made circus day.

Proceeds from the receipts will be turned over to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and to the Little League Baseball Fund by the Dapper Dans organization.

License Board Dismisses One Remonstrance

One remonstrance against an applicant for a beer license was dismisssed yesterday by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners but the second one was taken under advisement for further deliberation.

The board dismissed the remonstrance against George Speir, who had applied for a beer license at the National Inn at Carlos Junction in National. There has been no alcoholic beverage license on the premises before.

42 Sign Petition

Some 43 residents of the area had signed a petition protesting the issuance on grounds that a beer license on the premises would make the place a traffic hazard as it is located on a curve and parking facilities are limited. However, Speir testified at yesterday's hearing in the Court House that he has made provisions for parking off State Route 36.

Former Judge Walter C. Capper and the other board members decided to grant the beer permit because the complaint involved no lawlessness on the premises.

A decision was withheld in the remonstrance against the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company, whose trustees, Dewey Wilfong, Fred T. Spencer and Carl H. Paul, had applied for a renewal of the beer license. The old license expired at midnight April 30.

There were 10 signers to a petition against issuance of the license. It was charged at the hearing that teen-agers were allowed to attend dances at the fire hall and that disturbances occurred during the early morning hours. It was also alleged that whisky was illegally sold at the hall.

"No Axe To Grind"

Charles O. Roy, a resident of Bowman's Addition, testified that he has "no axe to grind" with the fire company and does not object to the company but is vehemently opposed to the manner in which the place is operated.

When asked by Capper how close he lived to the fire hall the comment was "close enough to hear the noise." Roy said there have been no dances at the fire hall for two months and it has been unusually quiet in the neighborhood as a result. He said he has only been in the building once or twice and knows nothing concerning the conduct inside.

A former trustee, Herman S. Greise, testified that he resigned last January because the refusal of the bartender to obey orders and operate the place in a respectable manner.

He said that young men had caused disturbances at the dance hall and that when he protested against the manner in which the establishment was run the company, by a motion from the floor, suspended him.

He said his interest in the matter was that the place be operated

VFW Post Cites Celanese

Benjamin H. Sands, left, assistant superintendent of personnel at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese corporation of America, is shown as he received a citation from Thomas K. Whalley, judge advocate of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a ceremony at the post home last night. The citation, prepared by the VFW Department of Maryland, praised Celanese for "assistance and participation in war casualty burials." VFW officials note that the Amcelle plant has a policy of allowing post members time off from their jobs in order to attend funerals of servicemen returned here for burial.

Mammoth Power Plant Opened In Albright

McKeldin, Marland Speak At Ceremony

(Special to The News)

ALBRIGHT, W. Va. — Governor Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland and Governor William C. Marland of West Virginia joined with the Potomac Edison Company and the Monongahela Power Company in dedicating a "pulsating giant" of electric power production at Albright, W. Va., yesterday afternoon.

Some 250 guests heard the two governors and R. Paul Smith, president of Potomac Edison, and A. Clinton Spurr, president of Monongahela, declare their faith in the future as the "sister" power companies officially began operation of the mammoth Albright station.

Built as a joint project of Potomac Edison and Monongahela, the plant is located approximately at the point where the territories served by the two companies meet.

Third Unit Being Built

The plant's generating equipment at the present time consists of two identical units, each having a rated capacity of 75,000 kilowatts. One unit belongs to Potomac Edison, the other to Monongahela. Currently under construction is a third unit, to have a capacity of 135,000 kilowatts and this, too, will be owned by Monongahela.

Before the dedication program itself got underway, guests were taken on conducted tours of the plant and given an explanation of how it operates. For instance, one point of information indicated that the plant, when operating at capacity, will consume nearly 140 tons of coal each hour.

The tour itself as well as the words of the speakers pointed up the benefits to be derived from the plant site because of its location adjacent to the waters of the Cheat River and the nearby coal fields of Preston County, thus providing almost within touch the water and fuel needed to operate this steam generating plant.

Electricity from Albright for Potomac Edison customers in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania will come over a recently completed 132,000 volt transmission line. This connects Albright with a new substation at Ridgeley, just across the river from the PE plant at Cumberland, Md.

McKeldin Presents Gifts

At the dedication ceremony, presided over by Carter Withers, superintendent of the Albright station, Judge Melvin C. Snyder of West Virginia's 18th Judicial Circuit, welcomed the power companies to Preston County.

Presidents Spurr and Smith responded with hope that their companies would prove to be good neighbors, and Earle S. Thompson, president of the West Penn Electric Company, Inc., in which PE and Potomac Edison are "sister" organizations, followed a similar theme.

Gov. McKeldin virtually "wowed" the crowd with his oratory and his presentation of gifts to Gov. Marland, Smith and Spurr. To Gov. Marland he presented a picture history, "My Maryland," and to the presidents of the two power companies he gave etchings of Maryland's State House at Annapolis.

The dedication ceremony followed a box luncheon and a concert by the Kingwood High School Band.

Those attending from Cumberland included Charles A. Piper, Owen E. Hitchins and John J. McMullen, members of the PE board of directors, Henry W. Price, PE Cumberland District manager, and Walter T. Kline, manager of the PE Frostburg District.

Lashley Named To Nationwide Loan Committee

Lynn C. Lashley, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland, has been appointed to a select committee of United States Savings and Loan League members established to encourage home ownership among veterans.

The committee is comprised of 100 savings and loan leaders throughout the country, organized to step up GI lending by savings associations in the wake of the recent increase in interest rates on GI loans from 4 to 4½ per cent.

Lashley pointed out that since 1951, in the face of a steadily rising pattern of interest rates, the fixed ceiling of 4 per cent on GI loans had become less attractive to home financing institutions.

The result was that the percentage of GI lending to the total volume of home financing dropped to the lowest level since the close of World War II, Lashley added.

With the recent hike in GI interest rates, he said, the yield on loans has been brought more closely into line with the returns on other investments.

Since the national administration has indicated its desire to keep the GI program a free enterprise plan, Lashley continued, an effort is being made by the savings associations to cooperate in getting the program back on its feet.

Charles L. Clements, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, announced the appointment of Lashley to the special committee.

A stern warning to parents who allow their children to become delinquent was isued yesterday morning by Judge Alban C. Thompson during a hearing in Juvenile Court.

The warning stemmed from a case of two South End boys, brought before him for theft and vandalism. One 13-year-old youth was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys and the other boy was paroled for two years and told he must be of good behavior, attend church services and school regularly and be home by 9:30 p. m. each day.

After handing down the sentences, Judge Thompson turned to the parents of one of the boys and said they must do something to keep their son out of trouble or take the "medicine" themselves.

The two boys admitted to Lt. James E. Van and Leo E. P. Law of the City Police Defective Bureau that they had taken from 200 to 300 beer bottles from D. J. Healey's store room at 412 York Place and later sold them for a penny apiece at a South End Store.

They had been questioned Saturday night after K. O. Christner, proprietor of Christner's Bowling Alleys on Virginia Avenue complained someone had torn a piece of drain pipe from his roof.

Police said the boys admitted damaging the roof of the establishment. After further questioning they also admitted breaking windows in several cars at the Miller Junk Yard, River Avenue, on the same day.

The child was rushed to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser for treatment of dog bites about her face and body. The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m., according to Keyser police.

Thomas Fischel, an unsuccessful candidate for nomination for City Council in yesterday's Keyser primary election, owns the dogs which are kept enclosed behind a high fence.

National Society Honors W. Md. Railway For Aiding Study Of Ancient Bone Cave

Grotz Addresses 5 Service Clubs

The Western Maryland Railway yesterday was presented a citation and an award of merit by the National Speleological Society for the railroad's assistance in the excavation and study of the Cumberland Bone Cave.

The presentations were made to W. Arthur Grotz, president of the Railway, by Burton Faust, administrative vice president of the society, at a joint meeting of Cumberland's service clubs at Central YMCA.

In explaining the field of speleology, Faust said, "caves throughout centuries have been repositories for many things — burial places for deceased relatives, friends and even enemies, storage places for food, tools and other implements; hiding places for treasures, written historical and social information; confining places for prisoners; the last resting places for animals, and a source of salt-petre for gunpowders."

Explains Speleology

He explained that the National Speleological Society with its more than 1,200 members has the objectives of locating, exploring, mapping, photographing and studying all phases and aspects of caves and "caving" in the science of speleology.

In presenting the two merit awards to the Western Maryland Railway, Faust continued, "I am pleased to say that the officials of the Western Maryland Railway comprise another group of men who have caught this vision.

"This has been demonstrated in a very real manner by the generous assistance given Brother Nicholas, a member of the LaSalle High School faculty and a director of the Society, in his excavation and study of the Cumberland Bone Cave.

"Results to date have warranted this assistance and we feel that when the study can be completed our accumulation of knowledge of prehistoric animals will have been increased still further."

Railway Future Bright

Railway President Grotz, who was the main speaker at the joint meeting of the Cumberland Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Exchange and Optimists clubs, said he sees a good future for the Western Maryland Railway and added it expects to set new records for revenues and profits in 1953.

Grotz announced that the railroad will use twice as much Diesel power in 1953 as it did in 1952 in performing its special task of moving freight speedily across Maryland between Baltimore and points in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The railway president also announced "an important advance in the area of human relations among our personnel will occur on June 1 when we employ the full time services of a highly competent director of personnel, Yerby Holman, now a partner of the management consultant firm of George H. Elliott and Company of New York."

It is an entirely new job on the Western Maryland.

Grotz went on, "to serve its freight customers better, Western

License Board Dismisses One Remonstrance

One remonstrance against an applicant for a beer license was dismisssed yesterday by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners but the second one was taken under advisement for further deliberation.

The board dismissed the remonstrance against George Speir, who had applied for a beer license at the National Inn at Carlos Junction in National. There has been no alcoholic beverage license on the premises before.

42 Sign Petition

Some 43 residents of the area had signed a petition protesting the issuance on grounds that a beer license on the premises would make the place a traffic hazard as it is located on a curve and parking facilities are limited. However, Speir testified at yesterday's hearing in the Court House that he has made provisions for parking off State Route 36.

Former Judge Walter C. Capper and the other board members decided to grant the beer permit because the complaint involved no lawlessness on the premises.

A decision was withheld in the remonstrance against the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company, whose trustees, Dewey Wilfong, Fred T. Spencer and Carl H. Paul, had applied for a renewal of the beer license. The old license expired at midnight April 30.

There were 10 signers to a petition against issuance of the license. It was charged at the hearing that teen-agers were allowed to attend dances at the fire hall and that disturbances occurred during the early morning hours. It was also alleged that whisky was illegally sold at the hall.

"No Axe To Grind"

Charles O. Roy, a resident of Bowman's Addition, testified that he has "no axe to grind" with the fire company and does not object to the company but is vehemently opposed to the manner in which the place is operated.

When asked by Capper how close he lived to the fire hall the comment was "close enough to hear the noise." Roy said there have been no dances at the fire hall for two months and it has been unusually quiet in the neighborhood as a result. He said he has only been in the building once or twice and knows nothing concerning the conduct inside.

A former trustee, Herman S. Greise, testified that he resigned last January because the refusal of the bartender to obey orders and operate the place in a respectable manner.

He said that young men had caused disturbances at the dance hall and that when he protested against the manner in which the establishment was run the company, by a motion from the floor, suspended him.

He said his interest in the matter was that the place be operated

Mammoth Power Plant Opened In Albright

McKeldin, Marland Speak At Ceremony

(Special to The News)

ALBRIGHT, W. Va. — Governor Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland and Governor William C. Marland of West Virginia joined with the Potomac Edison Company and the Monongahela Power Company in dedicating a "pulsating giant" of electric power production at Albright, W. Va., yesterday afternoon.

Some 250 guests heard the two governors and R. Paul Smith, president of Potomac Edison, and A. Clinton Spurr, president of Monongahela, declare their faith in the future as the "sister" power companies officially began operation of the mammoth Albright station.

Built as a joint project of Potomac Edison and Monongahela, the plant is located approximately at the point where the territories served by the two companies meet.

Third Unit Being Built

The plant's generating equipment at the present time consists of two identical units, each having a rated capacity of 75,000 kilowatts. One unit belongs to Potomac Edison, the other to Monongahela. Currently under construction is a third unit, to have a capacity of 135,000 kilowatts and this, too, will be owned by Monongahela.

Before the dedication program itself got underway, guests were taken on conducted tours of the plant and given an explanation of how it operates. For instance, one point of information indicated that the plant, when operating at capacity, will consume nearly 140 tons of coal each hour.

The tour itself as well as the words of the speakers pointed up the benefits to be derived from the plant site because of its location adjacent to the waters of the Cheat River and the nearby coal fields of Preston County, thus providing almost within touch the water and fuel needed to operate this steam generating plant.

Electricity from Albright for Potomac Edison customers in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania will come over a recently completed 132,000 volt transmission line. This connects Albright with a new substation at Ridgeley, just across the river from the PE plant at Cumberland, Md.

McKeldin Presents Gifts

At the dedication ceremony, presided over by Carter Withers, superintendent of the Albright station, Judge Melvin C. Snyder of West Virginia's 18th Judicial Circuit, welcomed the power companies to Preston County.

Presidents Spurr and Smith responded with hope that their companies would prove to be good neighbors, and Earle S. Thompson, president of the West Penn Electric Company, Inc., in which PE and Potomac Edison are "sister" organizations, followed a similar theme.

Gov. McKeldin virtually "wowed" the crowd with his oratory and his presentation of gifts to Gov. Marland, Smith and Spurr. To Gov. Marland he presented a picture history, "My Maryland," and to the presidents of the two power companies he gave etchings of Maryland's State House at Annapolis.

The dedication ceremony followed a box luncheon and a concert by the Kingwood High School Band.

Those attending from Cumberland included Charles A. Piper, Owen E. Hitchins and John J. McMullen, members of the PE board of directors, Henry W. Price, PE Cumberland District manager, and Walter T. Kline, manager of the PE Frostburg District.

Lashley Named To Nationwide Loan Committee

Lynn C. Lashley, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland, has been appointed to a select committee of United States Savings and Loan League members established to encourage home ownership among veterans.

The committee is comprised of 100 savings and loan leaders throughout the country, organized to step up GI lending by savings associations in the wake of the recent increase in interest rates on GI loans from 4 to 4½ per cent.

Lashley pointed out that since 1951, in the face of a steadily rising pattern of interest rates, the fixed ceiling of 4 per cent on GI loans had become less attractive to home financing institutions.

The result was that the percentage of GI lending to the total volume of home financing dropped to the lowest level since the close of World War II, Lashley added.

With the recent hike in GI interest rates, he said, the yield on loans has been brought more closely into line with the returns on other investments.

Since the national administration has indicated its desire to keep the GI program a free enterprise plan, Lashley continued, an effort is being made by the savings associations to cooperate in getting the program back on its feet.

Charles L. Clements, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, announced the appointment of Lashley to the special committee.
